

Canada Rejects Plan For World Trade Body

Lists Ways To Aid Nations

(Times News Services)
GENEVA—External Affairs Minister Paul Martin today declared Canada's opposition to a new world trading body, asking instead for the "preservation and development" of basic trade rules and institutions that have been built up since the Second World War.

Speaking as the first representative of the industrialized countries at the world trade and development conference, Martin also listed seven ways in which the richer countries could help the poorer ones—including the abolition of tariffs and other restrictions on tropical foodstuffs and industrial raw materials.

Martin spoke after Raul Prebisch, Argentine United Nations economist and secretary-general of the conference, attacked the "fundamental weakness of the entire postwar" trading structure.

He called for formation of an international trading organization which would have powers to regulate world commerce.

HELP COUNTRIES

Martin's statement outlined ways in which Canada would be willing to join to give developing countries "a better opportunity of competing on terms which would bring into play their natural advantages as efficient producers of certain commodities and manufactures."

He said in general, Canada was opposed to the creation of a new independent world trade organization, and would prefer to adapt the existing machinery—the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade—to make it more responsive to the problems of the developing countries.

Many countries, notably Communist and African ones, want a new international organization to supersede GATT which has been criticized as a "rich countries' club."

Martin said the forthcoming "Kennedy round" of tariff cutting negotiations would "complement the conference."

Martin outlined his seven-point plan in these terms:

1. Canada "will work with other developed countries in eliminating wherever practicable tariffs and other restrictions which obstruct trade in the tropical foodstuffs and industrial raw materials traditionally exported by developing countries."

2. Canada "will work with developing countries and others in trying to improve the conditions of world trade for temperate agricultural products."

3. Products of interest to developing countries, including manufactured and semi-processed materials, should be included in the negotiations without industrialized countries expecting full reciprocity from developing countries for benefits they may derive from these negotiations, Martin said.

4. Canada strongly supports a general removal of quantitative restrictions now impeding imports into developed countries of manufactured goods from developing countries.

5. While approaching the question of references with caution, Canada would be prepared to consider proposals for exchange of regional tariff preferences.

Greek, Turk Cypriots Agree on Mediator

(Times News Services)
GENEVA—Both Greek and Turkish Cypriots today welcomed the nomination of a Finnish diplomat and former premier, Sakari S. Tuomioja as mediator of the Cyprus issue, but said there is no assurance his arrival will ease the existing tension.

Greece, Turkey and Britain also approved Tuomioja. A dispatch from Nicosia said leaders of the Greek-Cypriot and Turkish-Cypriot communities are more concerned now over the role of the UN peace force which is not yet operational.

Archbishop Makarios said the Greek leader has no objection to the naming of Tuomioja to find a political solution. The Turkish leader, Vice-President Fazil Kutchuk, said he welcomed the nomination. UN Secretary-General U Thant needed only their formal approval before making the appointment.

Tuomioja, 52, a veteran economist and Finland's ambassador to Sweden, sat in on Thant's tense negotiations here to find a basis for peace talks between the feuding Cyprus communities.

SPINELLI ARRIVES

Thant's personal representative in Cyprus, Pier Spinelli of Italy, arrived in Geneva early today from Nicosia.

Lt.-Gen. P. S. Gyan of India, the commander of the UN force, flew from Geneva to Cyprus tonight.

In Nicosia, Greek and Turkish-Cypriots completed an exchange of hostages arranged by British authorities.

Turkish Cypriots had said earlier they would hold seven Greek-Cypriots captured Monday from a bus at Louroujina about 5 miles east of Nicosia, until two Turkish-Cypriots were freed by the Greek-Cypriots.

The seven arrived early today at Larnaca and the two Turkish Cypriots were taken home to Louroujina in a British armored car.

Three other Greek Cypriot hostages also were released Monday night.

POLICE BILL

Ontario Minister Resigns

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario legislature voted unanimously Monday night to kill a widely criticized section of the government's police amendment bill.

Immediately afterwards Premier Roberts announced the resignation of Attorney-General Cass who introduced the legislation last Thursday.

The end of the debate saw the Conservatives supporting a New Democratic Party amendment to their own motion.

Members voted 96 to 0 in favor of deleting from the police amendment bill a section that would have empowered the Ontario Police Commission to imprison persons for refusing to testify under oath, and in secret, before the three-man commission.

Attorney-General Cass, after introducing the amendment, had described the powers it would give to the commission as "terrible, dangerous and drastic."

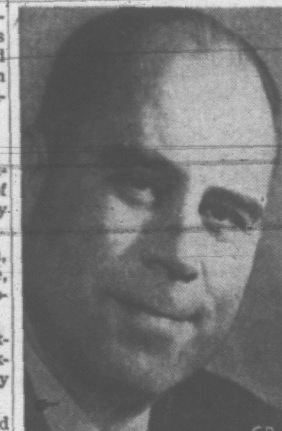

In his letter of resignation to Premier Roberts, he said his comments had "unintentionally touched upon the sensibilities of our people."

'AROUSING CONCERN'

"Having in complete innocence aroused the concern of the people... I do not feel that I wish to continue in this office."

When the legislature began its Monday sitting at 3 p.m., Mr. Roberts said he wanted the bill to be given thorough examination by the legislature's legal bills committee. Members of the police commission and government legal experts would appear before the commission to explain the offensive section of the bill.

Liberal Leader Farquhar Oliver attacked the premier's motion to send the bill to committee.

mittee before giving it second reading. Mr. Oliver said the premier was "afraid to take his chances before the proper tribunal"—the legislature as a whole.

Mr. Oliver moved an amendment to the premier's motion declaring that the government should withdraw the entire bill and replace it with one which did not include Section 14—the one referring to the commission.

Debate on this amendment began shortly after 3:30 p.m. and continued on after the supper break until about 10 p.m. A number of Conservative speakers said they would support the motion to send the bill to committee but would not support Section 14 of the bill in committee.

EXPRESSES SUPPORT

When the vote on the Liberal amendment was called NDP Leader Donald MacDonald introduced a second amendment and Mr. Roberts expressed support for it.

DERANGED TOKYO YOUTH

U.S. Envoy Stabbed

TOKYO (AP)—U.S. Ambassador Edwin O. Reischauer was recovering in a Tokyo hospital tonight from a stab wound in the right thigh inflicted by a Japanese youth who police said was mentally deranged.

Police said the assailant, Norihiko Shiotani, 29, was nearsighted and told them he wanted to protest because the U.S. and Japanese governments did not do enough for people with poor sight.

NEARSIGHTED

The police quoted Shiotani as saying: "I am nearsighted. The reason why Japan has no protective facilities for weak-sighted people is due to bad American occupation policies."

The police said Shiotani had tried unsuccessfully earlier this year to set fire to a U.S. embassy building to advance his crusade.

The police said there apparently was no political motive for the assault.

The thin, sullen-faced youth climbed the embassy wall and plunged a six-inch blade into the 53-year-old ambassador as he came out of the embassy chancery on his way to lunch.

The ambassador was given blood transfusions to compensate for heavy loss of blood.

PUSHED TO FLOOR

John Ferchak, 40, an official in the embassy's commercial section, grabbed Shiotani from the back, pushed him to the floor, forced the knife from his hand, then called for help.

The head of the surgical team that operated on Reischauer, Dr. Ryoji Matsushita, told reporters that unless there were complications, the 3 1/2-inch-deep wound should be healed in two weeks.

Premier Ikeda held an emergency cabinet meeting to discuss the stabbing and then instructed the Japanese ambassador in Washington to convey to President Johnson the government's regret over the attack.

RUNWAY LIGHTS OUT, RCAF HOLDING MAN

MONTREAL (UPI)—The RCAF today were holding an unidentified man who was picked up at the nearby St. Hubert, Que., base Monday night after 14 runway lights were discovered broken.

The air force said that information on the case at this stage was "classified" and the matter was being studied by Defence Minister Heleyer's office in Ottawa. He declined to say whether sabotage was suspected or whether the man was connected in any way with recent acts of terrorism in Quebec.

The man told air force police he had "lost his way" and wandered on to the air base.

Burglars Get $9,000 In PO Money Orders

Blank money orders with a value up to $9,000 were stolen from a Victoria sub-post office overnight Monday.

They were taken in a break-in at A & B Hardware, 650 Burnside West.

The postal money orders were kept in a locked drawer inside a small post office lock-up in the store. The thieves broke into the store by forcing the front door.

Saanich police said a list of the numbers of the money orders will be circulated as soon as possible and meantime warned all merchants to be on guard against cashing them.

The burglars stole the stamp used by the issuing clerk to mark all money orders. Its number is "Vic Sub 30."

TOOK $100

As well as taking the money orders the burglars got away with $100 cash from the post office and three rifles from the store.

The 84-year-old general underwent emergency surgery Monday night at Walter Reed Hospital.

NEW THREATS ON QUEEN 'VICIOUS PROPAGANDA'

Times Ottawa Bureau
OTTAWA—New threats against the life of the queen were described today as "vicious propaganda" by Prime Minister Pearson.

He declared the threats—the latest reportedly have come from members of the "Army For The Liberation of Quebec"—would not force cancellation or postponement of the Queen's scheduled visit to Quebec City this fall.

"It would be shameful to surrender to this kind of minority and vicious propaganda," an angry Mr. Pearson told the Commons.

He was vigorously applauded by MPs on all sides of the house. The question of the threats was raised by Harold Winch (NDP—Vancouver East). He quoted Monday's editions of the Montreal newspaper, Le Devoir, as reporting that some members of the ALQ said the Queen should not visit Canada unless she wanted to become the first British sovereign to die on Quebec soil.

Mr. Winch asked the prime minister if the government was paying special attention to the threats, and whether it had plans for taking complete security measures during the Queen's visit.

The Vancouver MP noted that "just one fanatic" had been successful in assassinating President Kennedy last November.

Mr. Pearson said he had not heard of the latest threat but said he considered it "a very vicious one, but representing only a very small minority of the people of Quebec."

"I am aware that a small minority, even of one, can do a lot of damage," he said. "I can assure the House that when her majesty comes to Canada she will receive every protection possible, and I am sure her visit will be a happy and a safe one."

Sniper's Shot Kills Woman

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—A sniper's bullet killed a Negro woman and three men were wounded by gunfire Monday night.

A shot fired from a passing car brought death to Mrs. Johnnie Mae Chappell, 36, mother of several children.

Near the spot where Mrs. Chappell was killed, a white man was shot in the head. The man, Carlos Gonzalez, 20, of Miami, was reported in satisfactory condition in hospital. Police said another white man was tied to a tree and slashed with razor blades.

A Negro man fired upon three sailors when they drew up to a traffic light. Police said the shot fired from another car injured a white sailor and one of his two Negro companions.

The shootings and at least 10 fire bombings came under cover of darkness while a parade of young Negroes went before city Judge John Sanford and, in most cases, headed for $25 fines and seven-day terms at the city prison farm.

Charges were unlawful assembly against virtually all the 340 defendants, arrested during a day of hit-and-run demonstration and defiance of police orders to disperse.

More than 80 juveniles were taken into custody as well. Those whose parents came from them were handed over. Elsewhere on the racial scene:

proposed that the government motion to refer the bill to committee have a clause added to it instructing the committee to delete Section 14.

Mr. Roberts said he believed that no one who supported the Progressive Conservative party in Ontario wanted Section 14 to remain in the bill.

Mr. Roberts then said: "I am prepared to accept the amendment made by the honorable member for York South (Mr. MacDonald).

The first vote that followed turned down the Liberal amendment by a vote of 70 to 25, with the New Democrats voting with the official opposition. The second vote unanimously passed the NDP amendment.

ACCEPTS RESIGNATION

The attorney-general's letter of resignation then was read by Mr. Roberts. "Mr. Roberts. "Mr. Speaker, with regret and reluctance I have accepted this resignation," he said.

Mr. Cass, 50, a former magistrate, had been attorney-general since October of 1962, when he replaced Kelso Roberts, now lands and forests minister, in the portfolio.

Mr. Cass formerly was minister of municipal affairs. His elevation to attorney-general saw him as government leader in the legislature in the absence of the premier.

A former magistrate in the Eastern Ontario counties of Grenville and Dundas, Mr. Cass first was elected to the legislature in 1955 for the Grenville-Dundas riding. He entered the cabinet as minister of highways in 1958 and was named municipal affairs minister in 1961.

WINNIPEG (CP)—A fierce blizzard eased today after blocking many Manitoba highways and crippling air and road traffic in Winnipeg.

Trans-Canada Air Lines said flights out of the Manitoba capital were scheduled to resume at mid-morning after a complete overnight tieup.

Drifting snow on the runways at International Airport combined with poor visibility caused by blowing snow prevented take-offs or landings.

Winds gusting to 46 miles an hour Monday piled snow into street-blocking drifts in Winnipeg and the air line said it was holding planes for passengers who could not get to the airport.

Rail traffic was moving on time or only slightly late in and out of Winnipeg today.

Buses Stranded In Huge Drifts

Bus routes in the outskirts were clogged with four-foot drifts in many cases and buses were stranded.

The fast-moving spring storm hit southeastern Saskatchewan from Nebraska, on Monday and then moved east across southern Manitoba into northwestern Ontario.

It was falling off at mid-morning today on the prairies, but was still going strong in Northwestern Ontario.

At the height of the blizzard Monday night, one taxi company said only 20 of its 101 cars fleet was able to operate.

A snowplow cleared a path to the home of an expectant mother, Mrs. Walter Kapeluch, when an ambulance was unable to get through to take her to hospital.

U.K. Fights UN Rhodesian Move

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—Over Britain's protests, the UN special committee on colonialism voted overwhelmingly Monday to hand the Southern Rhodesia independence situation to the UN Security Council immediately.

Britain challenged the legal right of the committee to act and refused to participate in the voting.

African, Asian and Communist countries on the committee banded to adopt the resolution, 18 to 6, with five abstentions.

The United States, Italy, Denmark and Australia abstained because of opposition to a number of clauses. Venezuela abstained on the ground that it did not have time to receive instructions from Caracas.

The resolution calls for all UN members to embargo arms and ammunition to the "minority (white) settler government of Southern Rhodesia" and "draws the immediate attention of the Security Council to the explosive situation in Southern Rhodesia, which constitutes a serious threat to international peace and security."

It calls for Britain to hold a constitutional conference to set up universal suffrage to elect an African majority government in Southern Rhodesia as a first step toward independence.

It urges Britain to warn the white minority government of Southern Rhodesia not to declare itself independent in a breakaway movement from Britain.

It also calls for Britain to halt the jailing of political prisoners in Southern Rhodesia.

Details of New Federal Dept. Outlined by Forestry Chief

VANCOUVER (CP)—The federal government's proposed new department of forestry and rural development is going to operate as an independent unit free of agriculture department control. Forestry Minister Maurice Sauve indicated today.

Mr. Sauve, scheduled to take over the new portfolio when it is created, described it as "an autonomous new department which would have either one or two deputy ministers, one for forestry and the other for rural development."

He listed some of the responsibilities to be taken over by the department and said they were "activities which were formerly the direct responsibility of the minister of agriculture." Plans to set up the new department were announced in January by Prime Minister Pearson. It would replace the government's previous plan to have two ministers of agriculture, one for the west and one for the east.

Speaking to the annual meeting of the British Columbia Lumber Manufacturers' Association, Mr. Sauve reaffirmed that his new portfolio will include direction of the Agricultural Rehabilitation and Development Act (ARDA), the Maritime Marshland Rehabilitation Act and the program for freight

More Staff, Money Needed for Perpetual Yield

(Times reporter Peter Loudon, in a six-part series, takes a look at British Columbia's sustained yield forestry policy; how it has worked since it began 17 years ago, and what future prospects appear to be.)

By PETE LOUDON
(Part Six)

One of the busiest legislative committees for the past two sessions of the legislature here has been the forestry committee.

A continuing problem has been the sharing among logging operators of the standing timber in sustained yield units throughout the province.

Loudon

A sustained yield unit, formerly known as a public working circle, is an area of timberland set aside for use by independent operators who lack the resources to capably maintain a tree farm.

The British Columbia forest service is responsible for the replanting of the forests behind the loggers and for the fire protection and protection of trees against insects and decay. The forest service also maintains an inventory of the timber in the SYU and sets an allowable cut which ensures that annual growth exceeds the depletion of the forest—and that there will be more trees for future generations in perpetuity.

When the SYUs were set up, operators who had previously taken timber from the area were given sole opportunity to apply for future sales.

In some SYUs the operators had been cutting trees faster than new growth could replace the harvest and allowable cuts were reduced as much as 40 per cent from previous totals.

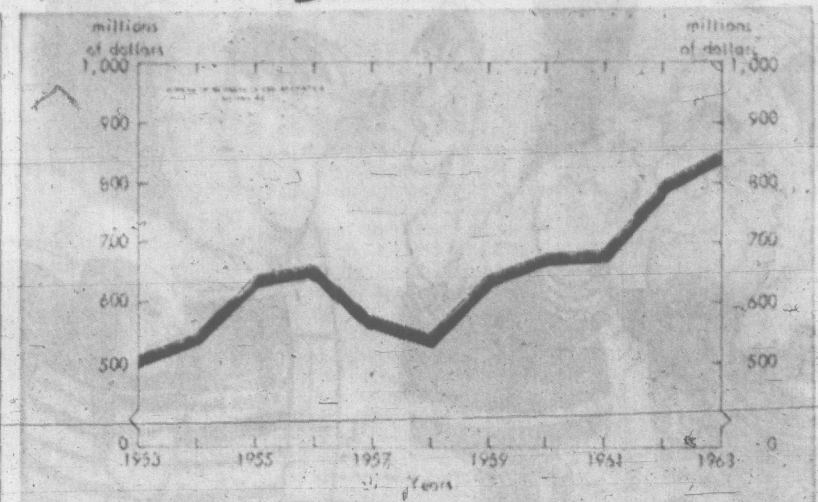

This in itself caused problems which could only be solved as operators found sources for logs outside the SYU on private holdings, or as the bigger operators swallowed the smaller ones.

Those who survived were given quotas based on their past productions. This permitted an operator to apply for new timber stands in the SYU to the extent of his quota. When they were made available however, the quota holder still had to bid for the timber in a public auction.

And it soon became apparent that loggers could be put out of business by the bidding system. Most operators don't face any competition when they bid. After all, they're in the neighborhood with their equipment. The unopposed operators are able to get their timber at a set price—that is the appraised price set by the forest service.

Spite Bidding

But in some cases operators were beset by outsiders. Some of them would bid up a sale out of spite. Some would bid against the operator who asked for the sale, in order to speculate on a profitable resale. Some were inexperienced, stupid bidders who didn't know what they were making for themselves. Every time an operator lost a sale, he lost a little bit of his quota. The quota went with the sale. In time he could be bid right out of business.

One answer was a system of sealed bids which contrived to give the operator a chance to meet the highest bid. This discouraged outsiders but didn't eliminate them.

In many SYUs operators banded together to outbid newcomers, employing methods frowned upon by the forest service and supporters of free competition. And last month the operators, in a joint brief to the legislature submitted by seven lumbermen's organizations, asked that in fully-committed public working circles, only established operators be permitted to bid. And in other areas, they said, the minister should have discretionary power in the award of the sale, hoping for his favor.

Closed Shop?

But should the government make any regulations which would in effect make the sustained yield units a closed shop for established operators?

At time of writing, the problem is unresolved, although new legislation introduced last week may help discourage irresponsible bidding. The minister of forests may now set a bidding fee for non-quota holders. The fee would be returned to the successful bidder. The spite bidder would be out-of-pocket.

The forest service's dream of perpetual yield in all B.C. forests hits another snag in the field of replanting areas which have been logged—we are not up to schedule.

Despite the great increase in our harvest, the total number of trees planted in the last decade is only slightly larger than in the decade previous.

On the average we have planted about 14 million trees annually on TFL and crown grant lands. Based on estimates by the late forestry commissioner Gordon Sloan, the figure should be closer to 20 million if we are to catch up on the wasted areas that accumulated in the days before sustained yield was practiced.

Planting Lags

Replanting in interior regions has never been adequate and isn't likely to be until forest protection is increased in those areas, according to forestry branch officials.

The amount spent on reforestation by the province in 1947 was $468,000. Last year the total had only reached $591,000 or an increase of 26 per cent in 16 years.

But in that period wages, the greatest part of replanting costs, increased 2.6 times. The 1963 vote should have been doubled to make an equivalent effort. Instead of spending $591,000 we should have spent $1,182,000 if we just wanted to stay even.

The forest service is filled with devoted foresters and technicians who deeply feel the need for a more intensified effort by the government. But like the better publicized employees of the welfare branch of government, they say they can't do more without more staff and more money.

Staff Shortage

In a recent speech to an industrial group, Deputy Minister of Forests R. G. McKee recalled that 10 years ago there were eight million acres under sustained yield regulation and today the figure has grown to 56.7 million. This is an increase of over 600 per cent.

But in the same period the number of government foresters has increased only 23 per cent—from 140 to 175.

"We can't get into more intensified forestry without more government foresters," he said. He said when he joined the service in 1924 there were eight forest districts and now there are only five district foresters in charge of five districts, one of them as large as the State of California.

He summed up: "I must make one point very clear, although we have made strides in regulation of cut, we have not yet scratched the surface of intensive forestry here in British Columbia. It will require a great deal more effort in time and money than we have been able to put into the task to date."

More Districts

Among the unfulfilled recommendations of 1956 Sloan report is one suggesting that the province should be divided into 10 forest districts. And there is another which says if B.C. is to attain the degree of forest management now in effect in Washington and Oregon, the province will require an additional 1,750 trained foresters by 1976.

VOLTAGE TESTED

'Juice' Adequate in City

City electrical engineer Kenneth Reid Monday said he has not seen any signs that B.C. Hydro is supplying too little voltage to city power lines.

"Our underground wiring system is rated at 120 volts but we actually receive 122 to 123 volts on the average," he said. "I also tested my voltage at home some time ago during some research on light bulb life and that also was higher than the rating."

FASTER SHAVE

He was asked about Victoria voltage supply following charges by Vancouver Mayor William Rathie that B.C. Hydro only delivered 100 volts to the 110-volt system in his house.

Mayor Rathie had his house wiring checked after he noticed that his electric shaver worked much faster during a recent visit to Hawaii.

Mr. Reid said it was possible that voltage—a term for measuring pressure at which electricity is supplied—could fall if a transformer was defective or overloaded by construction of new houses in the neighborhood.

But he pointed out that electrical bills are determined by the actual quantity of electricity consumed as measured by the house meter and not by voltage.

However, Mayor Rathie contended that fluctuations in voltage could result in less efficient operation of machinery which could be considered a cost by industry. He also said his own time was worth something and a slow electric razor could waste several minutes.

The Horse Traders

THE FULL STORY OF THE deal by which the provincial government acquired property for parks purposes fronting on Rathrevor Beach, near Parksville, in a swap for timber in Wells Gray Park has yet to be told.

Enough has been disclosed by Mr. Alan Macfarlane's investigations, however, to shock the public and leave it wondering what kind of horse-trading can go on in such arrangements.

On the last day of the session Mr. Macfarlane learned from the minister of recreation and conservation — who received the information, oddly enough, from the minister of highways — that British Columbia had granted the extra-provincial Clearwater Timber Products Ltd. authority to harvest $186,000 worth of timber from Wells Gray Park, in Mr. Gagliardi's constituency. This was the amount arranged in the order-in-council passed on October 3 last year.

Four days later, Mr. Macfarlane said, the sale of the Rathrevor Beach property was registered in the name of Clearwater Timber Products Ltd. as purchaser, for $150,000.

Did this mean that the Clearwater company, dickering with the government for Wells Gray timber, merely held an option to purchase the Rathrevor property and exercised it only when the order-in-council closed the deal for the parks timber, with somebody apparently making an immediate $36,000 profit?

This is only part of the story, of course. It remains to be seen what the company gets in the way of timber at the astonishingly low price of $1.50 per hundred cubic feet of fir and $1.20 per hundred cubic feet of other species.

There are so many ifs, ands and buts in this arrangement that

Mr. Macfarlane was absolutely right in pointing to the abuses such exchange deals invite. To avoid these uncertainties he has advanced the very sound argument that if the government is going to buy park lands, it should buy them for cash, and if the government is going to sell timber in parks—a most questionable policy—it should also sell for cash.

In the deal under discussion, it should be noted that the amount allocated by the government as the value of bargain-priced timber was equivalent to the highest appraisal made on the Rathrevor property—a figure $36,000 above that paid to the Rath family by the private purchaser who acquired it to make good his swap. And the unit price of timber is one that should be examined in relation to prices charged in sales in the general area.

It is true, of course, that a road will have to be built to reach the region for cutting and that the road will probably be expensive. In charges assessed by the government against loggers, that factor is taken into consideration.

At this point in the proceedings, it appears that someone made a tidy 24 per cent profit on the exchange—and it wasn't the people of British Columbia.

When such cream can be skimmed from the public, the need of a tight provincial parks act is obvious. Perhaps now that Mr. Kiernan has been divested of the exploitation-oriented portfolio of mines and petroleum resources, he may profitably turn his attention to the preservation of provincial park assets for the present and future generations. The Rathrevor deal should have provided him with a short, sharp lesson in why he should keep out of the park swapping business entirely.

A Chink In Mr. Wilson's Armour

A FEW MONTHS AGO, EVEN a relatively few weeks ago, Britain's Labor Party seemed to be enjoying a fair wind on which to sail into office in the next general election. So said the polls late last year.

But the wind has apparently changed in recent times, diverted by the perplexing inter-party problems of defence in Britain. The Labor Party is apparently still united under the leadership of Mr. Harold Wilson—united as he made it with skilful emphasis on the left, though not to the point where it jeopardized the allegiance of the right within the party's ranks.

This was a change from the position established by Mr. Wilson's predecessor, the late Mr. Hugh Gaitskell. Mr. Gaitskell had trimmed down the left in a drive for moderation that required courage and perseverance. He bent the extreme to his will.

Now political strategists of the Conservative Party have seized upon Labor's position in respect to the bomb—Labor's apparent willingness to yield absolute control over Britain's own weapon. If, says a reported whispering campaign stimulated by the Tories, Labor would give up the bomb, will it next give up control of the British navy?

The whispers are very probably unfair. At the same time they could be effective not merely in alarming the uncommitted voter, but in driving a wedge between the right and the left in the Labor Party. The result could be a substantial reduction in the odds on Labor at the next election, odds which heavily favored the socialists when the pollsters were busy at the end of 1963.

Before the election is called, however, many other factors could be added to the situation, including a renewed effort by the Labor Party to divert public attention once more to domestic issues rather than foreign policy.

Mr. Betancourt's Survival

ON OCCASIONS—AND THEY are frequent enough—Canadians and British Columbians express their distress over the acrimony displayed by opposing parties in Parliament and in the legislature.

It is desirable that the public should keep an eye on elected representatives and that opinion should be expressed, when needed, criticizing unseemly vituperation and unwarranted hostility.

But while Canadians and British Columbians are alive to this need, they might also look a little farther afield to appreciate the comparative restraint with which public business is conducted in this nation.

They might profitably note that in Caracas recently a new president, Raul Leoni, took office following a history-making term for retired president Romulo Betancourt. Mr. Betancourt made history because, among other accomplishments, he was the first president of Venezuela to serve out a full five-year constitutional term and turn over the presidency to his successor in an orderly transition.

Part of the "orderliness" resulted from strict controls exercised by the Betancourt regime over Communists and Castroites through such measures as that of barring extreme leftists from last December's elections.

Comparisons may be invidious, but when Canadians and British Columbians become annoyed by outbursts of intemperate language and displays of anger in their legislative halls, they may usefully remember procedures in other parts of this hemisphere—procedures which make it an historic event when a Venezuelan president survives his five-year term with the aid of very careful security measures.

Bustin' Out All Over

VICTORIANS FOLLOWED traditional patterns to mark the official opening of spring. Some enjoyed their regular golf. Sunday drivers moved around the waterfront almost bumper to bumper through a bright afternoon to see the daffodils blooming in Beacon Hill Park and in private gardens. And the home-owner was busy cutting lawns, weeding borders, setting plants, and putting in seed.

They saw the swollen buds on the chestnuts burst their shreds, wildflowers unfold on sunny hill-sides, and, offshore, sailboats expanding their season—which never ends—with more canvases gleaming above sparkling water.

Those of our citizens who came from Manitoba were heartened to note that Sunday's high in Winnipeg was 26—only 13 degrees under Victoria's low, while in Calgary the mercury dropped to 18 below zero, two above Edmonton.

The comparisons left the good-hearted here hoping daffodil drops in various parts east of the Rockies would not be taken there as an indication of Victoria's smugness. We just want to share our good fortune.

FROM WASHINGTON

By JOSEPH ALSOP

But the SAMS Remain in Cuba

UNLESS a great many important signs are totally misleading, Nikita S. Khrushchev will hand over his surface-to-air missiles in Cuba to Fidel Castro on or about May 1. The principal signs are simple enough.

On the one hand, the Soviets established a most elaborate training program over a year ago. Thus, they have now prepared Cubans to take over all levels of management of the highly complex air defence system which was put into Cuba just before the abortive attempt to deploy Soviet ballistic missiles on the island.

On the other hand, the Soviets have more recently been making fairly obvious preparations for the withdrawal of their own personnel. The most advanced and secret equipment of the radar warning net has been replaced already with equipment of an earlier type, no doubt for reasons of security.

Transport vessels are also being provided to bring home the Soviet officers and men who now staff the entire SAM air defence system. When this final withdrawal is completed during April, the Soviet mission in Cuba will almost certainly total less than 2,000 men—probably around 1,500 in all, or approximately the number required to staff this country's London embassy and its annexes.

For all practical purposes, this is the end of the story of the Soviet military presence in Cuba. At the peak, during the desperate missile crisis in October, 1962, the Kremlin had in Cuba something like 15,000 men in uniform, or men at any rate who would have worn uniform if they had been on duty at home in Russia.

By May 1, no Soviet soldiers will be left there, except for a small military mission or advisory group. The majority of the Soviet element in Cuba will then be embassy personnel, agronomists and other technicians aiding Cuban agriculture and industry and members of the Kremlin trade mission.

This ending of the story of the Soviet military presence in Cuba is almost overkill in irony, it must also be added. That presence never constituted the smallest offensive threat to this country, except for the brief and breathless period in October, 1962, before President Kennedy coolly called Khrushchev's bluff and the half-installed ballistic missiles were hastily removed.

American Reaction

Yet even after the ballistic missiles were shipped back to Russia, and even after the Soviet force in Cuba began to be conspicuously reduced, the mere fact of this Soviet military presence only 90 miles from our shores outraged and alarmed vast numbers of Americans. But what is the American reaction now that the last Soviet soldiers in Cuba on operational assignments are soon to go home?

A surge of scarcely concealed anxiety is the reaction, at any rate among the more thoughtful officials in Washington. The truth is that although it was unpleasant to think of Soviet soldiers deployed in Cuba, it is even less pleasant to think of Castro's Cubans doing the same jobs.

The whole island is dotted with SAMs—the Soviet surface-to-air missiles which are capable of shooting down American U-2s. U.S. air reconnaissance of Cuba by regular U-2 flights meanwhile continues, and President Johnson will certainly not wish to stop this air reconnaissance just because the SAMS have been handed over to Castro.

Thus, two questions are agitating the American policy-makers. The first is whether the handover will be complete or will merely be apparent. It is entirely possible for the Kremlin to give operational control of the entire defence system to the Cubans, while retaining an electronic key that would prevent any SAMS being fired at U-2s without Soviet consent.

But has this electronic key been retained by the Soviets, with all its inherent risk of affronting the touchy and emotional Cuban dictator?

No one knows the real answer to the question of the key, but the current betting is that there will be no Soviet key and that Castro will therefore get full control of the SAMS.

That leads to the second question, whether Castro will tolerate the continuing U-2 reconnaissance or will order his SAMS into action after he gains control of them. There is no doubt that the Kremlin wants Castro to go on looking the other way when the U-2s come over Cuba, but will he actually do so?

Most policy-makers are convinced that Castro will be prudent. In that case there is no likelihood that the effective liquidation of the Soviet military presence in Cuba will be the immediate prelude to still another breathless Cuban crisis. But there is some nagging anxiety all the same, and herein lies the central irony.

In the Opinion of Our Correspondents

Bribing With Own Money

I would like to express my appreciation to the Times for the stand which you have taken to preserve the parks of British Columbia. It is an endeavor worthy of every individual or organization interested in retaining as much as possible of our natural heritage for ourselves and for our offspring.

The present move by the government to preserve parts of class A parks as wilderness, when original orders-in-council stipulated these whole areas as wilderness, is familiar to residents of British Columbia. It is a variation on the theme of bribing the voter with his own money.

Once more, my thanks for your efforts on behalf of the parks and my request that they continue.

"S.D."

Enough

At this time most of the building trades mechanics, carpenters, electricians, painters, etc., are negotiating for an increase of rates of wages. As usual the people who pay the shot are not represented at these negotiations.

Labor and management alone decide the increase but I would warn both labor and management the public will pass sure and final judgment after the settlement. Large projects must pay whatever increase is demanded but small projects, domestic and business which supply the bulk of the work, have already reached the limit of their ability to pay.

How many union carpenters for instance are employed in house building compared to non-union? How many carpenters are presently unemployed although house construction is booming? How many union carpenters are employed in house repairs or alterations? This work has been priced out of reach and owners have been forced to turn to non-union help, do-it-yourself, or just not have the work done. Thus carpenters who work customarily only on large jobs will be in favor of an increase. Those whose work is on small jobs constantly shrinking in volume should give thought to their position. Aluminum windows, metal and pre-built cabinets, elimination of doors and baseboards, etc., all point to the fact that the carpenters' work is steadily shrinking.

In the meantime, demands are still blindly (and I use the word advisedly) being made in an industry already very much out of line with the average wage earner. I have had plenty of first-hand experience of the impact of too high costs on the volume of work in the last few years on small jobs. It is time to think.

Back to the Stocks

To add to the growing list of idiotic vandalism committed over the recent weekend (and it seems every weekend) is the following:

Horse riders on the trails of the Victoria Riding Academy at Cedar Hill Cross Road found a mass of broken liquor bottles deliberately spread across the trail, making it impossible to ride through without injuring the horses' feet. The riders had to procure shovels to clean off the broken glass. Evidence of drinking parties is nearly always to be seen on these trails. Bottles are thrown out on the riding trails. This is bad enough but do the idiotic morons have to smash them? Is the same on the beaches.

Well may Magistrate Ostler ask two of these fine specimens of our young manhood, caught in so-called pranks: "You're not mentally deficient, are you?"

Not so long ago on a foggy morning two manhole covers on the sidewalk on our street were carted away by so-called pranksters, leaving two death traps. And there is an elderly ladies' home on that street. The ladies had to pass by these death traps. My remedy would be to put these brainless idiots, when caught, into the old-fashioned stocks at the site of the benches.

Funeral Costs

Jessica Mitford, in her recent book "The American Way of Death," has exposed the funeral business as, to a large extent, a racket in which some morticians take cruel advantage of bereaved families in their sorrow, by making exorbitant charges for burial of a loved one. The book has created a wide commotion, and is a best seller.

Perhaps we had better say that while the public is excited, the funeral directors have greeted it with the "silence of the grave."

It is high time the public should be aroused on the matter, but if might well find itself as much to blame as the undertaker, for excessive funeral costs of the public display of endearment which was non-existent in private.

Regardless of the high costs, the undertaker has found at least one defender in the person of Dr. George Crane, the Chicago physician and omniscient newspaper columnist. Speaking in Cleveland the other day, Crane pooh-poohed the idea that funeral costs are too high. "The Bible says to honor thy father and thy mother," he admonished, "and when a parent is graduated from this classroom called earth—the planetary classroom in the cosmic school of the Almighty—$750 is a cheap enough graduation service."

Crane was careful to omit the fact that the costs are very often much higher than that. And he didn't stress the fact that his speech was sponsored by the Funeral Directors' Association.

The Unitarian Church of Victoria deserves support in its efforts to bring down the "Cost of Dying" by advocating membership in the Memorial Society of British Columbia.

Castle Society Donors

There was in The Times of recent date a report on Craigdarroch Castle, in which I was quoted as saying "it is very difficult to get money out of businesses that cater to and fatten on the tourist industry."

This is generally correct, but there are exceptions. The Castle Society has the following sustaining members, at $25 a year each: Miss Kathleen Agnew, Mr. and Mrs. James G. P. Audain, B.C. Telephone Company, Butchart Gardens, Douglas Hotel, Mrs. Jay I. Durand, T. Eaton Company, Empress Hotel, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Harman, Hudson's Bay Company, Island Tug and Barge Company, Lund's Auctioneers, Mr. and Mrs. W. Lloyd Morgan, Oak Bay Beach Hotel, Hon. Frank Mackenzie Ross, Mrs. Frank Mackenzie Ross, Royal London Wax Museum, Vancouver Island Coach Lines, Victoria Press Limited, Mrs. Norma Pendray Wilson, Victoria section of British Columbia Historical Association, tourist industry group of Victoria Chamber of Commerce, George Strath Limited, Home Furniture Company.

From this list it can be seen that very few of these members are directly interested in the tourist business.

In the last two months The Castle Society has written personal letters to 35 firms having to do with the tourist industry. Five responded.

Sharp Check On Protection

By MAURICE WESTERN

MR. MITCHELL SHARP has moved quickly to correct the widespread impression created by his colleague, the minister of finance, that Canada will adopt a cautiously protectionist approach at the forthcoming trade and tariff negotiations of the Kennedy Round.

At a press conference in Hamilton Mr. Sharp pointed out that a rigid stand would be unwise and difficult to maintain and that "if we want to gain advantages, we shall have to make concessions."

The conventions of cabinet solidarity being what they are, the minister of trade and commerce naturally took the line that the interpretations placed upon Mr. Gordon's remarks by various manufacturers were not justified.

Western

Matter of Opinion

This, of course, is a matter of opinion. It is not remarkable that the budget speech induced some wishful thinking on the part of tariff-minded industrialists because Mr. Gordon placed no emphasis on the opportunities afforded by the negotiations—concentrating instead upon four "considerations" which might very well tie the hands of our trade negotiators.

Whatever Mr. Gordon's intentions may have been, the interpretation placed upon his remarks is a matter of record. A typical comment was that of Mr. C. E. Hipp of Canadian General Electric Company who found in the budget speech "an indication that Canada will take a hard line in the negotiations. There has been too much talk that tariff reductions in themselves will increase exports and not enough recognition of the damage that lower tariffs could do to secondary manufacturing industries."

Mr. Hipp's interpretation (although not his comment) was echoed by Mr. H. C. McKendrick, general manager of the Canadian Exporters Association. He thought that the principles enunciated were restrictive and complained that Mr. Gordon "talks with a different tongue than Trade Minister Mitchell Sharp."

One would suppose that the protectionist lobbies in Ottawa were perfectly capable of making their cases for themselves; certainly they are not lacking in experience.

Mask of Respectability

Mr. Gordon is open to the criticism that he has armed them in advance with arguments, based allegedly upon the national interest, which can be used to cover selfish interests with a mask of respectability. It is not so many years since Canadian producers were alarmed by the campaign of American competitors to shut out various products, including oil, from the United States in the famed interests of "national security."

The reassuring fact, from the standpoint of exporters, is that Canadian trade negotiators in the Kennedy Round will be responsible directly to Mr. Sharp who has always regarded the talks as a great opportunity for an attack on tariff barriers and the further expansion of international trade.

Gerald Waring

... REPORTING

OTTAWA — The smooth teamwork of Foreign Minister Martin and Defence Minister Hellyer in getting the Cyprus operation launched is the way defence and external affairs get along these days.

Probably the teamwork is closer than it ever was before. Certainly it's a far cry from the pole-sit situation under the Tory regime, when the anti-nuclear foreign minister, Howard Green, and the pro-nuclear defence minister, Douglas Harkness, were in complete disagreement.

Mr. Hellyer accepts the need to base defence policies on foreign policies. Before he began working on his much-touted White Paper on Canada's new defence posture—which likely will be presented to Parliament this week, perhaps later today—Hellyer got from Martin a comprehensive expostulation of foreign policy both now and as far as it could be projected into the future.

Harkness too was not insensible to the need for this commonsense approach, but he never had a chance to use it because while Prime Minister Diefenbaker committed Canada to nuclear weapons systems, Foreign Minister Green successfully opposed action by Harkness to carry out those commitments.

Foreign and defence experts agree that the least likely war in the next decade is all-out nuclear war, because it would destroy both sides. Martin and Prime Minister Pearson put great faith in the UN as the world's peacekeeper, and they foresee Canada being called upon again and again to help extinguish brush-fire wars all over the globe.

Therefore Hellyer is laying out a 10-year program that will give Canada a mobile, flexible, integrated defence force that can fill our NATO commitments and meet other needs—everything from brush fires down to police work—as these needs arise and wherever they arise.

This is a radical departure from the inflexible defence concepts foisted upon previous governments by the military brass. Hitherto our defence posture has been determined mainly by our highly-specialized weapons systems: interceptors, destroyer escorts, Bomarc and a ground-stuck army. And, too importantly, by economic considerations: weapons made in Canada provide jobs.

The day the cabinet approved participation in the Cyprus operation, it also gave quick approval to Hellyer's request for $55 millions to buy 16 Hercules transport planes in the U.S.

The RCAF has four Hercules doing herculean duty on the Cyprus airlift, but it needs more. The 16 likely would have been bought, but later, had this crucial need not arisen.

The RCAF also has 12 Yukons, the military version of the British Bristol Britannia made by Canadian Ltd. of Montreal. Five cannot be used effectively on the Cyprus run because they are only passenger planes. The seven being used cannot compare with the Hercules in performance. Or in price: the Yukons cost $6 million each plus $3 millions each in development costs borne by the government. The Hercules are $3.4 millions each.

Another lack is a long-range multi-purpose attack and support aircraft like the U.S. F-4. With this plane and the Hercules our forces would have a new look, a jack-of-all-trades and Johnny-on-the-spot capability needed in the role of what Martin called "policemen of peace."

REPUBLICANS FRUSTRATED

Rough, Tumble Speeches Frowned on

By JACK BELL

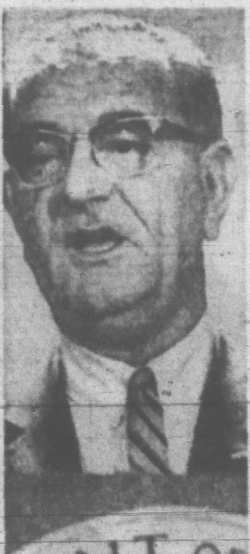

WASHINGTON (AP) — How "non-political" can a U.S. president get when he is assured of his party's nomination and obviously wants two elective terms if he can wangle them?

That's a question that has Republicans fretting as they watch President Johnson's "non-partisan" efforts to keep politics on a low key a little more than seven months before the November presidential election.

Johnson has passed the word to Democrats of all persuasions to avoid rough and tumble campaign as much as possible until after the party's August nominating convention.

His need for Republican support to win final congressional action on acceptable civil rights legislation has contributed toward his current speak-softly policy.

Linked to this, as explained by a close associate, is the president's feeling that things are going along well for him now and it makes no sense to rock the boat.

JOHNSON passes the word

STUDIES MOOD

It is Johnson's judgment that the people, who took some time to recover from the shock of President Kennedy's assassination, are in no mood yet for political barnstorming. The failure of Senator Barry Goldwater of Arizona and New York Governor Nelson Rockefeller to stir any widespread enthusiasm for their candidacies in New Hampshire's Republican primary tended to confirm his opinion.

Johnson has a long record of declining to engage in political debate just to keep his voice in shape.

While he served as minority leader of the Senate, he consistently refused to join in Democratic broadsides against Republican President Dwight D. Eisenhower. The Texas senator didn't think there was any political percentage in flailing away at a popular president.

Now that he is occupying the job Eisenhower once held, Johnson obviously is trying to create the image of an executive who stands a cut above the politics-as-usual level. He thinks that was one of the secrets of Eisenhower's wide popularity.

Even when he speaks before a partisan crowd, as he did at a fund-raising party rally recently, Johnson lets the opposition off with some mild flbes about their "divisions and diversions."

ASTHMA & WHEEZING COUGH
If you cough, wheeze, and find it hard to breathe and sleep because of attacks of Asthma or Cough, you can get quick relief by taking your doctor's prescription for AZMO-TABS. A course of AZMO-TABS treatment usually quickly thins, loosens and helps remove sticky, choking phlegm that makes you cough and wheeze and is short of breath. Then you can sleep better, breathe free and enjoy life. Get AZMO-TABS today, feel better fast. Advl.

Republicans have found all this pretty frustrating. Johnson purloined one of their chief issues when he announced he was cutting spending and intended to run a "frugal" government. His anti-poverty program has been difficult to oppose without seeming to appear callous toward the needy.

THE LIGHTER SIDE

By DICK WEST

It Was Like, Electric

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Although still in its infancy, the 1964 presidential campaign already has provided us with a number of suspense-packed moments.

Who, for instance, can forget the way the tension built up while we were waiting for Gov. Nelson Rockefeller to tell us whether he would be a candidate for the Republican nomination?

By the time Rockefeller finally tipped his hand, revealing that he had decided in the affirmative, the tension was so thick you could have cut it with a sledge hammer.

Our nerves were still taut when Sen. Barry Goldwater put us on tenterhooks again. Remember that day when he called GOP leaders in Arizona together to disclose his decision?

It was so quiet you could have heard a bomb drop. I imagine that even the Rockefeller forces felt relieved when the word finally came that Goldwater, too, had decided in the affirmative. Anything is better than uncertainty.

After two nail-biting periods like that, I thought it was rather unkind of astronaut John Glenn to make us go through it all again.

Glenn, as you know, recently resigned from the space program and flew to Ohio to inform the voters whether he would become a Democratic senatorial candidate.

West

Although it didn't have as much suspense as a presidential announcement, we nonetheless held our breaths until Glenn divulged that he, likewise, had decided in the affirmative.

Being all keyed up by these cliff-hangers, I naturally was set a-tinkling by a notice that Harold E. Stassen would hold a news conference here this week to "announce plans and intentions for 1964."

This time I couldn't even wait to get the news off the ticker. I rushed right over to the auditorium and sat there on the edge of a chair until he unveiled his decision.

I'll say this for Stassen: He didn't add to our torment by waiting until the end of his nine-page statement to expose what was up his sleeve.

In the second sentence of the fourth paragraph, he took us off of pins and needles by disclosing that, as regards running for the GOP presidential nomination, his decision was in the affirmative.

Stassen, who lost a bid for the nomination in 1948, unsuccessfully tried to dump Richard M. Nixon from the 1956 ticket, and then was defeated in gubernatorial and mayoralty races, thus removed any lingering doubts about his comeback attempt.

A lot of people were convinced that he would be a candidate, but weren't certain which office he would seek.

Six Top Musicians, Educators Coming

By AUDREY JOHNSON

Nearly 700 school teachers and selected students from all over British Columbia will begin flowing into Victoria March 31 to take part in music instruction and performance sessions at Victoria High School April 1, 2 and 3.

The occasion is the first of what is hoped will be annual conferences sponsored by the B.C. Music Educators' Association, a specialist association of the B.C. Teachers' Federation.

SIX LEADERS

Also coming as conference lecturers are six outstanding musicians and music educators.

They are headed by Reginald Kell, internationally known clarinet soloist and teacher. Mr. Kell, who at age 25 was the youngest professor on record at London's Royal Academy of Music and at 33 was elected a Fellow of the Academy, has been first clarinet with the Royal Philharmonic, London Philharmonic, Covent Garden Orchestra and Toscanini International Orchestra at Lucerne.

He has appeared as soloist in every state except Hawaii and in every province of Canada.

Others are Miss Doreen Hall who first introduced to North America the Carl Orff method of pre-instrumental training for children. Dr. Frank E. Gamble, associate professor, faculty of education, University of British Columbia, a specialist in the use of the recorder, and Miss Lois

PLANS for the first conference to be held by B.C. Music Educators' Association are being wrapped up here by a committee of Victoria music educators. From left, they are, Howard Denike, Miss Lorna Griffiths, Harry Bigsby (chairman), Gray, vocal specialist from Chicago.

NEW METHODS

Purpose of the conference is to bring new methods to the attention of music teachers as well as concrete help

Miss Charlotte Kay, Rod Sample and John Boel. Conference will take place April 1, 2, 3, at Victoria High School, expects an influx of 700 teachers and students to attend clinics, lectures, and take part in concerts at Memorial Arena.

Sessions will be conducted by visiting specialists from Washington State.

In addition the approximately 375 students selected from provincial centres will attend clinics in band, orchestra and choral work.

State College; orchestra, Vilem Sokol, University of Washington; choir, Dr. Wayne Hertz, Central State.

PUBLIC CONCERTS

Two public concerts will be given at Memorial Arena. Host night, Thursday, April 2, will feature massed choirs, orchestras and bands from Greater Victoria schools and dance numbers from Lansdowne Junior Secondary, Oak Bay Junior and Uplands Elementary.

All numbers will be conducted by city teachers.

On Friday, April 3, the theme of the conference, "Youth in Harmony" will be demonstrated in an all-province concert at the arena.

A splendid program has been selected for this concert in which out-of-town students will combine in a composite symphony orchestra (conducted by Vilem Sokol), choir (conducted by Dr. Hertz), and a band with Mr. Christiansen on the podium.

CITY COMPOSERS

Two Victoria composers are represented in the two programs.

Concluding the host night concert will be March of the Seasons, specially written for the conference by Dr. C. L. Lambertson of the University of Victoria.

Dr. Lambertson has also provided words so that his composition will be performed by massed bands, orchestras and choirs, conducted by Harry Bigsby, director of music for Greater Victoria Schools and chairman of the conference.

Another march, "Canadian Landscape," by Capt. James M. Gayfer, is included in the all-province concert.

Expert Sees Drought

VERNON (CP) — A soils specialist from the federal research station at Summerland predicts a water shortage in the Okanagan Valley in the next 10 years unless growers take steps now to prevent it.

Dr. J. C. Wilcox told the B.C. Association of Irrigation Districts annual convention here Sunday serious consideration had to be given to the diversion of water from the Shuswap Lake watershed to Okanagan Lake.

"But if you want it in 10 years you'll have to ask for it now," he said.

New Home Bonus Extension Due In Some Areas

OTTAWA (CP) — The government is considering a request for extension beyond March 31 of the winter house-building bonus in areas where labor shortages have delayed construction. Labor Minister MacEachen informed the Commons Monday.

Replying to Jean-Pierre Cote (L-Longueuil), he said a request by the National House-Builders' Association is being studied "with a possible view to extending some relief in this situation."

Red Chinese Troop Buildup On India Border

DARJEELING (AP)—Tibetan refugees who crossed into India a few days ago reported seeing a heavy influx of Communist Chinese troops into the Chumbi Valley facing the Northeast Indian frontier.

There was no indication in Darjeeling whether the reported troop movements were routine following the onset of spring weather or were intended to build up tension.

In New Delhi, a defence ministry spokesman said the government is aware of Chinese concentrations on other sectors of the border but had no information of any troop movements in the Chumbi Valley. The spokesman said the concentrations were spotted in the north-west in the Ladakh area several weeks ago.

The Chumbi Valley part of Tibet, points south like a dagger at the Indian frontier between the tiny kingdom of Sikkim, which is an Indian protectorate, and Bhutan, another small kingdom whose foreign affairs are handled by India.

A march 20 miles southward would put the Chinese on the Indian border.

EASY AIR seems order as two Havana women, militia girls for four hours a week, do guard duty outside factory in Havana. They had no objection about smiling for "capitalist" West German photographer. AMUSING CHILD'S GAME

Soviet Influence Grows in Cuba

How Cuba looks to a European visitor is reported in this dispatch from one of a group of West German tourists who spent three weeks on the island. The writer is a picture editor in the Frankfurt bureau of The Associated Press.

By PETER HILLEBRECHT
HAVANA (AP)—A cool north-west wind sweeps a copy of the Moscow newspaper Izvestia under the feet of the few tourists on Cuba's famous Varadero Beach.

The odor of Russian tobacco hangs over leather chairs in the lobby of the Hotel Varadero Internacional. Through the swaying palms on a starlit March night, a huge red star blinks on the hotel roof.

On the eastern outskirts of Havana—in their own skyscraper—live Russian and East European technicians, engineers and experts.

These are symbols of Soviet influence in Cuba. There are others—Communist trucks and buses, an occasional Soviet-made patrol boat equipped with rockets along the northern coast Cuban soldiers and militiamen with East-bloc weapons.

There is no doubt of the growing Communist influence. You sense it everywhere.

But Cuba does not give the same police state impression as, say, Communist East Berlin.

To a German, accustomed to military orders, what military atmosphere exists in Cuba strikes one like a comic opera.

It all is so casual. It all seems a bit sloppy, a trifle unreal, as if it were an amusing child's game that could end at any moment.

But the Soviet influence is real enough. You can see it clearly in Havana Harbor.

There are freighters from the Soviet Union and East Germany unloading crates and cases containing unknown supplies. There are rows of buses from Hungary and steam shovels, tractors and bulldozers from other East-bloc countries. There are military trucks on the docks, all guarded by soldiers and militiamen with Russian, Czech and East German weapons.

Cuban troops are not much in evidence in Havana. It is said they live in tent cities on the outskirts.

Soviet influence is also evident in many pictures of Khrushchev and Lenin. We saw them in factories, in schools, in public buildings—side by side with Fidel Castro.

Stop Corn Pain Fast!

Also Remove CORNS, CALLOUSES

Super-soft Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads quickly stop pain of corns. Also remove corns, callouses when used with separate medicated disks included in each box. Sold everywhere.

RCMP Probes Contracting Jobs

EDMONTON (CP)—The Journal said another case involves the public works department with a contractor alleged irregularities in government contracting.

The newspaper says a senior official in the department of education who is connected with the Northland School Division has resigned as a result of an investigation to an allegation that information was supplied in advance to certain contractors, giving them an advantage over competitors in bidding for school construction contracts. The Journal says another case involves the public works department with a contractor alleged the highest of four bids was accepted for installation of $200,000 worth of laundry equipment at the provincial training school in Red Deer.

The newspaper says the third investigation began after a petition from residents of the Spirit River school district alleged there were irregularities in school contracts.

Deputy attorney-general J. E.

Hart said he had no comment. "I won't confirm or deny that investigations are under way," he said.

'Only the Odd Complaint' On CHEK Says BBG Man

REDS CROSS ANTARCTIC

LONDON (Reuters)—Soviet Polar explorers have successfully completed one of the biggest expeditions over the Antarctic ice plateau, the Soviet news agency Tass said Monday. A tractor sledge train spent 80 days travelling about 1,700 miles from Vostok Station toward the Pole of relative inaccessibility (and then on to Molodezhnaya Station, Tass announced.

All radio and television officials in Victoria were interviewed by Board of Broadcast Governors' vice-chairman, Carlyle Allison during a visit here that ended Monday.

Mr. Allison said he also saw a couple of persons who had complained and a number of acquaintances and strangers—all in connection with an investigation of CHEK-TV programming.

"There is really nothing very much in this, except that we have had the odd complaint to the board and there have been a few critical columns in

The Times—about the programs so I'm looking into it. "I will report back to the board."

The complaints have revolved around withdrawals of locally-produced shows since the station was bought by operators of CHANTV in Vancouver last year. Mr. Allison said he would interview CHANTV officials also before returning to Ottawa.

"One thing I'd like to do before I go though is to clear up any suggestion that the board censors programs. We definitely do not."

POLICE CHASE RAIL CARS

POMEROY, Wash. (AP)—A string of 17 freight cars broke loose from a Union Pacific switch engine in this small southeast Washington community Monday night, sparking a 16-mile chase by railroad workers and law enforcement officers. Washington State police said the empty cars reached speeds of 50 to 60 miles per hour before Pomeroys depot agent Bill McCrea managed to halt them at Starbuck, Wash.

McCrea chased the runaway cars in his auto, passed them, stopped his car, then jumped aboard after the train slowed to about 20 miles an hour. He stopped it by setting hand brakes on the cars.

Loot Tops $250,000

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Police say the loot in a weekend rifting of safe-deposit boxes at a Niagara Falls branch of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce will exceed $250,000. Police and bank inspectors were continuing today to interview the holders of 87 boxes broken into during the weekend. In all, 118 boxes were broken open, but 31 were not rented out. Police indicated the loot consisted mainly of negotiable and registered stocks and bonds, but also included some cash, jewelry and travellers' cheques. The break-in was discovered

Monday morning when bank employees reported for work. Police said thieves had carefully dug through the bank wall from an adjoining vacant store, drilled through the steel vault and opened the safe-deposit boxes.

Defector Burned Out

OLMPIA, Wash. (AP)—Otho G. Bell, who defected to Red China during the Korean War and then returned to the United States, lost his home and everything in it in a fire Monday. Bell's wife and three of their four children were in the home but escaped unhurt. Fire Chief Robert Thomas estimated the four-room house was worth about $5,000 and said the Bells had no insurance.

'Segregated Mental Homes Big Drawback'

OTTAWA (CP)—Gradual replacement of Canada's large, isolated mental hospitals by smaller community treatment centres, in which both psychiatrists and medical doctors could participate, was strongly urged here Monday at opening sessions of a three-day conference on mental health.

The 100 doctors and psychiatrists attending the conference were told that segregated mental hospitals—those completely separate from community general hospitals—are one of the biggest drawbacks to efficient patient care.

The conference, sponsored jointly by the Canadian Medical Association, the Canadian Psychiatric Association and the Canadian Mental Health Association, is seeking ways to integrate psychiatry with general medical practice.

Dr. Robert O. Jones, professor of psychiatry at Dalhousie University, Halifax, said:

"The integration of psychiatry with medicine will only be possible if conditions of practice are the same for psychiatry as they are for other branches of medicine.

HELPFUL CHANGE

"Removing the bulk of psychiatric treatment from the large mental hospital to the community is one change which would foster this goal."

Dr. C. A. Roberts of Verdun, Que., addressing the conference on hospital perspectives, said he had been haunted most of his life "by the 70,000 people who are in Canadian mental hospitals." He added they are "frequently deprived of their civil rights and rights to humane care."

Dr. Roberts, repeating the criticism by Dr. Jones of large, isolated hospitals for the mentally ill, suggested that all mental hospitals be placed under public hospital legislation and that care for the mentally ill be financed under the federal-provincial hospital insurance plan.

TIDE TURNING?

Vietnamese Make Two Deadly Hits

DONG MY, South Viet Nam (AP)—Two victorious Vietnamese strikes that have left more than 30 guerrillas dead around this Mekong Delta village raised U.S. hopes today that the tide may be turning against the Communists.

Government troops launched the attacks during the last three days as they sought to regain the initiative in the Mekong Delta, where the Viet Cong have seized control of large areas.

"If we keep this up we can change the picture in Viet Nam soon," a senior U.S. military adviser declared as he showed reporters captured Communist weapons and dead guerrillas spread-eagled across Viet Cong fortifications.

In one incident, defence corpsmen made a strategic retreat from an outpost under attack by Viet Cong units Saturday night. After the attackers had streamed into the abandoned outpost, it was levelled by artillery fire.

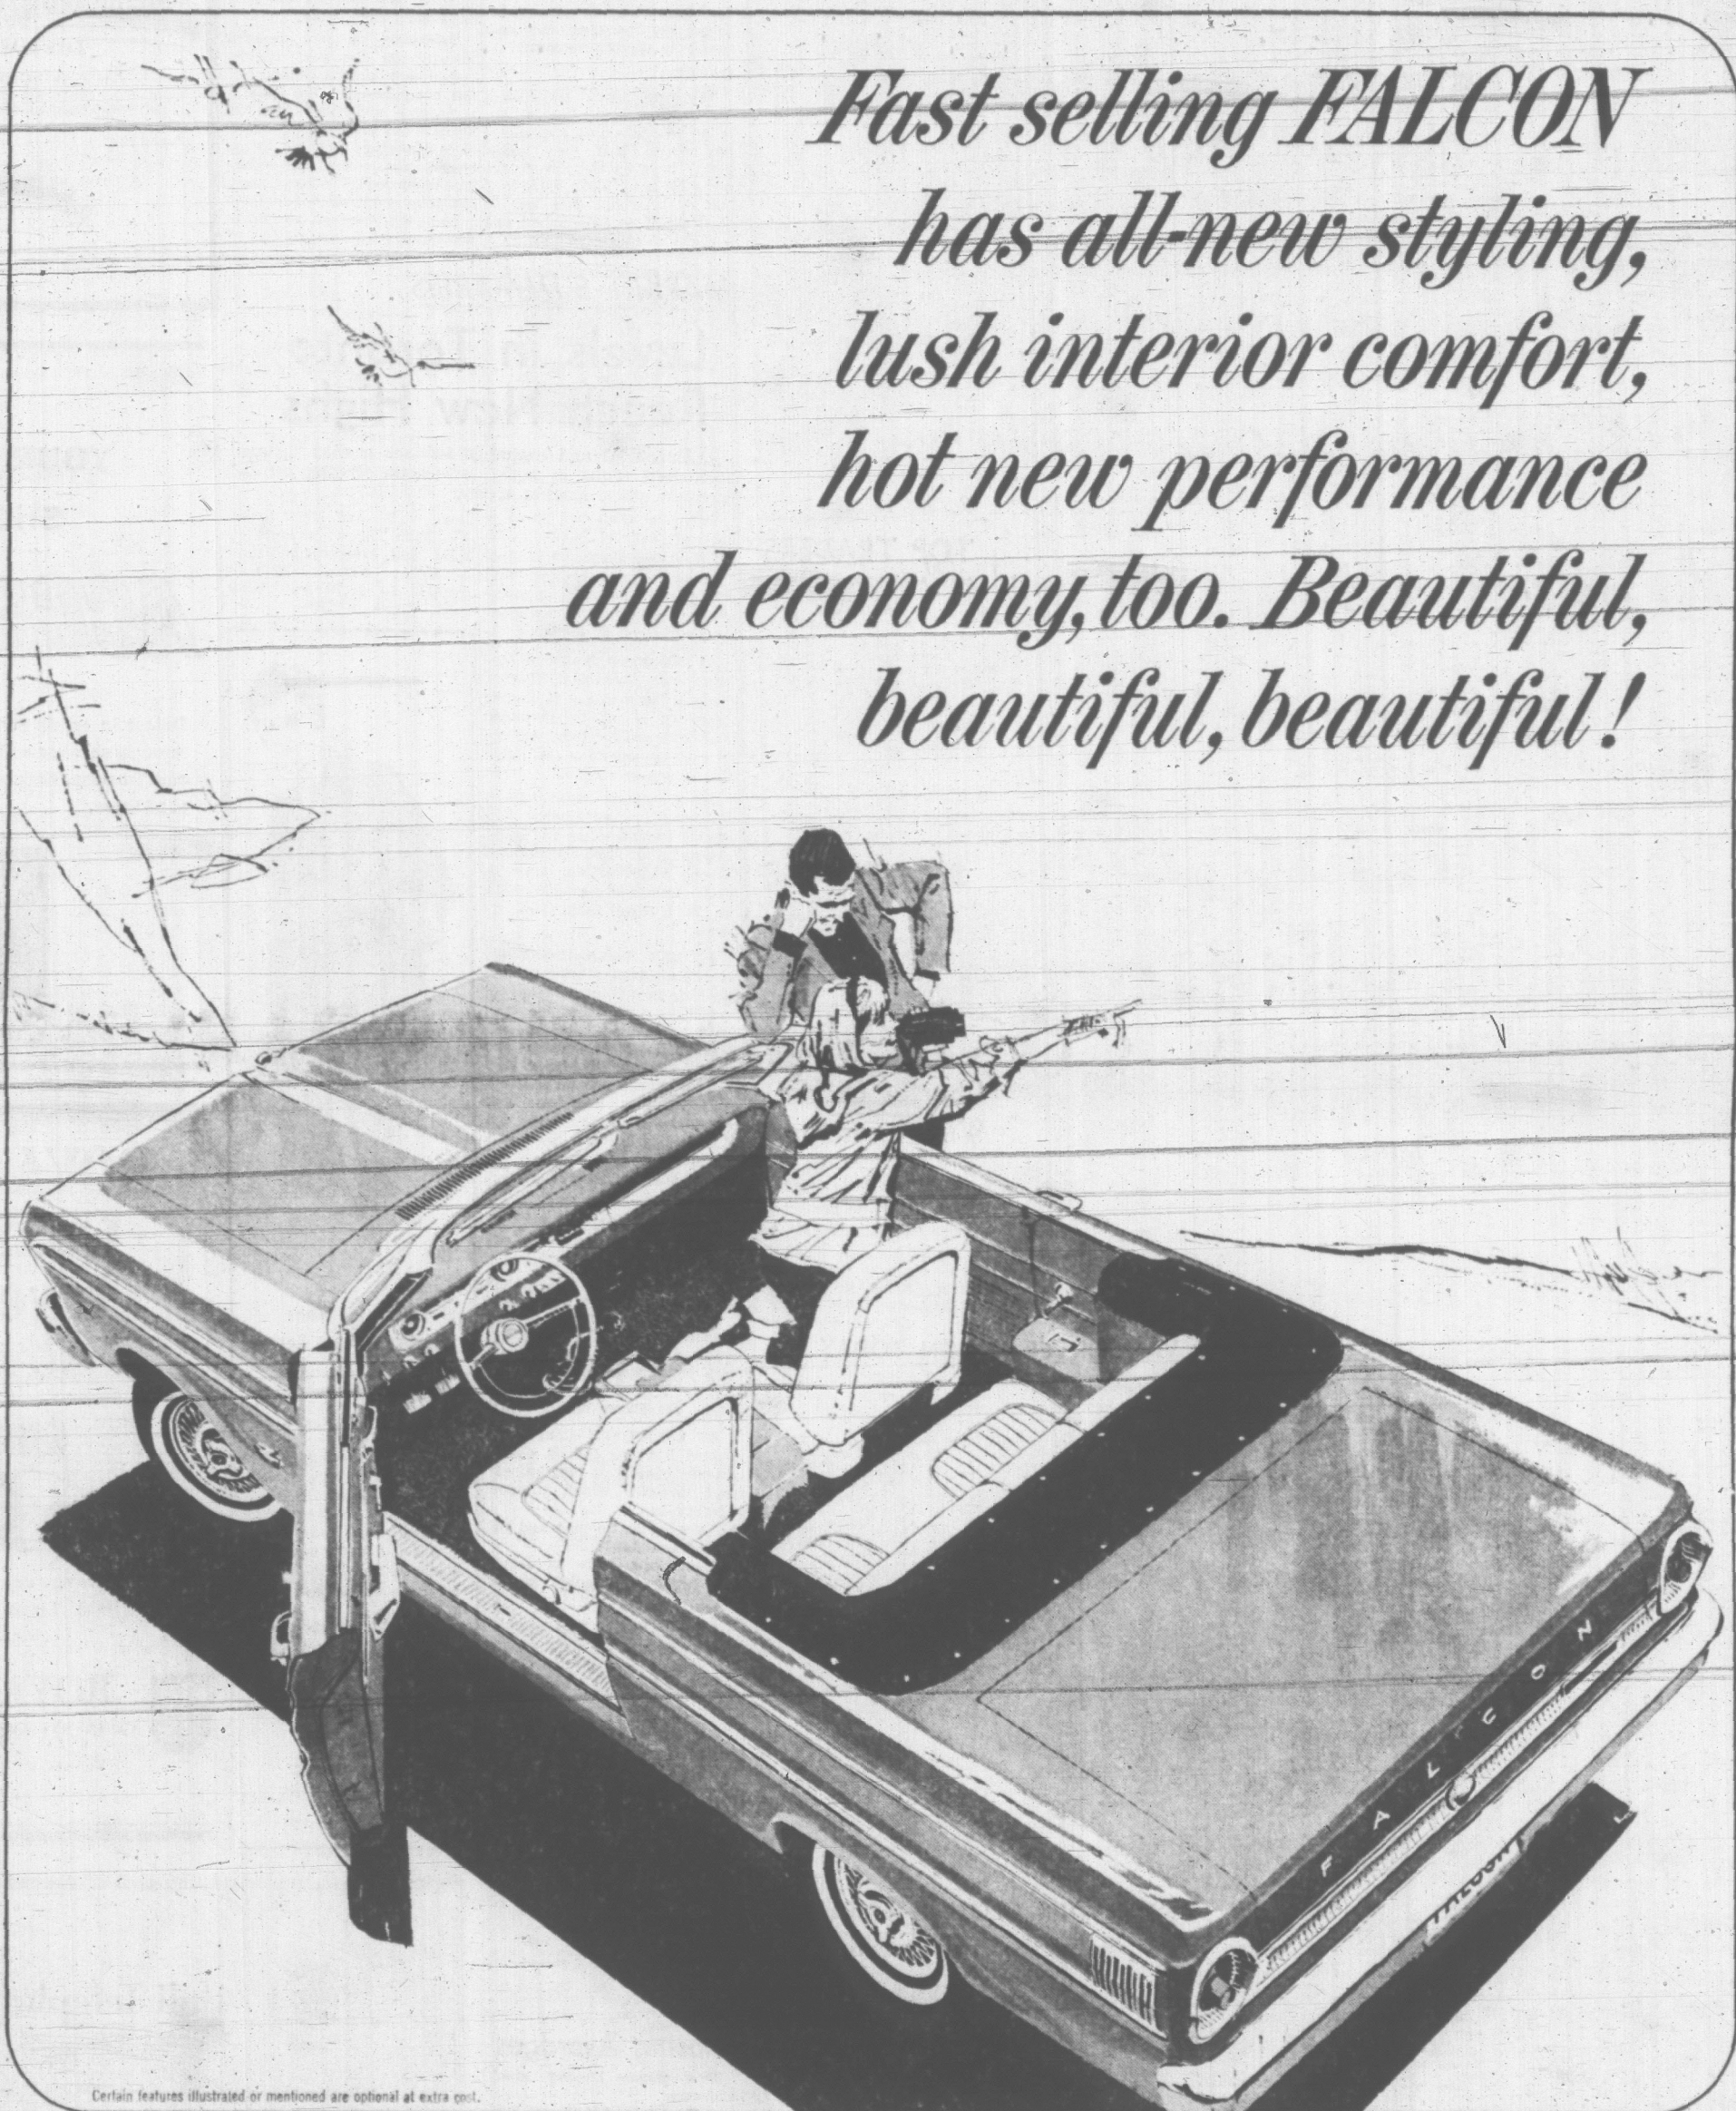

In the other incident, a company of armored personnel carriers carrying ranger troops stormed Dong My Village and wiped out Viet Cong resistance in what American advisers described as the best armored performance this year.

Four government soldiers were killed and 19 wounded in the two actions.

SAIGON (AP)—A two-seater South Vietnamese Air Force fighter plane was shot down today by rockets fired by Communist guerrillas, killing a U.S. Air Force officer and a Vietnamese aboard, reliable sources reported.

The plane, a single-engine T-28, was on a strafing run against guerrillas south of Soc Trang, 120 miles south of Saigon when it was hit. It crashed and burned, killing both occupants on impact.

The latest American death brought to 125 the number of U.S. servicemen killed in action in South Viet Nam's war.

OUTS OVERHEAD

There are two distinct advantages to this. It is a flat-rate service and therefore easier on the overhead. It bypasses the normal billing and record-keeping section of the telephone company and makes it impossible for the Ontario Securities Commission to check up on what calls have been made.

Obviously all this renewed activity on the part of the speculative security houses, and the complacency of the Ontario regulating authorities and the Toronto Stock Exchange—which is considering relaxing listing regulations for mining companies—is in aid of raising more funds for exploration activities.

Too often, however, all that is accomplished is the raising of mining moving ahead. And for those who have a taste for gambling and can afford it—the speculative mining market—is a fascinating game.

But it is a matter of record that the type of speculative issues sold by the stock pushers in the boiler rooms have contributed almost nothing to the development of mining in Canada. Quite the contrary, in fact. Burns Purchasers 'Extremely Happy'

CALGARY (CP) — Alex B. Hill, former president of Atlantic Sugar, heads a group attempting to get 300,000 shares or 40 per cent of Burns and Co. Ltd. It was disclosed Monday.

H. R. Jackman of Toronto, chairman of the executive committee of the Calgary-based packing company, said in a prepared statement he has accepted the group's offer in respect of about two-thirds of the shares he represents and that he is retaining one-third of his shares.

He did not say how many shares he represents but he controls the largest single block of shares in Burns.

Mr. Jackman said following a directors' meeting he is satisfied that the plans of the Hill group will benefit the company and that he intends to support them.

Lawyer Chisholm Lyons, acting for the group, said last week in Toronto that the group has acquired a "substantial number of Burns' shares and is 'extremely happy with the way things are going'."

In 1931, Mr. Hill founded and was president of Hill Steel Construction Co. Ltd., Hamilton. He also founded Central Bridge Co. Ltd., Trenton, Ont.

Between 1954 and 1960 he served as president and director of Bridge and Tank Co. of Canada Ltd. In 1961, he formed a private investment firm called Braden Investments Ltd., of which he is president.

Mac-Powell Eyes Orient As Market

TERRACE, B.C. (CP) — MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Limited is eyeing the Orient as a market for production of its proposed pulp and paper mill complex at Kitimat, J. V. Clyne, chairman of the board, said Monday.

Mr. Clyne told the chamber of commerce in this northwestern B.C. centre that the Orient will be a great market in the not too distant future and noted the proximity of Kitimat, about 800 miles north of Vancouver, to the Far East.

He said the company is prepared to make the largest single investment in its history at Kitimat of $85,000,000 for a pulp mill.

Depending on market conditions, MacMillan, Bloedel may add newsprint machines within five years to bring total investment at the coastal town to "not less than $150,000,000," he said.

The project would employ 1,000 men during two years of construction and 500 men permanently at the mill when it becomes operative with another 600 working in the woods.

Mr. Clyne said the mill would economically benefit Terrace, Prince Rupert and Kitimat as each mill job would create four other jobs in service industries.

The company has applied for a tree farm licence and a pulpwood harvesting licence in the Kitimat, Terrace, Prince Rupert and Hazelton regions. Provincial government hearings on the farm licence are scheduled in Kitimat April 21 and the harvesting licence hearings April 22.

Mr. Clyne said the existing pulp mill at Prince Rupert that has applied for licences overlapping MacMillan, Bloedel's in planning expansion will not be able to use all the wood in the area.

He said independent contractors would be utilized to carry out 50 per cent of the work under the company's tree farm licence. Sawlogs and poles in the harvesting would continue to go to regular outlets.

AIRPORT ART ON GRIDDLE

TORONTO (CP) — The business magazine Canadian Transportation charged Monday that airport art fails to soothe the hidden fears of jet age travellers.

The magazine says in an editorial in its March issue that much of the art in new air terminals at Toronto, Winnipeg and Edmonton is for airplanes rather than people.

New York Market To Tighten Rules On Floor Traders

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Stock Exchange has announced plans to tighten rules governing floor traders—brokers buying and selling securities on the exchange floor—for themselves rather than for the investing public.

The announcement came amid a deepening battle between the country's largest stock exchange and the Securities and Exchange Commission over floor trading.

Rules proposed by the stock exchange would require brokers trading for their own accounts to show $100,000 initial capital; to pass an examination on rules governing them; and to buy and sell against the trend of the market 60 per cent of the time to help prevent wide swings in stock prices.

Press Ownership 'Urgent Matter'

TORONTO (CP) — The Southern Co. Ltd., said today in its annual report the possibility of foreign ownership of Canadian mass means of communication "is an urgent matter bearing on Canada's future as an independent nation."

"While it is generally agreed that foreign ownership of any medium of mass communications would be undesirable, there is disagreement with the industry as to whether legislative action is required to prevent it," St. Clair Balfour, president, said.

He added, however, that "we consider that the potential danger to our nation, if no action is taken, is greater than the danger inherent in government legislation in this instance."

Capital expenditures were $2,314,000 during the year compared with $897,000 spent in 1962, he said. Operating revenue increased to $43,083,147 compared with $41,852,876 the previous year.

As reported earlier, the firm had net earnings of $4,548,000 or $1.32 a share compared with $4,773,061 or $1.59 a share in 1962.

Lawyer Claims Oswald Didn't Kill Kennedy

PORTLAND (AP)—A New York attorney said here Monday that Lee Harvey Oswald did not assassinate President Kennedy, and the man who did the shooting still is walking around.

Attorney Mark Lane said in a speech at Reed College that Oswald's mother, Marguerite Oswald, had hired him to investigate facts surrounding the shooting.

Oswald was arrested and charged with the assassination, then was shot down himself in the Dallas city jail basement by Jack Ruby.

Lane said affidavits from Dallas laboratory tests showed Oswald's cheeks had no powder marks, and this indicated he had not recently fired a rifle.

The attorney said whoever did shoot President Kennedy set Oswald up to take the blame.

He said a widely-distributed photograph which shows Oswald holding the rifle believed to be the murder weapon might not be of Oswald, but could have had Oswald's head superimposed on somebody else's body.

SEEKING TRIAL
Lane said he is seeking a trial and hearing for Oswald so all facts in the case will be known.

He said the Warren commission investigation of the case is being held behind closed doors and provides no chance to cross-examine witnesses or to present documents.

Habitual Charge Fails In Court
VANCOUVER (CP)—Magistrate Douglas Hume Monday refused to declare Graham Love an habitual criminal.

He found that Love had failed to prove that Love was leading a persistent criminal life between 17 convictions since 1937 for various crimes. He is currently serving eight months for drug possession.

It marked the first time such a prosecution had failed in Vancouver. Twenty-two criminals have been declared habitual criminals. Twenty have been given indefinite prison terms.

FUN-SEEKING GANGS ROLL INTO FLORIDA

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Gangs of college students—from Michigan to Alabama—kept rolling into this beach community today, hungry for Easter fun away from home.

An estimated 20,000 to 30,000 vacationers were in motels and hotels between Daytona Beach and Fort Lauderdale, 200 miles to the south.

Ninety-five were arrested in Daytona Beach Sunday for offences ranging from drunkenness to littering the beach with beer cans. This brought to about 300 the number arrested in four days. Several dozen were picked up in Fort Lauderdale for "mostly minor offences."

Generally, police agreed there was little trouble. But the major onslaught of arriving students was yet to be felt.

Daytona beach police cancelled days off and put men on 12-hour round-the-clock shifts. Fort Lauderdale took similar actions.

Greek Sailor Ordered Out After Two 'Model' Years

WINNIPEG (CP)—A Greek sailor convicted of entering Canada illegally appeared before a special immigration inquiry officer Monday and was ordered deported.

Lampros Spathos, 32, immediately appealed the decision to the immigration appeal board in Ottawa. He is being held in jail here.

Spathos jumped his ship, the Santa Constance, in New Westminster, April 4, 1962 and came to Winnipeg immediately.

Since then, RCMP report, he has been a good citizen, working first as a carpenter and later as a car-wash employee.

He was convicted last Tuesday and fined $50. RCMP Sgt. A. G. Larson described him during the trial as an "industrious person"—a model citizen who had worked consistently since coming to Winnipeg.

Spathos is the first ship deserter prosecuted in Winnipeg under a recently-developed immigration department crack-down on this sort of entry.

J. B. Bissett, acting district immigration superintendent, said in an interview last week that until recently ship deserters merely went through deportation proceedings and were either handed back to their ship's captain or sent home.

But he said that so many sailors, mainly Greek, were jumping their ships, stricter measures had to be taken.

Spathos, who has legal counsel, can apply directly to citizenship minister Rene Tremblay if his appeal to the immigration appeal board is turned down.

Versatility is the keynote of a proposed $383,300 swimming pool Esquimalt municipality is planning near its Sports Centre.

The pool will take the shape of a block letter 'U' and will be a half-size Olympic pool of 25 metres.

The upper arms of the 'U' will be used for a wading pool 2½-3½ feet in depth and a diving tank which will go down to a depth of 12 feet.

Across the lower part of the 'U' will be the 25-metre pool which will have six lanes for competitive swimming, each seven feet in width.

WATER POLO
In addition to wading, diving and swimming, the pool can also be adapted for water polo by using the diving tank and the deep end of the 25-metre pool.

"The pool will be useable for its full length by the average swimmer as its depth ranges from 3½ to 5½ feet," said municipal engineer John Graeme.

"The swimmer can take a rest anywhere in the pool and he doesn't have to worry about someone diving on top of him."

The building will be of concrete block construction with its southerly face all glass. The lower half of the glass side will open up on to a sunbathing patio for an outdoor effect in summer.

The roof will be dished up to one corner to provide the necessary height for the one- and three-metre diving boards. Seating capacity will be 350 spectators.

The building will have men's and women's entrances which lead into self-service locker and changing room facilities.

A machine room will house the heating plant for both water and air and a diatomaceous (use of prepared earth) filtering plant.

"The pool will be built in the sports centre precinct for more economic management of both," Mr. Graeme said.

$383,300 COST
Of the total cost of $383,000, the amount payable by ratepayers will be $277,500 because of savings from the municipal development loan fund and constructing the pool under the winter works program.

Costs have been estimated at $20,000 a year on a debenture loan and the yearly operating deficit is estimated at $15,000.

"The total is $40,000 or a two-mill increase in municipal taxes," Mr. Graeme said.

"On a $15,000 home it is a tax increase of $12.60 or $5 on a $7,000 home. In other words, it will cost the ratepayer between 50 cents and $1 per month to pay for the pool."

Esquimalt's council's swimming pool committee travelled to Vancouver, Port Angeles and visited pools locally before placing this pool on the drawing boards.

The pool has the unanimous endorsement of the council and will be discussed at a public meeting scheduled for mid-April.

Dust for Premier
CHAMBERLAIN, PEUGEOT-ROLLER, FRANCE (AP)—The townsfolk have mailed 70 small packets of trapped air-borne dust to Premier Georges Pompidou and other French officials. They're sore about the dirty air they have to breathe and blame it mainly on the government-owned gas works.

RUBY 'BARBECUED'
Foreman said Ruby was 'barbecued' at the Dallas trial. The Houston lawyer had taken the case over only last Thursday after the Ruby family fired Belli.

Foreman was especially critical of one of the last days of the trial, which remained in session until 1:07 a.m.

He accused Judge Joe B. Brown of holding the long session "to satisfy his ego." He said to his knowledge, it was the first Texas case in which arguments lasted past midnight.

Foreman said, "There was 1½ hours of pressure on Ruby and his lawyers . . . they could work at only 20 per cent of efficiency, if that much, and the jury was exhausted."

Belli, who publicly attacked the death verdict minutes after it was delivered, said today in San Francisco that Foreman "would have been a good lawyer" for Ruby.

He added: "But as long as they have Joe Tonahill and Phil Burleson in this case, they don't need anybody else."

"The testament I left for Jack (Ruby) is the trial record. That is the document that is going to save his life."

It was expected that Tonahill, of Jasper, Tex., and Burleson, of Dallas, would stay in the case. Both worked with Belli during the trial.

The remarkable Remington 25

A radically improved shaver motor plus 4 roller combs lets you shave with maximum comfort, as close as you want.

More power. That's the secret of the all new Remington 25. More whisker cutting power than ever before packed into a shaving instrument. Power enough to roll off the toughest beard fast and clean — no pinch — no burn — no drag — no whiskers!

And solid comfort. Roller combs — 4 of them — roll your skin down, out of harm's way, then comb your whiskers up into the shaving head. You'll get closer shaves, far more comfortable shaves when you roll off your whiskers with the new Remington 25.

The Remington 25's combination of power and comfort is unbeatable — more power for high speed cutting, plus four big roller combs for man-sized comfort. Get one today from your Remington dealer, and more power to you. More comfort too.

Hal Malone LOOKS AT SPORTS

"Old men about to hang up their skates, untied youngsters who had just laced them up and a goal-tender they said would never make the grade..."

"Sounds like a motley crew, but these are the under-rated and overlooked who carried Montreal Canadiens to the National Hockey League championship..."

—Victoria Times, March 23, 1964.

Three years ago when Montreal Canadiens spread biculturalism and bilingualism in Victoria, their No. 1 goalkeeper was Jacques Plante.

He attended to his knitting on and off the ice (he is the freestyle-knitting champion of Lower Canada) and looked good for a long stay.

Behind him, ostensibly, came Charles Hodge. Mr. Hodge is hardly prepossessing as athletes go. He looks like two sawed-off pencils tied together. In the Empress, where the Canadiens quartered, Hodge could have passed for a bellhop.

The third man, on paper, was Cesare Maniago, a lanky string of spaghetti. He had been obtained in a trade.

Maniago's flamboyant, flapping style caught the fancy of eastern writers. At a training camp after the first day the routine is so bland, Whistler's mother-in-law would get press play if she could just stand up on skates.

Hodge had his turns but usually he was out there with the "Muttis" and "Jeffs," the kids brought up for a look and a cup of coffee.

On cutoff day, Kenneth Reardon watched the afternoon practice carefully. When someone said he was wanted on the phone, he snapped "Later," without taking his eyes off the play.

After in the dressing room he looked at a list of names on a small piece of paper in the palm of his hand. Then he went from one player to another, ticking off each name. He would bend over, whisper, and move on.

He said, "Be in my room at 4:30." There they would get the message. No room at the top. And the plane tickets. For Sault Ste. Marie... Quebec City... Cincinnati.

After Reardon left the room was silent. No kibitzing. No jokes. No needling. They dressed quietly. At last only Jean Beliveau, a physical Apollo, and Hodge, were left.

Hodge looked up. "What the hell, eh Jean?" he asked, smiling. Beliveau understood that Hodge was a pro—a pro that would do what he had to do. Next stop, probably, Quebec City.

"Sharlee, my boy," said Beliveau, embracing Hodge as the tension dissolved. "Sharlee, they can't let you go. I need you."

"I know," Hodge laughed. "You scored three goals on me today."

"That's what I mean, Sharlee," said Beliveau. "I need you."

Then, laughing and arms around each other's shoulders, they walked out.

Twenty-one goals from Bernard Geoffrion, the old (33) right-winger most experts thought was unduly prolonging his stay in the league...

After the 1962-63 Stanley Cup semifinal when Toronto cleaned Canadiens' clock, Mons. Toe Blake made "beat-air" remarks about a few of his players.

Plante, always "jill" but not too ill to complain, was destined to leave even if Blake had to use Kate Smith in goal. About Geoffrion, Mr. Blake was heard to say "he didn't give it all" or something.

Here last summer on a goodwill tour Geoffrion was asked if there was anything to the rumor that he might go to Toronto.

"I wouldn't mind being traded," Geoffrion said. But moving the children and all, a man said, that's not so desirable?

"To Toronto?" asked Mrs. Geoffrion. "Would it hurt so much being traded to a Stanley Cup team?"

"It was no wonder Blake called this his most enjoyable season as a coach even considering the powerhouse years..."

Last year after the acrimony between Blake and his players had settled, there was some doubt whether he wanted to continue. Or whether Canadiens wanted him.

His ultimate decision appeared to be a combination of circumstances; he didn't want to quit a loser and Canadiens, aware of his excellent record, wanted to see if he still had it.

The success-failure-success pattern is not apt to balloon Mons. Blake's head. He learned humility a long time ago.

The Canadiens had won the Stanley Cup and after the champagne had run dry, ace forward Blake embarked for home—Victoria Mines, near Sudbury.

With training camp and all he had been away seven months. As the train pulled into the station, the porter asked if he could take Mr. Blake's bags.

"No, thanks," Toe said. He didn't tell the porter but he expected a band, the mayor, most of the townsfolk.

When he stepped off, the platform was empty. He picked up his bags and started to walk.

On the main street, he met a fellow he had known for a long time.

Blake, expecting the warm handshake, the big welcome, put down his bags and smiled.

"Hello, Toe," the man said. "Goin' somewhere?"

cerned that the Toronto applicants hadn't signed a general manager, a coach or a player.

"There are four considerations," he said. "We look for a solid staff that can operate the franchise, favorable local reaction, a good place to play and a sound financial picture."

Mr. Garrett said he liked Varsity Stadium. The Toronto team has deposited half the cost of a franchise, reported to be $3,750. But Toronto officials were reported unimpressed by what the league had to offer.

The Toronto application will be considered at the UFL annual meeting in Charleston, W. Va., April 4-5.

George McIntyre, one of three London, Ont., businessmen trying to organize the Toronto entry, met with Garrett during the weekend. Also attending the meeting was Indian Jack Jacobs, assistant coach of Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Football Conference last season, who has been mentioned as Toronto's coach.

Provincial Gym Event Saturday

AT CENTRAL JUNIOR HIGH

By BOB BELL

The University of Victoria Gymnastics Club, a group of four students and one faculty member which started from scratch last fall, is co-sponsoring the B.C. Open gymnastics championships this Saturday.

The tournament, which will attract clubs from all over B.C., Washington, and even Oregon, will be held in the Central Junior High School gymnasium.

Open competitions are slated for eight Olympic categories, along with trampoline and mat tumbling events.

Novice and junior competitions are scheduled for noon to 5 p.m., with senior men's and women's championships being settled between 7 and 11 p.m.

WEILER INVITED

A number of international famous gymnasts have been invited to the tourney, including Canadian and Pan-American games champion Willie Weiler from Ontario.

Canadian Olympic coach Helmut Hass will be one of the judges.

The Uvic club, now in the process of organizing the meet along with Art Burgess of the YMCA, will concentrate on the Olympic still ring event.

"The club started from absolutely nothing in September," said coach Ben Solomon, an instructor in the Math department.

EQUIPMENT COMING

Members of the club made a set of rings themselves in order to practise. A full set of Olympic equipment has been ordered by the administration, however, and Solomon expects the club to go all out next year.

Solomon came to Uvic after two years at the University of California at Berkeley.

The four students, Pat Scott, Andrew Wade, Dave McLaughlin, and Edgard Desrosiers, usually practise three times a week, but they have stepped up the tempo to daily work-outs in preparation for the tourney.

The 100 competitors expected for the meet will be vying for the B.C. Open championships, gold, silver and bronze medals in each category, and top appropriate trophies for each division.

LEADING SCORER for Vikings during regular schedule, Ted Sarkissian will carry hopes of Victoria University into third game of best-of-five final against Esquimalt Pon-tiacs tonight at 8 in the Sports Centre. Vikings trail 2-0.

They meet Eintracht of Germany June 6, take on Vancouver all-stars June 10. Both games will be at Empire Stadium.

Meanwhile the Canadian Soccer Association preached and practiced international expansion at its 45th annual general meeting held at Winnipeg.

The Association agreed to enter a team in the Pan-American soccer games scheduled for Winnipeg in 1967.

The Canadian championship team also may take part in the Caribbean championships, involving teams from Canada, the United States and Central America.

The Canadian Challenge Cup competition will be held in two phases, eastern and western, in 1964.

In recent seasons the Canadian championship series, once a popular mid-summer attraction, has declined in club interest and a series between prairie representatives has replaced it in the west.

It is proposed to hold a series in the west and another in the east toward staging a national final.

With the advent of professional soccer in eastern Canada, senior clubs there have felt it was not worth the financial risk to take part in recent years.

Dave Fyatt of Vancouver was re-elected president of the association.

Bill Simpson of Toronto was elected first vice-president and Aubrey Sanford of Vancouver second vice-president.

Cassius Can Keep Title —Until August Anyway

Lassman Changes Mind; Senate Hearings Start

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Ed Lassman, president of the World Boxing Association, says the association has decided to let Cassius Clay keep his heavyweight championship "at least for now."

Lassman, who demanded earlier that Clay be stripped of the title he won from Sonny Liston, said today: "I don't expect any action before August."

Wings Juggle Lines

DETROIT (UPI)—General manager-coach Sid Abel believes his Detroit Red Wings can beat the Chicago Black Hawks in their Stanley Cup semifinal series if he can keep Chicago scoring stars Stan Mikita, Bobby Hull and Kenny Wharram away from his kids.

"I may have to juggle my three lines so that Chicago's big guns and our kids aren't on the ice at the same time," Abel said as the Wings worked out at Olympia Stadium in preparation for the opening game in the best-of-four-seven series that starts Thursday night in Chicago.

"It'll be tough keeping those three away from our kids in games at Chicago because the visiting coach must send his players on the ice first. If we get trapped, we'll have to change lines fast while play is in progress."

To avoid having Mikita, Hull and Wharram skate against Andre Pronovost, Bruce MacGregor, and Alex Faulkner, who make up Detroit's "Kid Line," Abel Pronovost and Faulkner are 27 years old and MacGregor 22. Abel may switch players on his second and third lines.

He probably won't break up his top line of Gordie Howe, Alex Delvecchio and Parker MacDonald.

"But I'll probably switch Pronovost, MacGregor and Faulkner and team them with more experienced players like Norm Ullman, Larry Jeffrey and Floyd Smith," Abel said.

"I also think the series will have to go the full seven games, if we are to win it. I can't see us winning a 'short' series."

Detroit was the only National Hockey League team to hold an edge over Chicago this season, compiling a 6-5-3 record.

Hydros Returning

COEUR D'ALENE, Idaho (AP)—Despite a deficit and history of downtown disturbances, backers of the Diamond Cup have decided to hold another race for the unlimited hydroplanes on Lake Coeur d'Alene this year.

Directors of the sponsoring association have voted unanimously to hold the big boat race Aug. 1 and 2.

Rick Pye, Nancy Craig Tops In Table Tennis

Ricky Pye had the recipe for victory in the City Open table tennis championships played at Victoria Table Tennis club—Monday.

Pye took the men's singles by defeating defending champion Johnny Boetsch, 21-16, 21-14, 21-13.

Pye had defeated Ron Guy and Boetsch had turned back G. Callender of Courtenay in the semis.

Nancy Craig took the ladies' singles by whipping Elizabeth Jensen of Courtenay, 20-22, 21-13, 21-19. In one semi Miss Jensen turned back Val Druce 21-18 15-21, 14-21, 21-18.

21-16. Defending champion Mrs. Craig took her semi-final opponent, Dora Stoker, in straight games, 21-13, 21-19, 21-8.

Ron Guy, a Grade 12 student at Mount Douglas, took the junior singles crown by defeating Bill Wong 21-18, 21-19, 21-12.

Other title holders: Juvenile singles—Bill Weeds. Senior singles—George Clark. Novice singles — Mrs. Dora Stoker, Courtenay.

City high school table tennis championship, held concurrently, was won by the Victoria High quartet of Charles Lee, Rod Harvey, Paul Louis and Rick Johnson. They defeated Oak Bay.

IN VICTORIA JUNE 8 ...

Liverpool's Visit Confirmed

A soccer treat is in store for Victoria fans.

Liverpool, tied with Tottenham for second place in the English Football League's first division, will serve it up at Royal Athletic Park June 8.

The visitors will meet Victoria all-stars.

Sam Smith, Island member of the B.C. Soccer Commission, also announced that Liverpool will play two games in Vancouver.

They meet Eintracht of Germany June 6, take on Vancouver all-stars June 10. Both games will be at Empire Stadium.

A Senate anti-trust and monopoly subcommittee opened three days of hearings in Washington today on circumstances surrounding Clay's controversial technical knockout Feb. 25 of Liston.

"We have decided not to make a decision on Clay until after we have heard from the Senate hearings," Lassman said. "And not until after we have given Clay a hearing."

Senator Philip A. Hart (Dem.-Mich.) opening an investigation into alleged shady deals in boxing, warned today "time is running out for the boxing industry unless something is done" to end "general public disrespect and distrust."

"HIDDEN MANIPULATORS"

"There has been a growing suspicion," Hart said, "that the sport is controlled by hidden manipulators and that the men who go into the ring and take the knocks are the ones who profit least from the gate receipts."

Hart said the first interest of the hearings will be a $50,000 promotional fee paid Clay before the title bout by Intercontinental Promotions Inc., in which Liston is a stockholder, for the exclusive right to promote Clay's next fight and to pick his opponent.

This fee figured in early efforts by Lassman to take the heavyweight title away from Clay.

MAY BACK PROPOSAL

He is expected to endorse strongly the proposal before the Senate subcommittee to set up a federal czar over boxing.

Hart said the subcommittee was considering establishing the federal boxing commissioner in some agency other than the justice department.

He said that with the advent of closed-circuit television fight promoters, who once longed for million-dollar gates are now talking of $5,000,000.

Other witnesses besides Lassman during the three days of hearings include:

Garland D. (Bill) Cherry of Chester, Pa., a secretary of Intercontinental Promotions Inc., and an official of the Delaware Advertising and Management Agency, Inc., which had closed circuit television rights for the Liston-Clay match.

NILONS ASKED

The brothers, Jack and Robert Nilon of Chester, Pa., Jack Nilon, Liston's $50,000-a-year adviser, was described by the subcommittee as majority stockholder of Delaware Advertising, while Robert Nilon is executive vice-president of Intercontinental Promotions.

Gordon B. Davidson, counsel for the syndicate of wealthy Louisville businessmen that guided Clay to the top of his profession.

World boxing opinion strongly opposed the proposal of Lassman that Clay be stripped of his heavyweight crown.

"POOR EXAMPLE"

Lassman had said he would seek a vote of WBA directors to take the title from Clay, describing him as "a detriment to the boxing world" and "a poor example for the youth of the world."

Clay announced after he took the title from Sonny Liston that he is a member of the Black Muslims, a Negro supremacy group.

"Clay won the title in the ring and it's in the ring he should lose it," Freddie Mills, former world light heavyweight champion, said in London. "Cassius has a right to his beliefs in a free world, whether they are right or wrong."

"IS CHAMP ANYWAY?"

William Faversham, manager of the syndicate behind Clay, said in Salt Lake City that "Cassius, no matter what the WBA rules, is the heavyweight champion because he beat Sonny Liston decisively."

Faversham said Clay "does nothing illegal or immoral."

BOLD CHANGE

Canyens Have New Attitude

STE. MARGUERITE STATION, Que. (CP)—What a difference a year has made to Montreal Canadiens.

According to coach Toe Blake, there's a refreshing new attitude among his National Hockey League champions as they prepare for their Stanley Cup semi-final playoff with Toronto Maple Leafs.

"I'm not going to say we're going to win anything, but we'll sure have a better chance than last year," Blake said Monday in this Laurentian resort village, where the Canadiens are lodged pending the opening of the best-of-seven series Thursday in Montreal.

"Last year, when the Leafs beat us 4-1 in the semi-final, we had just flubbed a chance to take second place and the spirit on the club was low. Toronto had just taken first place and we were beaten easily."

"But things have changed," Blake warned. "We took first place. The team worked hard. The team knows what work is and I expect them to continue playing as they have all year."

TEAMS WORK OUT

The club will work out today and Wednesday in the arena at Ste. Jerome, Que., about 30 miles north of Montreal. The Leafs, meanwhile, are working out in Dearborn, Mich., a Detroit suburb, and likely will arrive in Montreal Thursday.

Left winger Gilles Tremblay, out for a week with an ankle injury, is expected to join the team today after skating in Montreal Monday and then reporting to camp.

His replacement, junior ace Andre Boudrias, has rejoined the Junior Canadiens and will remain in reserve in case of injuries. If he is called up, the Canadiens must turn him professional.

Blake said "any one of the four teams can win the cup."

"Chicago is disappointed they didn't win the title, like last year, and Detroit could upset them again. And I hear Toronto is favored to beat us."

Good Start Could Help Moose As Well As Nats

GORDIE HOWE'S HOCKEY

Gary Dornhoefer, Boston's rookie rightwinger, has some good moves and a good shot. Possibly if he puts on a little weight you might hear a great deal more of him.

Somebody said he looked a little awkward when he is skating.

My answer was that he gets where he wants to go in a heck of a hurry. The fact he is rangy makes it appear that he isn't moving as fast as is actually the case.

Jaques Laperriere, Montreal's fine young defenceman, is another rookie who definitely is proving he belongs in the National Hockey League.

He's got a vicious shot. I know, because I've stopped a few of them with my body. He plays his position well. He is a good strong skater, and he can handle the puck.

Unlike some defencemen, he doesn't anchor himself. He moves around. He positions himself advantageously when playing the point.

When they shoot the puck back to him, he's ready for it, knows exactly what he is doing. He fires it quickly and he can move it pretty good.

Torrey Harper, Montreal's other rookie defenceman, isn't quite as effective offensively as Laperriere. He's doing an efficient job on defence. He's what we call a hard-nosed hockey player.

A frequent mistake defencemen make is to take after the puck when a player shoots the puck in on a two-on-one break.

Since he was the last man to touch the puck, a defenceman can hit him, do almost what he wants to with him, rather than turning his back and racing in for the puck.

By facing him, the defenceman can run him out of the play instead of giving him a direct route to the puck, give the other defencemen a chance to pick up the puck.

If you shoot the puck in, Harper will bound you until somebody else gets it, bound you to the point you think he's interfering with you. He's a good defenceman.

NELSON SOUGHT, TOO

Assistant Coach Retained by Eks

EDMONTON (CP)—Edmonton assistant coach and said they Eskimos announced Monday they will attempt to sign Roger Nelson, retention of Len Yoncosky again as a player for the coming Western Football Conference season.

Neill Armstrong, former star end with Winnipeg Blue Bombers and of late an assistant coach with Houston Oilers of the American League, said he will speak to Nelson in the near future.

Nelson, 30, a tackle and Canadian linesman of the year in 1959, was released last week as an assistant and replaced by Harry Buffington of Texas Tech. He also was being sought by Saskatchewan Roughriders.

He became a free agent when he was cut as a coach because he was not signed to a player's contract, despite being used as a player last season by deposed head coach Eagle Keys.

ALSO SEEKING NELSON

Keys since has joined Roughriders as an assistant to Bob Shaw and was reportedly seeking Nelson as a player.

Armstrong, 37, who was given a two-year contract as Eskimo head coach March 6 with an annual salary of about $15,000, said:

"I have the highest regard for Nelson and he can be a very valuable player for our club, especially since he is a (naturalized) Canadian."

"I hope to sign him as a player. We also will be able to use his experience as a coach during our early training camp."

Nelson joined Eskimos as a player in 1954 and was named as an all-star four consecutive years from 1957 to 1960.

On the basis of what we know now, I feel there is not enough justification to withdraw the title," said Greene. "He's done nothing heinous. This move to dethrone him started out because of his general attitude on things but it's slowed down considerably."

Richard B. Dick, the president of the Canadian Professional Boxing Federation, said the reasons given by Lassman were "ridiculous."

Bill Skowron has been plagued with problems throughout his baseball career. Now he's with Washington Senators.

He started with the then world champion New York Yankees, played with the world champion Los Angeles Dodgers and finally tumbled to the cellar-dwelling Senators.

The 33-year-old first baseman feels if he can get off to a good start this season, he can help not only the Senators but also himself.

He slugged a pair of two-run homers Monday, in powering Washington to a 7-3 triumph against the Dodgers. That gave him three home runs in two games following his return to the line-up. He sat out six days with a bad back, his most persistent ailment.

That showing was almost as surprising as the Dodgers' four-game rout. During the regular season Skowron batted .303, hit four homers and drove in 19 runs, all career lows. He played sporadically, being used as a pinch hitter much of the time.

In other baseball developments, Frank Howard said Monday night he wants to sign with the Dodgers and start playing. He had talked of retiring.

IN HOSPITAL

Jim Umbricht's situation is not so good. Houston's right-handed pitcher, it was disclosed, has been in hospital since March 16. No one would say what is wrong but he underwent a cancer operation a year ago.

He made an amazing comeback, though, compiling a 2.61 earned run average in 76 innings.

In exhibition action, Pittsburgh Pirates trounced New York Yankees 9-2, Houston Colt-45s beat St. Louis Cardinals 11-2, San Francisco Giants defeated Boston Red Sox 7-4, Cincinnati Reds drubbed Kansas City Athletics 11-3, Chicago White Sox knocked off Philadelphia Phillies 9-2, New York Mets nipped Minnesota Twins 7-6, Cleveland Indians edged Chicago Cubs 6-5 and Milwaukee Braves beat Detroit Tigers 4-3.

Cherry Lundy Wins Junior Solo Title

The Mary Morrell trophy for junior solo was won by Cherry Lundy, Victoria YM-YWCA Synchronized Swimming Club, in the B.C. championships at Vancouver's Crystal Pool.

Miss Lundy also placed second in the junior strokes and figures.

'A Satisfying Reward For Canadian Fitness'

LONDON—Canada's University School rugby fifteen need one more victory to make a clean sweep of their five-game exhibition tour of Britain.

Monday, the visiting side from Victoria, coached by Rob Wilson, defeated London's Mill Hill School, 5-0, despite a spirited last-half assault by the home club.

The Canadians complete their four Thursday with a match against Harrow.

So far they have won four games in seven days, a record which the Manchester Guardian describes as a "satisfying reward for Canadian fitness and enthusiasm" under the vastly different conditions prevailing in Britain.

BARKER SCORES

Robin Barker scored the University School try Monday, and Patrick Stephenson converted it.

In previous matches, the Canadian side beat Eton, 29-3, at Windsor, defeated Stowe School, 8-0, at Buckinghamshire, and down Howardian High School, 8-3, in Cardiff.

'WOMAN WORKER OF 60 ROCK OF STABILITY'

LONDON (AP)—British bosses were urged Monday to hire women 60 and over for their office staffs. "Compared with the dizzying procession of young girls passing through secretarial and typing posts, a fit and capable woman of 60 is a very rock of stability," said a report from the National Corporation for Care of Old People.

OAS Ignores Canada's Aid To Arms Deal

OTTAWA (CP)—The Organization of American States has made no protest to Canada about the shipment of a motorboat engine to Cuba which later turned up in a vessel believed to have carried arms to Venezuela, Trade Minister Sharp told the Commons Monday.

He was replying to a question asked External Affairs Minister Martin Friday by Opposition Leader Diefenbaker. Mr. Martin now is in Geneva for international trade talks.

Mr. Sharp also told the House that the engine, shipped by air from Montreal to Cuba, last October, was listed in bureau of statistics figures for Canadian exports, though under a different classification than Mr. Diefenbaker expected for it.

Mr. Diefenbaker's question Friday concerned an OAS report of an investigation into the shipment of arms from Cuba to agents in Venezuela. They were found on a Venezuela beach near a boat equipped with the engine shipped by air from Montreal to the Cuban National Institute of Agrarian Reform.

Mr. Sharp said the engine was listed in export figures under the heading of general purpose turbine engines and parts. Mr. Diefenbaker had looked for it under the heading of marine engines and parts.

The project was outlined Monday by Student Council president Mrs. Olivia Barr at the final general Alma Mater Society meeting.

The survey will be operated jointly by the University of Victoria and the University of British Columbia through a professional Vancouver survey firm, J. B. Crowe and Associates.

It will process questionnaires sent to 500 Uvic students and a proportionate number of UBC students to present a total picture of the student's ability to pay university fees and expenses in B.C.

Mrs. Barr said the results of the "desperately needed" survey would be useful to present the specific data on students' expenses to the Board of Governors at both universities if further fee increases are considered.

The data also would be used in dealing with the provincial government on university costs.

GIVEN ACCESS

As the survey is based on the present academic year, 1964, Simon Fraser University cannot be polled, but it will have access to the results.

"In fact," Mrs. Barr said, "we hope that this survey can be used in the report presently being prepared for the federal government" on the total Canadian university picture.

The questionnaire being sent to students selected at random is brief and simple. No names will be used.

Retiring council president Larry Devlin presented his report on AMS activities during the past year.

GOOD RELATIONS

In a 10-page summary of AMS achievements and projects, Mr. Devlin stressed "the development of good relations between the Students' Council and other university authorities" as one of the major accomplishments.

"Next year I would predict that the chief concern of the Alma Mater Society will be the old cry of autonomy, something with which we have not had to deal this year."

Mr. Devlin was given an enthusiastic round of applause.

As one said: "We couldn't have had a better representative for our first year as a full-fledged university."

Thomson Feature Not Monopolistic

OTTAWA (CP)—The restrictive trade practices commission has cleared a subsidiary of Thomson Newspapers Limited of a formal allegation that it drove a weekly newspaper out of business in Sudbury through illegal monopolistic practices.

At issue in the commission's report, made public today by Justice Minister Favreau, was the 11-month career in 1962 of a labor-orientated weekly, the Sudbury Sun, published by Northland Publishers Limited. It was unprofitable from the start and stopped publication in November, 1962.

The Sudbury Sun started operations about the same time as the Sudbury Scene, a magazine-type weekly directed mainly at women readers and published by Sault to Sudbury Press Limited, a Thomson Newspapers subsidiary which also publishes the daily Sudbury Star.

The Sun—with the usual weekly newspaper format—sold on newsstands at 10 cents a copy, though some free distributions were made. It had a maximum advertising rate of 17 cents a line. The Scene, on the other hand, was distributed free until July, 1963, when it began paid distribution. Its top advertising rate was 12 cents a line but in most cases the charge was nine cents.

MADE ALLEGATION

After complaints were made to the justice department, a formal allegation that Sault to Sudbury Press Limited was using a monopoly position to prevent establishment of another newspaper in the area was submitted in September, 1962, to the commission by D. H. W. Henry, director of investigation and research under the Combines Investigation Act.

Says the commission's report, in part:

"In our opinion, it is doubtful that the Sudbury Sun would have fared much better without the competition of the Sudbury Scene. It is very unlikely that its paid circulation would have been higher, for . . . the two weeklies were not aimed at the same clientele . . .

"However, the Sudbury Scene was to some extent able to attract advertising which otherwise might have gone to the Sudbury Sun. Without being a decisive factor, this competition in advertising probably hastened the disappearance of the latter."

At this point, the commission said, the competition between the two weeklies was in advertising, not news. And advertising was a service, not a commodity. Therefore there was some doubt whether the act would apply in such a case because the act defines monopoly in terms only of an article or commodity.

DOESN'T SHOW PRACTICES

"Leaving this purely legal question aside, the evidence does not demonstrate that the Sault to Sudbury Press Limited did have resources to repress the monopolistic practices."

The commission noted that Mr. Henry never alleged that Sault to Sudbury Press ever tried to force customers who wanted to advertise in The Star to advertise also in the Sudbury Scene, and in any event this was denied by James R. Meakes, the Star's managing editor.

In addition, the commission

NEGLECT CHARGED

Open Sores Found On Dead Tot

BRACEBRIDGE, Ont. (CP)—A coroner's jury Monday night returned a verdict of death due to "pneumonia contributed to by neglect of medical and hygiene care," in the Dec. 29 death of a six-month-old Bracebridge child.

Dr. J. B. Rublee, a pathologist from Parry Sound, Ont., said Cheryl Isabel Ball, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Ball, had a number of "open ulcers" on her back, buttocks, thighs, and calves when she died. The sores indicated that the child had lain for extended periods in a damp bed, and that regular diaper changes had not been made, he said.

Mrs. Ball told coroner E. J. Cloutier of Huntsville that the baby had developed what she thought were "convulsions" the night before her death, and had been taken to hospital.

Dr. Kenneth Baxter of Bracebridge told the jury the infant was dead when he arrived at the hospital early Dec. 29. Cause of death was pneumonia affecting both lungs, he said.

The baby was in an "emaciated state," Dr. Baxter said. The jury recommended that health units and the Children's Aid Society be given the authority to "enforce co-operation of parents" where the welfare of children is involved.

said it was never established that the Sudbury Scene was launched only to cause the Sudbury Sun's downfall. Perhaps the news about the launching of The Sun had hastened The Scene's appearance, "but can we blame anyone who has decided to launch a new business for choosing to do so at the most propitious moment?"

And it was not shown that the Sudbury Scene operated at a loss for the purpose of eliminating the rival Sun, the commission said. Free distribution was often the best way for a new periodical to recruit readers and get maximum advertising revenues.

The commission accepted the word of Sault to Sudbury Press

Limited that the Sudbury Scene was "conceived as a profitable business" and enabled the company to make better, more efficient use of its staff and equipment. Even in its first year, The Scene had made a small contribution to the company's plant overhead expenses.

"For all these reasons, the commission concludes that the Sault to Sudbury Press Limited must not be held responsible for the disappearance of the weekly Sudbury Sun," the commission concludes.

Mr. Favreau made no comment in releasing the report, other than to state that "the usual consideration would be given the question of what further steps ought to be taken."

VOTE FOR LIBERALS IN SASKATCHEWAN

How to Be Happily Married

GRAVELBOURG, Sask. (CP)—Saskatchewan Liberal Leader Ross Thatcher promised a break on sales tax for young married couples, major tax reductions and increased farm credit here Monday night at a boisterous rally officially launching his party's campaign for the April 22 provincial election.

Mr. Thatcher told about 400 people filling the Gravelbourg College gymnasium that if the Liberals unseat the CCF in the election, young married couples setting up homes will not have to pay sales tax on the first $1,000 worth of furniture and appliances they buy.

He said the exemption would be applied for a year after marriage.

Mr. Thatcher also said clothing and children's shoes would be exempted from the sales tax. Immediately after taking office the Liberals would reduce the sales tax from 5 per cent to 4 per cent and in their first four years in office reduce it further to 3 per cent.

Farmers would be allowed to use tax-free "purple" gasoline in farm trucks as well as in other farm machinery.

The Liberal leader said the provincial income tax, now almost a third higher than that in all but one other province, would be reduced at least to the level of that in other provinces.

The mineral rights tax on farm acreage would be wiped out in cases where no minerals were being produced from beneath the land.

"We will provide the young farmers of Saskatchewan with long-term credit facilities," Mr.

Thatcher said. at low interest rates and pay it back to the government over 25 years.

Mild Weather Lures Rattlers to Death

BIG SPRING, Tex. (AP)—Mild weather lured hundreds of rattlesnakes from their winter dens to destruction during the weekend.

Eighty-two participants in the second annual rattlesnake hunt on ranches near here in West Texas gathered up more than a ton of the reptiles.

Experts extracted venom for vaccine. Then most of the rattlers were killed, carved into steaks and fried. Portions were distributed among 5,000 spectators.

Prize winners in the hunt were Dalton Carr of Big Spring, whose 427-pound total was the biggest bag; Bob Beal of Luther, Tex., who caught a 67-inch snake, the longest; and Carr and Bill Williamson of Sweetwater, Tex., who each snared one with 14 rattles, more than any other snake brought in.

B.C. Anglers Win Voice In Framing Fish Policy

ISLAND DIGEST

Victoria Daily Times TUESDAY, MAR. 24, 1964 19

SON OF 1960 All-American cat is Wolfana Corinthian of Coarsair belonging to judge Mrs. Anne Chapman.

She Soon Let Cat Out of the Bag

By MARGE GILROY

Mrs. Anne Chapman, one of the few fully-fledged cat judges in Canada, was started on her feline career by an English baker.

Mrs. Chapman, who lives at 4983 Cordova Bay Rd., was only four when the baker gave her her first kitten to take home in a paper bag.

Today she is a breeder of Siamese kittens and a qualified judge.

Fine, Suspension Follows Crash Into Bridge Rail

DUNCAN—The driver of a car which nearly plunged over a 70-foot embankment at a railroad overpass five miles north of Duncan Saturday night was fined $100 in police court Monday for careless driving.

Robert Walker Randall, 22, of 1229 Goldstream, Victoria, was also prohibited from driving for six months.

Randall's car came to a stop on the edge of the embankment after striking the railing of the bridge.

The driver and Caroline Beck, 19, of Nanaimo, escaped with minor injuries, but his two other passengers were admitted to King's Daughters' Hospital.

They were Paris Sahlen of HMCS Naden, who underwent surgery for a ruptured kidney, and Wayne Boyd, 21, also of HMCS Naden, whose injuries were less serious.

Sahlen is reported to be in fairly good condition.

Judge is that the person must have bred and exhibited cats for a minimum of five years and passed a rigid set of examinations.

Already a qualified judge for the Canadian Cat Association, Mrs. Chapman has finished her examinations for the American Cat Fanciers' Association and hopes to start judging for them this fall.

Cat shows, gaining in popularity in North America, were first held in London just after the turn of the century, said Mrs. Chapman.

In April the Victoria Cat Club will hold its first championship show at Esquimalt Sports Centre.

The show scheduled for April 25 and 26 is billed as a Royal Merit Quad Championship Show. This means there will be four judges and each cat entered in the championship class will be scored by every judge seeing the cat.

Entries are expected from all over V.I., the mainland, Washington and Oregon.

Mrs. Chapman will not be a judge at the Victoria show but she will be an exhibitor with one or many of her Siamese offspring.

As a judge she is looking forward to a trip to Calgary and perhaps some day as far as Hawaii. And as a breeder and exhibitor she hopes to raise the All-American male.

As a start she has the son of the 1960 All-American cat.

DUNCAN—The B.C. coastal area will get a salt water sports fishing advisory committee, it was revealed Monday.

Members of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of V.I. were told at their annual convention in Duncan that Federal Fisheries Minister Robichaud expects to make an announcement on its representation "within the next month or two."

Fisheries committee chairman Robert Wright of Victoria said the minister's announcement is by far the most important result of a series of fishing recommendations made at the 1963 ACCVI convention, later adopted in altered form by the B.C. Chamber.

Mr. Wright said Mr. Robichaud disclosed that regulations will be implemented to limit purse seining off B.C. river mouths when young salmon are known to be present.

Trolling will be banned in the Gulf of Georgia in December and January, and fishing will be limited at certain times in the mouth of the Campbell River.

ALBERNI LIMITS

Special catch limits will be implemented in the Alberni area.

Mr. Wright said:

"The department has finally become aware of the determination of sports fishermen to have a voice in the operation of our fish resources."

In other business the convention was told tourism helps to keep taxes down on V.I. boosts employment and ensures the success of B.C. Ferries.

Tourist committee chairman Sam Lane of Victoria, said the island still needs to educate those who benefit indirectly from tourism.

He said it is not just a selfish few who benefit.

Association president C. W. Laver, of Courtenay, called on chambers to take more interest in municipal affairs, and to attract more members from the professions.

POWER BY FALL

Disclosed at the convention: Bamfield — Electric power may reach the West Coast town next fall through negotiations with a Vancouver private company.

Cumberland — A society is being established to develop Chinatown as a tourist attraction.

Alberni — The city will vote with Port Alberni this year on possible amalgamation.

Nanaimo — Prairie People's Weeks are being planned for July by Nanaimo and other island chambers to attract Prairie people here.

DEEP-SEA SHIPS IN PORT

(Morning positions. Cargo is lumber unless otherwise noted.)
Victoria—Michael G. Libanos, U.K.; Marathi, Australia; Leiv Eriksson, wheat, China; Aralizi, U.S.A.

Duncan Bay—Rondegen, Chemainus — Bongo, U.K.; Deerwood, E. Canada.

Nanaimo — Ras Maersk, Australia; Trans-Ocean Shipper, Australia; Graintrain, U.K.

Harmac — Paolo Toscanelli, Italy; Ronacastle, U.S.A.; Sumiyoshi Maru.

Alberni — Frances Salmon, U.S.A.; North Devon, Europe; Broland, U.K.; Marinagra, U.K. Crofton — Scandia, U.K.; Talclo, Italy.

CHAMBERS:

Able-Bodied Should Work For Welfare

DUNCAN — Vancouver Island chambers of commerce have called for legislation allowing municipalities to make welfare recipients work for their payments.

The resolution, made at the Associated Chambers of Commerce of V.I. annual convention here Monday, applies to able-bodied males.

There was little opposition from delegates. They proposed that the recipients get prevailing union rates, and that measures be included to prevent municipalities from using such people in place of regular staff.

A similar scheme initiated last year by Courtenay was forbidden by the federal government.

The present scheme, said Parksville Chamber delegate Dudley Wickett, encourages a second generation to accept welfare as a way of life.

He said it kills initiative. Neville Shanks of Campbell River said the move is a negative approach and "far too simple an answer."

He said it would lead to re-institution of the work camps of the 1930s.

Guides Get Gold Cords On April 1

V.I. Girl Guides will receive gold cord certificates at a Government House ceremony at 2:15 p.m. April 1.

The presentations will be preceded by a luncheon at the Empress Hotel.

Other Island guides receiving certificates are: Heather Atkinson, Sidney; Jo-Marie Allen, Alberni; Heather Joan Baird, Courtenay; Beverley Cairns, Chemainus; Mary Giles, Chemainus.

Penny Horton, Comox; Gloria Lowe, Courtenay; Marion Lonsdale, Chemainus; Beverley McConnell, Nanaimo; Margaret Steele, Wellington; Carol Wagner, Nanaimo; Virginia Yates, Comox, and Sandra Filtness, Duncan.

Sixty-nine Girl Guides and Rangers across the province have been designated to receive the award.

'Stork City' Has to Mother Frozen Birds

PARIS—Freak French weather this year has played hob with one of nature's most accurate calendars and has filled the homes of Alsace with unusual guests—storks.

The storks of Alsace, flying back from the lakes of Africa via the straits of Gibraltar, Spain and the Rhone valley, usually return to Alsace in mid-March—the males first, to take possession of and repair the 211 nests of the region before the females arrive.

Fooled by early mild weather, they turned up this year before the end of February. "Winter is over," the Alsatians told each other.

Last week the temperature dropped below freezing. Monday several inches of snow fell in Alsace. The storks began to freeze.

Alsace is jealous of its storks, whose presence in a chimneytop nest is considered to bring good luck to a house, and concerned about the steady decrease in their numbers during the last 50 years. The inhabitants gathered up the big birds, too numbed to resist, and took them into their kitchens to thaw out.

QUOTE TIME
"Weren't they afraid of you?" a radio reporter asked an inhabitant of Mulhouse today.

"At first," was the answer. "But after we fed them, they became quite tame."

"What did you feed them?" "Baby trout."

Storks are among the most regular migrators of all European birds. Randers, the "Stork City" of Denmark, a country with a stork population of 500 families, reports timing rivaling that of the swallows of Capistrano.

The males arrive May 8th, but have sometimes been known to turn up one day later. The departure for winter quarters is so exact that Randers can tell you in advance both the day and the hour—August 23rd at 2 p.m. (The Washington Post)

Greeks Get Jets

ATHENS (AP)—The United States delivered 12 F-104G jet fighters to the Royal Greek Air Force Monday. The planes are part of the continuing U.S. military air program.

PROTECTIVE CUSTODY—Kilo, the 4-month-old Cocker Spaniel, has absolutely nothing to fear. Seems that Major (the Great Dane in the bobby helmet) has just passed the obedience tests of a police companion and utility dog in England. Guarding Kilo is Major's first assignment.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—I'm an art lover... as a newspaperman I've long been fascinated by what photo editors call "leg art"... But when Huntington Hartford, his beautiful young wife and daughter stood on a receiving line shaking hands with formally-dressed guests at the opening of his Gallery of Modern Art, I had to say a "Bravo" to him for trying to uplift our culture.

This is our most beautiful gallery," remarked a celebrated artist... Jean Dalrymple of City Centre stood beside me studying a Paul Gustave Dore oil portrait of Sara Bernhardt (circa 1875, in which the Divine Sarah looked a little like Audrey Hepburn, a little like Sophia Loren).

"Now these are pictures you can look at!" said Miss Dalrymple. "I'm having a good time..." And when we came to Salvador Dali in the line

PET POINTS

By Dr. J. R. Emas

Do Cats Really Love Milk?

No, not really. Most young cats like milk, but lose their taste for it as they grow older.

CLINIC: Q. "I know that they call pet doctors 'veterinarians,' but what does the word mean and how does it apply to animals?"

R. M. E., Jr.,
Philadelphia, Pa.

A. "Veterinarian" stems from the Latin word "veterinarius," which means of or belonging to a beast of burden. As used today, it means one who treats the diseases of animals.

CLINIC: Q. "My Siamese cat doesn't seem able to have a normal litter. She aborts in about the fourth or fifth week. Can anything be done about this?"

Mrs. P. L. W., Macon, Ga.

A. Several factors could be the cause, including faulty diet and hormonal imbalance. Also, your cat's breeding and that of the male should be checked for possible inbreeding. This is a condition that requires the attention of your veterinarian.

CLINIC: Q. "My father says the bat is the principal carrier of rabies, and I say the fox is. Who is right?"

Miss G. L. R., Jackson, Tenn.

A. You're both wrong. In the U.S. the skunk rates as the principal carrier of rabies.

CLINIC: Q. "My poodle's eyes water a lot, a kind of a red or brown water. We wash around the eyes often, but this doesn't help. Could it be his long hair? His eyes are all right when the hair is trimmed."

M.C., Spokane, Wash.

A. You've made a correct diagnosis. If the condition clears when the hair is trimmed, it's apparent that the long hair gets into his eyes and irritates them. Just make certain that you keep the hair trimmed around the eyes and this problem should disappear.

CLINIC: Q. "Our parakeet was about seven years old. He never was overly friendly and never liked to be touched. We recently changed his cage location, and he was very unhappy about it. He scolded most of the time and sat with his feathers ruffled. After a few days I picked him up to see if something physical was wrong. In an instant he died in my hands. What could have happened? He always ate well, had good stools, and was active and healthy."

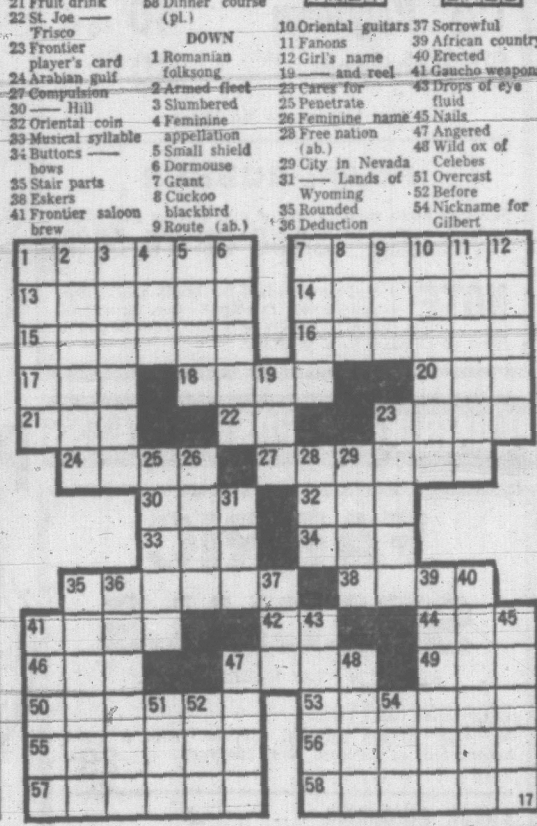

Mrs. D. G., Moline, Ill.

A. Apparently your pet was high strung and easily upset emotionally. The facts that he wasn't overly friendly and disliked being touched are clues. The likelihood is that he stewed over the change in location, worked himself up into a lather, and died of a heart attack when you picked him up.

Ask Andy

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of World Book Encyclopedia to Nancy Anderson, age 13, of Parma, Ohio, for her question:

What kind of bird is a budgie?

Just the sight of him is enough to make a normal human being smile with pleasure. And the little budgie has endless tricks to brighten the lives of those too sick to get outdoors, the lonely and aged people. As a pet, he brings joy to people of all ages, and the tiny fellow can be kept in homes that are too crowded for larger pets.

Sometimes a landlord says no pets are allowed. He may forbid cats and dogs, deodorized skunks and tame bear cubs with a stern face. But chances are he will beam tenderly when you mention your pet budgie bird.

His native home is Australia, where the bushmen call him bugger—a word that means both pretty and good. His full name is budgerigar, and it also may be spelled budgeriegar or budgeriyah. Most people call him the budgie, which sounds very like the sensible name given him by the bushmen. He is a member of the parrot family, a sparrow-size cousin of the great macaws.

The little charmer is classified as a parakeet, and he has all the fascinating qualities of the larger parrots. He loves to be adopted and quickly makes himself at home with his human foster family. He is clever and affectionate. He is bold enough to perch on the dog and sassy enough to dare even the cat to be friendly with him. He is as pretty as half a handful of jewels—and he can talk.

Roomy Cage

A budgie may take weeks or months to learn his first human phrase. But when he learns it, he can copy your voice to perfection. Later, he may learn hundreds of words—he may pick up some that you do not want repeated. He can copy your cough, your laugh or your sobs. But no, the little charmer does not understand what he repeats.

A pet budgie needs a roomy cage, placed out of drafts and in the sunshine. Feed him once a day and keep his home clean, very clean. His main diet is seeds, but add treats of lettuce, apple and chopped egg. A cup with half an inch of water will serve him as a bathtub. And the playful little bird needs an assortment of toys to amuse himself and the family.

The original wild-budgie wears green plumage, striped with black. Different colors have been developed in tame budgies, and we can buy the pretty creatures in various shades of pink, white and blue. You can tell the sex of a parrot or a parakeet from the color of the skin around his nostrils. In the female, this skin is brown or brownish. In the male, it has a blue or bluish-purple tint.

Andy sends a World Book Atlas to Gordon Chapman, age nine, of Visalia, Calif., for his question:

What is meteorology?

When you tackle a big word it is sometimes a good idea to begin at the end. Meteorology rhymes with biology, which is the study of life. Meteorology also is a study. If we give this word its strict meaning, we would have to say that it is the study of meteors. And meteors, of course, are so-called falling stars.

Long ago, people said the stars and the lightning were meteors—falling stars and clouds also were called meteors. Everything that happened in the sky was a meteor. And, of course, our weather comes from the skies. When the experts wanted a name for the study of the weather, they borrowed the old word meteor—and meteorology now means the study of the weather. The weatherman is a meteorologist.

'Welfare Services Best in Canada'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Premier Bennett said Monday that British Columbia's proposed new mental health and chronic illness programs depend on federal government participation.

He said in a local television interview he has been assured that another federal-provincial conference will be called shortly after the report of the Royal Commission on Health is ready. Meanwhile, working plans on the two health projects will be drafted.

The premier declared: "B.C.'s health and welfare services are the best in Canada and people are coming here from all over the world because of them."

He defended Welfare Minister Wesley Black, who came under fire at the recent session of the legislature. The premier said there is nothing wrong in his department. The social workers who had quit in the last few years were undoubtedly sincere and had a right to their own point of view.

"Everyone gets upset under today's tensions," the premier said, "but we hire these people to do a job; not to quit. I could go around with a long face and tell of my problems, but I just keep smiling."

On other questions Mr. Bennett, who is 63, said he has no intention of retiring.

Neither did he have any intention of opening bars on government ferries.

"The drinking driver is one of our biggest problems and we don't intend to add to it."

YOU RUN, NEVER WALK IN DAFFIEST BUSINESS

By PETE LOUDON

EVERYBODY WORKS in a bulb grower's family when Easter nears and three-year-old Stephanie, youngest of Daffodil king Geoffrey Vantreight's seven youngsters, is no exception.

Geoff Vantreight, the daffodil man, tried to light a smoke while we interviewed him at the gallop. The match went out. He threw away the cigarette. And a moment later he was reaching for another.

He never did get that one lit either. There was a truck of air-freight blooms to load. There was a washroom with the drains plugged and people waiting.

There was a delegate from a women's association waiting to ask for some free table centres. There was a thermometer to check. There were 500 pickers to oversee. There was a stuck coffee machine. There were problems heaped on problems—and we began to realize how the word "daffy" came about.

20 Hours Daily

Mr. Vantreight is on the run 20 hours a day right now.

"If you had to get half your income in four days, you'd work like hell too," he said.

That's all the time he had this week to meet the demands of the Easter market.

If you miss the Easter market it's almost as bad as trying to sell Christmas trees after Christmas," said the harried bulb grower whose operation supplies about 80 per cent of all the daffs shipped out of B.C.

Early and Late

Easter came early this year and the warm weather is late. "Look what we've got—asparagus," said Mr. Vantreight, holding up a sheaf of daffodils still in bud. They DID look like asparagus.

They'll be in full bloom in two days—they keep growing after they're cut. But the cold, slow spring means higher costs to the daffodil grower.

Pickers can't go straight down a row nipping off every daff. They can take one here, one there, one a yard away. Instead of picking 80 dozen an hour they are averaging 20 dozen an hour.

And they can't nip them off with their fingers when the buds haven't opened. They have to reach below the soil level and cut the stem with a knife. Bang go the labor costs.

Flown Back

Five hundred pickers earning 75 cents or $1 an hour (depending on their production), runs into a fortune. Meantime the planes couldn't land in snowbound Winnipeg Monday and the blooms went on to Toronto and must be flown back—at a time when every minute counts.

"We're in a little bit of trouble, but not big trouble," says Mr. Vantreight.

After the Easter market comes Cancer Day in Toronto, and women volunteers will be selling Vantreight daffs in the street.

(They get about 45 cents a bloom and earn $68,000 for cancer research—and in a spring like this, they help save the local daff industry from falling on its petals.)

$200,000 Industry

The industry brings about $200,000 income to this area each year, spread over about 10 growers and hundreds of employees. The panic starts in the greenhouses at Christmas time.

(Mr. Vantreight produced a record 20,000 blooms for the Christmas market.) Shipping continues after Christmas with growing intensity until Easter. The peak is just passing. There will be fewer pickers, less pandemonium each day from now until the daffs are done.

Then can Mr. Vantreight take a much needed rest? Sure, except for looking after the yield from 25 acres of cabbages, 25 acres of strawberries, 25 acres of cauliflower and 50 acres of potatoes.

But just now things are busy.

A collection of paintings and objects d'art donated to the Greater Victoria Art Gallery will go on exhibition here for the first time today.

The selection contains 19th and 20th century paintings, old master drawings from the 17th and 18th centuries, English silver from the 18th century, old Japanese lacquer and netsukes, Chinese and Balinese textiles and etchings from 19th and 20th century artists.

Victoria PTA will hold a spring tea Wednesday, 2 to 5 p.m. in Colwood Community Hall with home baking, plants, rummage and white elephant stalls.

Victoria's Daffodil Queen, 18-year old Jan Laidlaw, on a cross-Canada tour to tell the country about Vancouver Island's daffodils and the current Spring Flower Festival, has reached Montreal.

The Quebec city has captivated the University of Victoria education student-turned-Queen.

In her second daily report to the Times, she tells of a TV interview and what our daffodils mean to other Canadians.

NEW ROOFLINE is being added to the civic precinct as workmen swarm over two-storey addition to City Hall (in centre of photo) which is quickly taking shape as concrete work nears completion. View, photographed from top of the Hudson's Bay department store, shows a different aspect of the project. Area of parked cars will be transformed into the centre of the plaza, graced by a centennial fountain. Workmen also are busy reconstructing the MacPherson Playhouse, behind police station at right, and others are pulling down the last structures slated for demolition. Landscaping work will begin soon, too.

VICTORIA, B.C., TUESDAY, MARCH 24, 1964—PAGE 23

Uvic Planning $1.5 Million Arts Building

Preparation for erecting a $1.5 million arts-education building to replace Lansdowne campus facilities is under way for University of Victoria Gordon Head Campus.

A report of the university's campus planning committee was given to Uvic development board Monday night, suggesting primarily a single building of 80,000-100,000 square feet within the academic core of the new campus.

$16 SQUARE FOOT

Its cost is estimated on the average of $16 per square foot of new construction.

Replacement of the Young and Ewing buildings on the old campus is in line with consolidation of all academic and administrative facilities at Gordon Head.

Meanwhile, the old buildings are still up for sale, being examined by three prospective buyers interested in a package deal, including some 11 acres of land of which the elaborate Young building gardens form a part.

Prof. Roger Bishop, a member of the campus planning committee, said it is felt one large building should replace Lansdowne facilities initially. This would allow for expansion of the education faculty and permit the move into its own building as time passes.

MOVE SOON

Intention of the board of governors is to move to Gordon Head as soon as possible.

This will mean provision for special facilities in psychology and geography departments which require laboratories and work rooms; new administrative offices and faculty offices.

"A theatre is of high priority in order for us to carry on dramatic work," Prof. Bishop said. "We are losing Lansdowne auditorium (Young building) and our theatre hut at Gordon Head will not provide all we need."

Meanwhile, the development board has asked for surveys of parking and landscaping the three new buildings within the academic circle.

450 MORE CARS

Parking will be needed soon for 450 more student cars, which in turn will mean completion of the ring road circling the academic core and giving access to parking areas.

Land surrounding the new buildings is in upheaval since start of construction. This will be levelled and planted by summer, it is hoped.

MILK PRICE INCREASE EXPECTED

Wholesale milk prices rose by one cent at Victoria area dairy distributors today giving rise to the possibility of higher retail prices soon.

A distributor spokesman said the adjustment was made to cover increased costs, particularly wages, since last fall.

The increase is on milk sold to retailers such as soda fountains.

The rate is still below that of the Lower Mainland, the dairy man said.

Other dairy products were unaffected.

The increase occurred at the same time as Island dairymen were making overtures to the milk board for changes in the pricing formulae which would allow a boost in the price paid producers. They state that producers are now receiving less revenue than they did in 1956.

Some Liquor Prices Higher

There's bad news about booze. The B.C. cabinet ordered price increases Monday affecting rye, gin, rum, brandy and wine.

The increases range from 3 to 15 per cent generally. Brands of rye which sell now at $4.80 to $5.20 are to be increased about 15 cents a bottle. One premium rye which sells at $7 goes to $7.20. A popular French wine jumps from $2.80 to $3.25, others went up 20 cents per half bottle. Scotch, recently boosted, is unaffected.

Buyers can beat the increase if they act fast. Liquor vendors today are still selling at the old price and do not know the date the increases were to be effective.

The cabinet order said the higher rye prices reflected increases in prices charged by the producers.

Air Cadet Week Plans Under Way

Air Cadet week will be observed across Canada from April 19 to 25.

In Victoria plans are underway to start the week with a church parade on Sunday, April 19. Arrangements are being made to schedule sports events during the week and a party for Saturday night.

Thursday will be "cadet night" with open house and inspection at the Air Force Building, Quadra St.

Chairman of the sponsoring committee William Forbes said more plans will be announced later as events are scheduled for the 100 cadets and 150 cadettes.

13 in City Get Centenary Jobs

Thirteen Victorians today were named to the committee in charge of B.C. celebrations of Canada's centenary in 1967.

They were among 23 prominent British Columbians who will head up sub-committees for the board of directors of the Canadian Confederation Centennial Committee of B.C., chaired by deputy provincial secretary L. J. Wallace.

The subcommittees, one for each area of participation in the 1967 program will extend their work throughout the province aided by corresponding representatives and municipally-appointed committees in each centre of population.

MEETING SOON

"It is anticipated that these people will be summoned by the lieutenant-governor to a meeting within six weeks," said Mr. Wallace.

He also announced that the central committee will open offices soon in the old B.C. Power Commission Building on Blanshard Street.

Mr. Wallace said the organization that is now under way will parallel that which operated successfully in B.C.'s 1958 centennial observance. Major concern now is for early appointment of co-operating committees as the civic government level, he added.

The Victoria representatives to the committee are: J. E. Brown, deputy minister of municipal affairs, chairman of the commemorative projects subcommittee;

Dr. J. F. K. English, deputy minister of education, chairman of educational activities;

R. F. Gadsby, chairman of publications;

The board also gave notice in its announcement that it would change television broadcasting regulations to provide for a reduction in Canadian content during the summer period from June 21 to Sept. 19. The 55 per cent Canadian content rule would be reduced to 45 per cent for this period.

Island Radio Towers Win BBG's Approval

Permission to erect three 168-foot transmitter masts on Trial Island and to broadcast full-time was granted down-to-dusk radio station CFAX today by the Board of Broadcast Governors.

President and general manager Clare Copeland said the station would take advantage of the decision by extending to a 19-hour operation in July.

Formal approval must still be granted by the department of transport, which licenses broadcast towers.

At the same time, the BBG approved a change of frequency to 1070 kilocycles from the present 810 kc, to which San Francisco station KGO is also licensed.

The board also approved an application by CJVI to erect its towers on Strongside Island, off

Topics of the Day

A 21-year-old man who stood on Yates Street Monday night and invited two men to fight him was fined $75 in city court this morning.

Lloyd De Wolf was arrested by Constable James Ramsay when the officer found him in the 800 block Yates surrounded by a crowd of people watching him try to provoke the fight.

Cons. Ramsay said De Wolf was swearing and shouting when he arrived.

Richard Neil, 881 Bank, was fined $125 in city court Monday for failing to remain at the scene of an accident. He hit another car at Tillamook and Craigflower March 14 and drove from the scene.

City police Monday discovered a car that had been abandoned in a driveway was stolen but before they could move the vehicle it was stolen again.

Police attention was first drawn to the car because it blocked a driveway. On checking the registered owner police found it had been taken from the lot of Empress Motors.

On returning to the scene police found the car was gone. Police don't know if the original thief returned and picked it up or whether it was taken by someone else.

A 12-year-old girl missing from her Esquimalt home since Sunday was located Monday afternoon by city police. Sandra Lalonde, 1342 Esquimalt Road, was found as she got off a bus downtown.

She had been the object of an intensive search by police, naval personnel and shipyard workers Monday morning.

Victoria Tape Recording Club will meet at Esquimalt Jubilee Hall Wednesday at 8 p.m.

Duncan teacher Arthur Gracia will demonstrate recorder use in the teaching of children with speech or hearing defects, and Doncaster school teacher Ed Arrol will show its uses for improving diction and foreign languages in the schools.

Red Cross Blood Donor clinics are being today and Thursday at Red Cross House, 1046 Fort St., 2:30 to 4:30 p.m. and 7 to 9:30 p.m.

Wednesday the clinic will be held at Work Point Barracks from 9 a.m. to noon and 1 to 4 p.m. Two hundred members of the First Battalion Queen's Own Rifles and other units stationed in Esquimalt Garrison are expected to donate blood.

Victor Thomson, principal of Victoria Secondary School and Robert Huddleston, principal of Mt. View High School, will discuss courses for grades 10 and 11 at the S. J. Willis-PTA meeting next Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the school.

Remember Your Loved Ones
With Pictures at Easter

By PENNY SAVER

One of the nicest ways to remember dear ones at Easter is to send or give them pictures.

Family portraits, individual pictures, large or small—all and any will be appreciated by those who love you. And, to give a personal touch, add a specially chosen frame.

One shop has a varied stock of miniature Danish-made picture frames. Price ranges from 75 cents upwards and sizes range up to 8x10 inches.

Frames come in oval, circular and square shapes in white gold and burnished copper or silver and black.

Shop also carries small circular frames suitable for post-point pictures. Also for post-point are heavy ornate, boxed and antique gold or white frames. These are priced upwards from $2.25 and come in circular, oval and rectangular shapes.

In this same general price range are double frames for colored pictures.

Speaking of Easter, if you are planning on entertaining at dinner, a set of 12 ice balls will be a handy item.

Balls take the place of ordinary ice-cubes and not only keep dishes cold but also add extra color. They are suitable for cold drinks, salads and desserts. Price is $1 a set.

To keep your ice balls fresh, wash them in a mild solution of soap and water, rinse and dry and place them in the freezer after using. They can be used time and time again without losing their color.

If you would like further information on where to shop for these items, call Penny at 382-3131.

Gloria Grace Smith
Married In Duncan

Standards of multi-shaded pink gladioli decorated Duncan United Church recently when Gloria Grace Smith became the bride of Kenneth McGill Smith.

Rev. R. B. Knipe heard marriage vows exchanged between the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Keiver Smith, Somenos Road, Duncan, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. John McGill Smith of Qualicum Beach. The organist was Fred Young.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a full-length white gown with Alençon lace bodice and silk organza over taffeta skirt. The lace panel inserts in the full skirt swept into a chapel-length train. Sleeves ended in tulle points. Her four-tier shoulder-length veil misted from a floral headpiece. White orchids and stephanotis on a background of green leaves were in her bouquet.

Identical gowns of cerise silk organza over taffeta were choice of maid of honor Miss Elsie Smith, sister of the bride, and bridesmaids the Misses Elaine McLrroy, Julia Lind and Arlene Olson, the bride's niece. Matching headbands with shoulder-length veils completed their outfits.

Barry Smith, Vancouver, was best man, for his brother.

Guests were ushered to their pews by Robert Smith, brother of the bride, Merl Johnson and Kirk Barbour.

Two hundred guests enjoyed a sit-down supper, which followed in the Crystal Room of the Tzouhalem Hotel. The bride's table was centred with a three-tier wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom set in white tulle. Multi-colored carnations completed the decor. Guests tables were centred with arrangements of spring blossoms.

Reeve D. C. Morton proposed the toast and acted as master of ceremonies. During the reception, cables were read from Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Cross, uncle and aunt of the groom, and Miss Mabel Cross, another aunt, all of Bristol, England. A telephone call was received from William Sloan, friend of the bride's family, from Texas. Music for dancing was provided by the Melodians.

Following a honeymoon trip to southern California, the couple will make their home in North Vancouver.

The bride's travelling outfit was an imported shell pink knit suit by Fontana of Italy. She wore a matching tulle hat, white orchid corsage and full-length deep-brown fur coat.

Members of the board of directors, assisted by staff members of the Victorian Order of Nurses, are busy these days collecting and sorting donations of various kinds for the annual rummage sale to be held on Saturday, April 4, at 9:30 a.m., in the old Safeway store at Oak Bay Junction, where there is ample room for parking. Among those assisting with collections are, from the left, Mrs. A. Lassen, H. B. Nash and Mrs. G. A. Jones. Sale will include a "French Room" of better clothes, also a good selection of kitchenware, hats, books and shoes. General convenor is Mrs. H. G. Simons. Donations of rummage will be picked up through EV 3-9013.

DEAR ABBY ...

The Long And Short Of It!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I wait on tables in a cocktail lounge from 3 in the afternoon until 1 o'clock in the morning. I have to wear a very skimpy costume on this job. The hours are rough and so are some of the customers, but the pay is better than I could get anywhere else. Some of the men customers think that just because a girl is wearing a revealing costume she isn't respectable and anything goes. I try hard not to be too chummy with the men, but a sourpuss waitress doesn't make much in tips. What can I do? Don't tell me to quit working because I am a divorcee with two children, and I need the dough.

DEAR CAROL: If you must work, find a job with shorter hours and longer skirts.

DEAR ABBY: Nate and I have been married for 14 years. We have four children and are very happy. Sunday night he got a long-distance call from another city. We don't know anybody there, so naturally it shook me up. Nate was on the phone for half an hour and all he said was, "Uh uh, that's nice," and "Uh uh". When he hung up, he said it was some dizzy dame he knew slightly before we were married. She called him up to tell him she was a free woman now and she wondered if he was still married. I am terribly upset. How did she know his number? Should I worry? Would a girl a man knew only "slightly" call him up out of the blue after 14 years?

NERVOUS. DEAR NERVOUS: Yes, a girl a man knew only slightly could conceivably call him up out of the blue after 14 (or 24) years. She could have gotten his number from a mutual friend or relative, if you aren't in the book. And don't worry. There are plenty of nuts around.

DEAR ABBY: I don't have a very big wardrobe, so my sister and I trade and wear each other's clothes. When I am complimented on something I am wearing, and it isn't mine, what should I say?

HONEST. DEAR HONEST: Say, "Thank you." It is not necessary to mention the owner unless you are asked.

CONFIDENTIAL TO ROBERT IN SILVER SPRINGS: In the words of Goethe, "Nothing is worth more than this day". You will never relive yesterday, and tomorrow is still beyond your reach.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Special Routes for Bikes
Provide Safe Exercise

So often a wonderful new idea makes us wonder why someone didn't think of it sooner. I felt that way when I learned about bikeways.

Bicycle riding has become so very popular that millions of folks are on two wheels. The majority of the riders are school age, but increasing numbers are middle aged and older. This cycling interest probably is due to the emphasis on exercise for health. Cycling is one form of exercise which can be enjoyed at any age.

Record numbers are competing for a share of road space, which has an ever-increasing population of cars, trucks and buses. The bicycle industry, through the Bicycle Institute of America, has been conducting a bike safety program for 87 years. It has encouraged and financed thousands of schools, and civic and service groups which required help in conducting community bike safety programs.

In United States, a town in Florida introduced the first system of bikeways, a practical, inexpensive and effective way to make bicycling pleasanter and safer. Bikeways are a system of secondary routes which usually run parallel to main streets. These streets and avenues are designated by the city as safer routes for bike riders of all ages. The routes are clearly marked with signs which guide riders and caution motorists to drive with special care.

Parents do not worry so much when their children follow the marked routes where there is less traffic and where drivers are alerted to be especially watchful for cyclists.

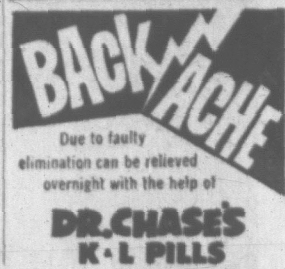

Students who ride their bikes to school form the habit of using the bikeways. Adults who ride for physical fitness enjoy the special routes. Some grownups use this system of marked roads or streets for transportation to and from work or to the supermarket.

Police in Homestead, Fla., say that motorists instinctively reduce their speed and drive more carefully when on the marked routes, or avoid them, thus reducing traffic.

I think this is a wonderful idea! Why not promote one in your community? And why not take up bicycling, which is one form of exercise adaptable to all ages?

By PAT DUFOUR

Through her writings, paintings and pottery, the late Emily Carr left a record of her love for the Indians.

But this Victoria artist had little of the same affection for young folk of her own race.

This is brought home when Mrs. Fred Ball of Weald Road describes the months she spent as a boarder in the famous artist's home, which was labelled by herself as the "House of All Sorts."

At that time, Mrs. Ball was a young girl of 20 who had come cut from Medicine Hat, Alta., to visit her aunt, the late Mrs. R. A. Adhelm White.

She describes the breakfasts and dinners which she shared with her landlady as "dreadfully quiet," with Emily Carr refusing to smile or talk to her "guest."

This was "in either 1925 or 1926" when Emily Carr "was going through a bad period. Her paintings weren't selling and she did nothing but work on ceramics."

Says Mrs. Ball, "Emily Carr was a lonely woman, reserving her affection for her animals."

ARTIST'S TANTRUMS

Her one-time boarder still recalls the rages in which Emily Carr often indulged after returning from Beacon Hill Park where she loved to walk with her animals.

"She'd be furious because people had laughed at her. Mind you, I could hardly blame them. She'd make quite a sight, walking along with her monkey, Wu, perched on her back, griffins chirping on each hand and her cockatoo completing the unorthodox retinue."

"In addition, she'd wear the most awful tam and stockings which she knitted herself."

Some what apologetically, Mrs. Ball confesses that, if her landlady wasn't interested in her, she herself "was not exactly a tower of strength" to the artist.

"I must admit that I wasn't fond of her paintings. The vividness and realism to me were garish. I realize now that it was the very power of her work that turned my young mind against them. The only painting that I really liked was one she did of the fireplace, around which we'd sit of a Sunday evening."

STOPPED PAINTING

"As a matter of fact, that was in one of her bad periods when Emily Carr didn't think much of her paintings either. She'd stopped painting and was spending all her time making pottery."

"When she sent parcels to Toronto to her friend, Kate Mather, she'd use her paintings as wrapping paper."

The breakfast hour in "House of All Sorts" was one at which the artist was not her best.

"Breakfast was at 8. It was always cold porridge. I wasn't overly enthusiastic, especially when I didn't have to go to work until 11 a.m."

Mrs. Ball's job was of the unorthodox type that should have appealed to the chate-laine of the "House of All Sorts."

"I had a very small talent for singing and dancing so my aunt decided that I would get a job with Eileen and Frank Allwood's group at the old Pantages Theatre."

She recalls going for her initial interview. "My aunt had drilled me in this song and patter until I had every word and gesture down pat. When Frank Allwood asked me if I could dance—that was different. All I knew was the Highland fling. Being a little plump, I must have made quite an impression when I went in to my act!"

In spite of her limited repertoire, Mrs. Ball was accepted and appeared nightly in the half-hour "tab" shows that were given as an added attraction to the current movie.

She was to spend two years in Victoria before returning to Medicine Hat. Then came marriage and life on the prairies except for one session in Montreal.

Mrs. Ball and her husband decided to retire in Victoria two years ago.

And, she freely admits, that it was something more than the scenery and weather that brought her back.

"Victoria is delightful, mainly because it's the natural centre for individualists like Emily Carr—a wonderful place to be!"

Mrs. Fred Ball admires one of the two pieces of Emily Carr's pottery which she still has. It bears the Carr mark, "Klee Wick" which her beloved Indians bestowed on the Victoria painter.

One-Woman Program Planned For Ghana

TORONTO (CP)—When Florence Asante goes home to Ghana she will be an unseen teacher with a nation-wide impact.

She will operate as a one-woman educational programming department for the Ghana Broadcasting Corporation when it opens in October.

Miss Asante has been the only woman among 10 Ghanaians who have been with the CBC since June learning to be TV producers. Each will help set up a different category of program in the East African country.

"I am still regarded as a teacher—not a producer—in the sense that I can't leave schools broadcasting to do any other television job," Miss Asante said.

Her teacher training began with college in Ghana and the University of London Institute of Education. She taught education in Accra and then worked on the radio schools broadcasting staff.

The TV programs she will produce will be aimed at classroom use. She isn't sure exactly how it will work but assumes it will be similar to the present radio system.

MUST-BUY SETS

"There is a radio reception box in each classroom, put there by the government. Teachers are sent brochures to tell them what programs will be on and when and how they can lead up to them and follow them in lessons afterward."

"It can be done because the timetables in Grades 1 to 6, the compulsory grades in Ghana, are almost the same."

With TV there will be one difference at the start. "There won't be a receiver in every room, nor will they be supplied. The schools will have to get sets through their own efforts."

Miss Asante says that, as in Canada, the programs will be based on curriculum enrichment. "We try to do a little more with films and experts than the classroom teacher can do."

School broadcasts are in English, the official language of Ghana, although six or seven others are spoken.

Ignorance, Fear, Haunts Equal Pay, Equal Work

ORILLIA, Ont. (AP) — Ontario women have only themselves to blame if they aren't getting equal pay for equal work, says Ethel McLellan, director of the provincial labor department women's bureau.

Many of them, she suggests, either don't know or are afraid to do anything about the fact they have a legal right to equal pay with men.

The right was established as part of the Human Rights Code in 1962.

"Nothing" has happened since," Mrs. McLellan told the Orillia Council of Women.

"What is the matter with women if they know their right and don't make any use of it?" She suggests that women who are afraid of losing their jobs if they file a signed complaint should turn to one of their community's larger women's organizations for support. The Council of Women and the Business and Professional Women's Clubs had been advocating equal pay for years.

The Ontario government advertises jobs without designating sex, she says, and urges that all businesses follow its example.

The attitude of young women who consider work only a bridge to marriage helps keep alive prejudice against working women, she says.

She acknowledges that women are criticized for taking jobs only long enough to earn money for new appliances, or to qualify for unemployment insurance, but maintains that men do the same thing.

Members of Pi Beta Phi Women's Fraternity in Victoria at present to make plans for the 44th biennial convention of the fraternity in the Empress Hotel, June 21 to 26, are, from the left: Mrs. Benjamin C. Lewis, Dearborn Heights, Mich., national convention chairman; Mrs. P. A. Lefroy, Vancouver, B.C., registration chairman; Mrs. William M. Welgan, Seattle, chairman of the convention committee, and Mrs. Harold Peck, Seattle, hospitality chairman.

Plan A Week-Long Gathering

More than 600 members of Pi Beta Phi Women's Fraternity are expected to attend the 44th biennial convention in Victoria in June at the Empress Hotel.

Planning committee, in Victoria at present, is headed by the national convention chairman, Mrs. Benjamin C. Lewis, Dearborn Heights, Mich., who is also a member of the grand council.

Mrs. Lewis explains that the fraternity, formed in 1867 at Monmouth College, Monmouth, Ill., now has 109 active chapters with a membership of more than 75,000.

Five chapters are active in Canada, in Universities of Dalhousie, Toronto, Western Ontario, Manitoba and Alberta.

Main project of the fraternity in the United States is a settlement school located at Gallen-burg, Tenn.

Established in 1912, to assist in educating children of mountain families, when there was no accredited school in that district, the Pi Beta Phi school now has full accreditation and maintains eight public school grades and four high school years as well as a large crafts department and a health service.

Projects of the Canadian chapters included scholarships toward social service degrees; fellowships for undergrads and graduation fellowships.

The fraternity also maintains a loan fund available to under-you too, can be a wine expert!

The wine-wise person in today's modern way of life knows that the selection of wine to accompany any food is purely a matter of personal choice.

The idea that the only socially acceptable use of wine is restricted to certain specific wine and food combinations is pure myth.

Matching foods and wines is a matter of taste — not of color — and there is only one simple rule to wine drinking . . . if you like it — drink it!

Such combinations as in the chart below are an excellent starting point for the fun and pleasure of experimenting to find your own favorite wine/food combinations. However, they should not be considered as rules which must be followed, and even the serving temperatures are subject to personal preference.

GLASSES: Wine may be served in any type of glass, but stem glasses are specially designed for wine and add a touch of gaiety. Champagne and sparkling wines are best, and most fun, when served in champagne-type, hollow stemmed glasses.

STORAGE: Store your wines in a cool, dry place, away from direct light. You'll find it convenient and satisfying to keep several types of wine on hand.

Fibres Important In Choice of New Carpet

The old cliché "you only get what you pay for" was emphasized by Ed Hourigan on Monday when he spoke to Victoria branch of the Consumers' Association of Canada on "Present Types of Carpeting and Their Uses."

Mr. Hourigan broke his subject down into three price ranges and spoke on the types of fibres available in each category and how they are best used.

In the low price range you find mainly celluloid fibres

HIGHLANDS SOUP

Two lbs. lamb shoulder, cut for stew, 2 to 3 quarts water, 2 chicken bouillon cubes, 1½ teaspoons salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ½ cup barley, ½ cup finely chopped onion, ½ cup thinly sliced celery, 1 carrot, thinly sliced, 2 tablespoons chopped parsley, ½ cup ripe olives.

In large saucepan simmer lamb, covered, in 2 quarts water with bouillon, salt, pepper, barley and onion until meat is done, about 1½ to 2 hours. Remove meat and cool enough to cut from bones into bite-size pieces. Return to broth mixture; add water as needed to make about 2 quarts mixture. Add celery and carrots; cook about 10 minutes. Stir in olives, cut into wedges, and parsley. Heat through and serve. Makes six to eight hearty servings.

Plans Discussed For Convention

At recent meeting of the Liberal Women's Forum held in the Gorge Road home of Mrs. J. T. Jones, plans were discussed for the British Columbia Liberal Women's Association convention to be held in Vancouver in May. Reports were given by treasurer, Mrs. A. Ketchell; Mrs. W. Mortimer, Local Council of Women; Mrs. J. Nelson, social convener; Mrs. Ketchell, citizenship. Annual tea and home cooking sale will be held on Tuesday, April 21. Mrs. Jones was named general convener; Mrs. E. Salter, home cooking; Mrs. H. I. McKenzie, tea; Mrs. Blair Reid, contests. Mrs. J. Albany spoke on "The Indian Question," giving a comparison of the life and habits of Indians and whites. Speaker was thanked by Mrs. Jones. Mrs. B. D'Eitroy and Mrs. E. Varney assisted the hostess with refreshments.

which are not the "wonder fibres" they are built up to be. Home cleaning, he stated, is dangerous to these artificial fibres because they are absorbent and will stain. They are non-resilient and when tracked down give a faded appearance. Most of these carpets, he added, are tufted and the backing is made separately, thus the pile can and is often pushed through.

In the medium price range you also find celluloid fibres but they are more resilient, less absorbent and easier cleaned. Nylon is the hardest wearing fibre in this group. It gives more wear than lasting appearance and has a similar resilience to wool.

In higher-priced carpets you "can't go wrong" because you are putting your money into quality and depth of pile and are purchasing a reputable manufacturer's carpet.

ON THE STAIRS

The speaker recommended rubberized felt over plain rubber backing for use on stairs. He also stated that when carpeting stairs it is good policy to leave approximately nine inches extra for change of tread. This allows the carpet to be pulled up occasionally saving wear across the nose of the steps.

Mr. Hourigan also advised against buying carpets on sale unless they have the manufacturer's name printed on the backing. Often, he explained, sale carpets are made from re-worked fibres and thus are not long-wearing.

President Mrs. P. R. A. Coombs, presided at the meeting held in the public library music room. Speaker was introduced by Mrs. W. E. Rolls and thanked by Mrs. H. Soulsby.

Large Cord Buttons Make Attractive Suit Decorations

"Dear Eunice:

"One of the most handsome suits I have seen lately had very large buttons that were made of the material and had a braided effect. Can you tell us how to make these?"

— Mrs. K.C.

Dear Mrs. K.C.:

I imagine these were Chinese ball buttons. It is possible to make a larger button by weaving two of your bias covered cords together instead of one. Also, instead of forming a ball, you can shape them into a flat button.

The instructions for making these buttons are found in our leaflet No. 4, which also tells you how to make covered cord. You may obtain your copy by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope and 10 cents with your request to Sew Simple in care of this paper.

I was so excited about this next idea that I accidentally stumbled on. I couldn't wait to share it with you. This week I was covering my ironing boards for my classroom, and the only material I had available was a striped, heavy cotton. I expected it to look gay but didn't know it would be so useful. The stripes make a perfect straight line for lining up the front edges of jackets, coats and dresses when pressing.

If you don't want to make your own cover, there is an answer for you that is just as good. Remove the present ironing board cover, turn it to the wrong side and with a yard stick, chalk mark a line from one end to the other on your cover. Next with colored thread in sewing machine, go over your marks with a machine stitching. You may want to stitch this twice so the line will show up better. Now you will have a perfect guide for pressing anything perfectly straight on your board.

You can see by this, how unexpectedly ideas can pop up. Let me know when you think you have hit upon a new idea so that we may all share and enjoy them.

Please send all your sewing questions and little "tips" to Sew Simple, in care of this paper.

'Cabinet Lacks Initiative' Says Liberal

By ALAN DONNELLY

OTTAWA (CP)—For a while it sounded as though the scripts were switched in Monday night's Commons debate.

Government spending operations are "inherently inefficient," said Liberal David G. Hahn.

"We have an insatiable fear of the electorate," said Conservative Joseph Slogan, speaking of all parties in the House as the budget debate moved through its third day.

Mr. Hahn, a businessman and MP for Toronto Broadview, concluded that this year's increases in government spending were reasonable.

Mr. Slogan, a dentist representing Manitoba's Springfield constituency, sounded more like a member of the cabinet as he described the cabinet as "old and an opposition member as he decried men who lack initiative, imagination and aggressive-ness."

The budget debate adjourns tonight following a vote on a Conservative non-confidence motion charging the government with failure to control rising expenditures and with running up a substantial deficit despite increased taxation. The last two days of the six-day debate will be after the Easter recess.

OUT OF ORDER

Creditist Leader Real Caouette tried Monday to insert a further non-confidence motion into the debate, calling for family allowances geared to rising living costs. However, this was ruled out of order on grounds that the maximum of two non-confidence motions allowed under the rules had already been presented.

Mr. Caouette also reiterated his demands for constitutional amendments to give Quebec control over its own fiscal, immigration and trade policy—all of them now federal prerogatives—plus sole occupancy of the direct income tax fields it shares with Ottawa.

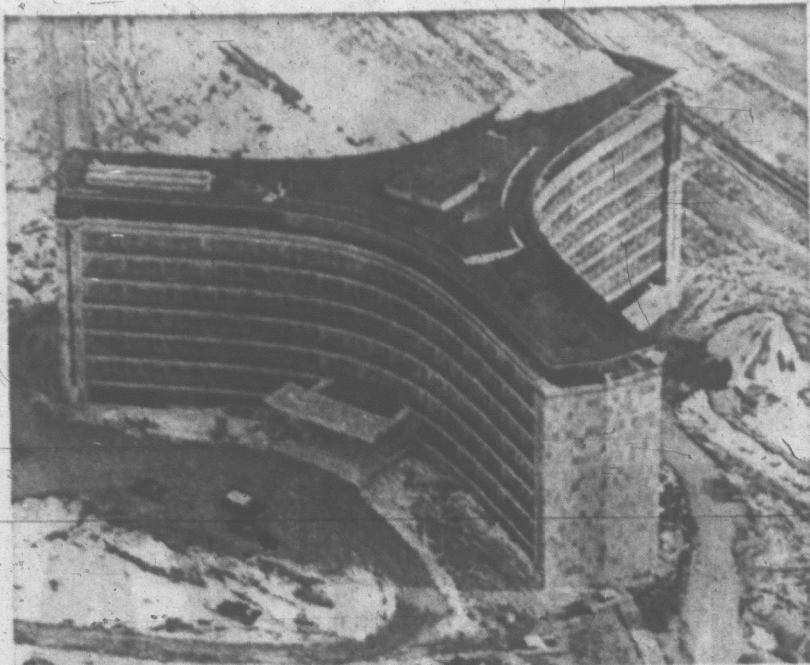

The day also produced a flurry of opposition criticisms of a CBC television program, The Open Grave, scheduled to be broadcast Wednesday night. An allegorical play, it draws an analogy between the death and resurrection of Christ and the fictional execution in modern-day Toronto of a ban-the-bomb leader who was framed for the murder of a policeman.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said advance publicity indicated the plan was a "flagrant, scandalous and sacrilegious insult to the majority of Canadians."

State Secretary Lamontagne, who reports to Parliament for the Crown-owned CBC, said he will discuss the program with CBC President Alphonse Oulmet.

Music Fee Approved

OTTAWA (CP)—The copyright appeal board has approved an application by BMI Canada Limited to require airline companies to pay a $12 annual fee for each passenger aircraft in which BMI-copyrighted music is played. The new fee was made public in a special edition of the Canada Gazette release Monday night.

NEW HEADQUARTERS for Canadian Broadcasting Corporation will be located in this Y-shaped steel and concrete building shown in aerial photo. The seven-storey $2,750,000 structure, located four miles from downtown Ottawa, will have 175 offices with 112,000 feet of floor space. (CP photo.)

HEART ATTACK FATAL TO NORWEGIAN

Arctic Effort Too Much For Kon-Tiki Voyager

OTTAWA (CP)—Radio operator Thorstein Raaby, a veteran of the Kon-Tiki expedition and now part of the Staib polar expedition, died of a heart attack at Alert, Northern Affairs Minister Laing announced today.

'Satisfied' De Gaulle Back Home

PARIS (Reuters)—President Charles de Gaulle returned here today after a nine-day trip to Mexico and the French West Indies.

De Gaulle, 72, was welcomed at Orly Airport by Prime Minister Georges Pompidou and other cabinet officials.

Members of this entourage said de Gaulle was extremely satisfied with his trip, one of the longest he has made abroad since assuming the presidency in January, 1959.

The trip was regarded as a warm-up for a month-long tour de Gaulle will make through South America this fall.

Reliable sources said the president was likely to leave Paris about Sept. 20 and will probably visit Brazil, Argentina, Peru, Uruguay, Ecuador, and Venezuela.

President de Gaulle is considering setting up a rocket-launching base in French Guiana, the newspaper France Soir reported today.

In a dispatch from Fort de France, Martinique, the newspaper said the base would be used to test intercontinental and medium-range military missiles and might be used for experimental space flights.

Time Files Appeal

TORONTO (CP)—Time International of Canada filed an appeal Friday at Osgoode Hall against an award of $35,000 by the Ontario Supreme Court to Major William Allan Platt for libel. Time contended the award was excessive.

War, Raaby was dropped behind German lines and sent radio messages to Britain.

The Kon-Tiki expedition took place between May 28 and Aug. 7, 1948, when the Norwegians floated with the currents on their raft for 4,300 miles from the west coast of Peru to near Tahiti in Polynesia.

Alert is at the northerly tip of Ellesmere Island.

Mr. Laing reported that the Norwegians, led by Bjorn Staib, started out on their Polar dash last week but got only 12 miles from Alert before they had to return for sled repairs.

He said they now have decided to use Eskimo sledges for their trek.

The 11-member party had planned to use Ward Hunt Island, about 100 miles west of Alert, as a jump-off point but have dropped that plan because of "rough going."

Raaby was the radio operator of the Scandinavian expedition led by Thor Hyerdahl which floated on the raft Kon-Tiki across the Southern Pacific in an effort to prove whether the Southern Pacific islands could have been populated by immigrants from South America.

Mr. Laing said an inquest will be held at Alert into Mr. Raaby's death.

The plan of the Staib expedition was to trek to the Pole and continue over the top of the world either to Spitsbergen or the Russian Islands off the Siberian coast.

JFK 'Cartwheels' In Circulation

WASHINGTON (AP)—Millions of half-dollars bearing the likeness of John F. Kennedy go into circulation today through the treasury in Washington and banks across the United States.

Twenty-six million of the new half-dollars already are available for distribution and about $5,000,000 more will be circulated before the end of the year. Unless Congress changes the law the mint will turn them out for 25 years or longer.

The 50-cent piece will replace the Benjamin Franklin half-dollar, minted from April, 1948, until the end of last year.

The distribution date falls just as a run on silver dollars is reaching a climax.

Only a few million of the cartwheels remain in the treasury's vaults—perhaps 6,000,000—and a treasury official said all of them may be gone this week.

LIMIT IS 1,000

The limit was 1,000 a purchaser. Cartwheels were "on sale" for only two hours and hundreds of persons were turned away.

The treasury takes no cognizance of the numismatic value of coins—their worth to collectors and dealers.

Some of those in line got bags of old, unrecirculated coins worth $2 to $100 each; others got cartwheels worth only $1 apiece.

Silver dollars have not been minted since 1935 and the supply in the treasury's vaults has been dwindling for years.

As the treasury dug deeper into its vaults to meet the demand, it brought out older coins that attracted collectors.

Space Ship Plunges Into Sea

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—

The second air force attempt to fire a Delta-winged glider to the edge of space and retrieve it after a searing glide back to earth failed, today when its booster rocket misfired.

The 1,176-pound flying laboratory, designed to help pave the way for manned space ships of the future, plunged into the Atlantic about 500 miles to the southeast—far short of ships and planes that hoped to recover it 2,100 miles down-range.

An air force spokesman said the spacecraft apparently did not separate from its dead upper stage rocket and "probably sank just like a spear." However, two planes refueled and began a search on the slim chance it remained afloat.

Beatles Get Awards

LONDON (AP)—Prince Philip presented the mop-headed Beatles quartet with two awards from a record company Monday night. The awards were for the most outstanding beat group in Britain and for producing 1963's best vocal record for dancing, "She Loves You."

U.S. Firms Block Sales To Red China

OTTAWA (CP)—New Democratic Leader T. C. Douglas said Monday a Vancouver trading firm has been blocked by the United States parent firms of Canadian auto companies in its efforts to sell auto and truck parts to Communist China.

Mr. Douglas raised the question in the Commons asking Trade Minister Sharp whether he had received any complaints over the auto companies' refusal to supply parts for export to China.

He referred to the United States law prohibiting U.S. companies from trading with Red China, and asked Mr. Sharp whether he considers the companies' action "a violation of Canada's right to exercise control over its own economy."

Mr. Sharp said he has received no complaints.

Outside the Commons, Mr. Douglas told a reporter that the Vancouver company, the Gain Import Company, had obtained export licences from the trade department to ship auto and truck parts to Communist China.

DIVORCES

Mr. Justice R. A. Wootton granted divorces in Victoria Courthouse Monday to:

Gordon W. Olfrey, 3147 Glasgow Avenue, Victoria, from Margaret Olfrey, 841 Dennis Street, Brandon, Man. They were married at Rivers, Man., in 1958.

Edward P. Harvey, 2696 Sooke Road, Glen Lake, from Corynne Harvey, Malahat, B.C. They were married here in 1951.

Beverly J. Wilkinson, 2145 Weiler Avenue, Sidney, from Leo Wilkinson, 2422 Amherst Street, Sidney. They were married at Sidney in 1957.

Albert W. Smith, 4450 Tyndall Avenue, Saanich, from Lydia F. Smith, 2127 Wark Street, Victoria. They were married at Duncan in 1953.

Garbage Dump Clean Bill Called Silly

The Hartland Road garbage dump Monday night received a clean bill of health from metro health chief, Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread.

Dr. Whitbread reported by letter to Saanich council health committee.

"Nonsense," replied D. M. Sanford, 4975 Prospect Lake Avenue, to Dr. Whitbread's statement that the dump "does not constitute a menace to public health."

"He was one of 24 persons who carried a 378-name petition to the committee in support of a drive to close the dump, used by most of Greater Victoria.

Committee recommended council take the matter up with Metro Health and inter-municipal committee to explore alternative means of garbage disposal.

Complaints from Prospect Lake Community Association, of which Mr. Sanford is vice-president, were that the privately-operated dump is rat and gull-infested and drains into recreational lakes.

Dr. Whitbread said it is incorrect to assume that drainage enters Killarney and Prospect Lakes because of the topography. Heal's Lake, on Victoria Disposal Co. land, does get drainage, he said.

Mr. Sanford produced a map showing two creeks draining the dump, one from a swamp, the other from an escarpment of tins on the south side of the dump.

"To say there is no drainage to Killarney Lake is just absolutely not correct," Mr. Sanford said, offering to take anyone on a free, guided tour of the disposal area.

HIGH COUNT

He asked how Killarney Lake gets so high a coliform (bacterial) count, higher than anywhere else in the Greater Victoria area, when there is no residential development other than an unoccupied house.

"To say it (pollution) is not draining into Killarney Lake is just nonsense," Mr. Sanford said.

Dr. Whitbread's letter outlined proposed measures to be taken by the company for improved operations, including immediate burning of accumulated garbage with fuel oil, better bulldozing of a material to be covered over, and accelerated rodent control.

Dr. Whitbread said the company manager and president J. B. Fleming were told they must stop salvaging and burn the garbage, using one face of the dump, covering with sand or earth, or else build an incinerator to burn all garbage and limit the salvaging.

The firm made plans to do the latter and is revising arrangements, committee was told.

BAT WAR

Meanwhile, more burning is being done and Pied-Piper exterminators were engaged to bring down the rat population.

Coun. Hugh Curtis observed the situation had improved over mid-January.

"Will measures be continued, or will we return to the ugly mess of a few weeks ago?" he asked.

G. A. C. Denford, community association president, told committee some rats were taken to the dump in garbage picked up in Saanich and Victoria, which contribute 400 and 1,000 tons respectively each day.

He said he took exception to Dr. Whitbread's clean bill of health for the dump, pointing out the fly infestation, "an obvious danger to health."

SMOKY VIEW

Dr. R. M. Petrie, head of Dominion Astrophysical Observatory within a few miles of the dump, wrote the area's air pollution is "becoming increasingly worse with smoke from the garbage dump passing over our telescopes . . . hampering the work of the observatory."

Coun. Joseph Casey agreed the dump should be somewhere else because there isn't the land fill needed for a sanitary operation.

Uvic Student Nominated For Fellowship

Victoria Rotary Club has named Eric Carlson as a candidate for a Rotary Foundation fellowship to study abroad.

Mr. Carlson, son of Dr. and Mrs. Alfred E. Carlson, 1611 St. Francis Wood, is a fourth-year student arts and sciences at the University of Victoria.

He is majoring in economics and Russian.

If Mr. Carlson is successful he will probably choose the University of London, England, which is noted for its economics and Russian studies.

One student will be selected from those nominated by 46 clubs in district 502 of Rotary International to study at the foreign university of his choice for the academic year 1965-66.

Sunrise Services Set for Sunday

Sunrise services will be held throughout the Greater Victoria area on Easter Sunday.

The interdenominational service scheduled for 7:45 a.m. on the high, rocky ground at the Douglas and Michigan Street entrance to Beacon Hill Park will be the 21st in succession.

It is sponsored by the Victoria Camp of the Gideon's International in Canada and is open to everyone. A public address system will be in operation for those who wish to listen to the service from their cars.

Rev. J. E. Storey of the Evangelical Free Church will give the Easter message. Music will be provided by the Salvation Army Band under Bandmaster William Hastings, with Major John Morrison as song leader.

CGIT SERVICE

Victoria CGIT groups will attend a sunrise service, at the Lookout in Beacon Hill Park at 7:30 a.m.

The service, sponsored by Victoria CGIT council, will be conducted by its president, Marie Gillette. The Youth Choir at First United Church will lead the singing and there will be a dramatic presentation of the Easter story.

Esquimalt church, with the Salvation Army, will hold a sunrise service at High Rock Cairn, off Esquimalt Road near Lampson Street, at 7 a.m., Sunday.

Speaker will be Chaplain C. F. Waite of HMCS Naden.

Langford churches will meet at the Malahat Chalet at 5:50 a.m. under the leadership of Rev. William Van Druen of Gordon United Church.

A pancake breakfast will be served afterwards in the Malahat Chalet.

The Young People's Union and Young Adults will attend a sunrise service in Mount Douglas Park at 6:30 a.m., followed by breakfast in the Guv'nor's Grill on Yates Street.

RELEASED by Russians after being shot down over East Germany Lieut. Harold Welch, 24, U.S. air force navigator, will "never be available for questioning by the press," a spokesman at U.S. Air Force European headquarters said today. No reason was given. Two other crew members in the reconnaissance plane have not been released although the Russians have said they will free them soon.

Federal Government Backs Fluoridation

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government said Monday that fluoridation of communal water supplies is considered to be of "great importance" in the total health picture of Canada's population.

It said no ill effects had been observed in persons who consume water with fluoride content adjusted to one part of fluoride per 1,000,000 parts of water, nor among thousands who have been drinking water fluoridated from underground deposits of fluoride.

However, the federal health department has given no advice for the specific purpose of influencing policy decisions in relation to fluoridation.

A written government statement on fluoridation was read to the Commons by John C. Munro, parliamentary secretary to Health Minister Judy LaMarsh in reply to questions by Manitoba dentist Joseph Slogan (PC-Springfield).

DENTIST'S QUESTION

Dr. Slogan asked what is the federal government's position in regard to fluoridation of communal water supplies and when could a clear statement of policy regarding "the favorable results of water fluoridation of the teeth" be expected.

Noting that the health department has been engaged in fluoridation research for some 16 years, the government reply said the department's activities from the beginning have been limited to research, the publication of research findings and the provision of technical advice and information.

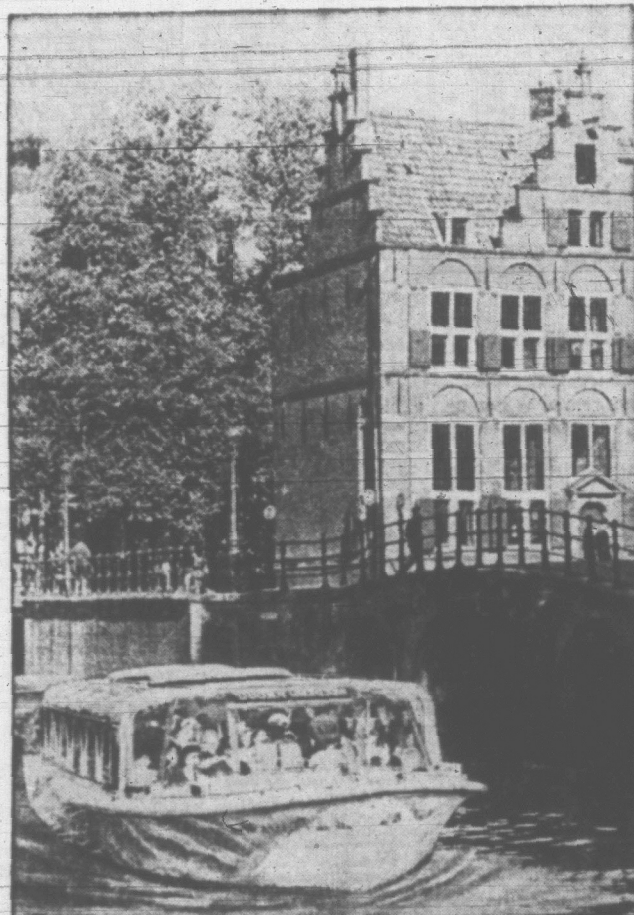

BENEFITS ESTABLISHED

Asked by Mr. Slogan what general health benefits have been found from fluoridation, the government said: "It is an established fact, from very extensive research, that the adjustment of the fluoride content of a water supply, whereby there is a concentration of one part fluoride to 1,000,000 parts of water, brings about an average reduction of 60 per cent in the prevalence of tooth decay to children consuming fluoridated water since birth."

"This improvement is dental health of children, who will later be adults, ensures an improvement in general health, dental health being an integral part of total health."

Woman Slain In Home

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP)—Mrs. Florence Cress, 37, of St. Catharines, was shot to death in her home Monday. Police put out an alert for a youth which resulted in the recovery of a wrecked automobile in Niagara-on-the-Lake, Ont. Three guns were found in the car.

Sightseeing with guide. In each city, KLM will take you on a comprehensive sightseeing trip. Most of these tours last about 3 hours. In Amsterdam (above), KLM gives you a coach tour and a boat-trip along the canals. For full details, clip coupon.

Comfortable Hotels. The hotels you stay in are not the fanciest in Europe, but each is clean and respectable. You may stay in a brand-new hotel in Athens (above), or a 14th-century palazzo in Florence.

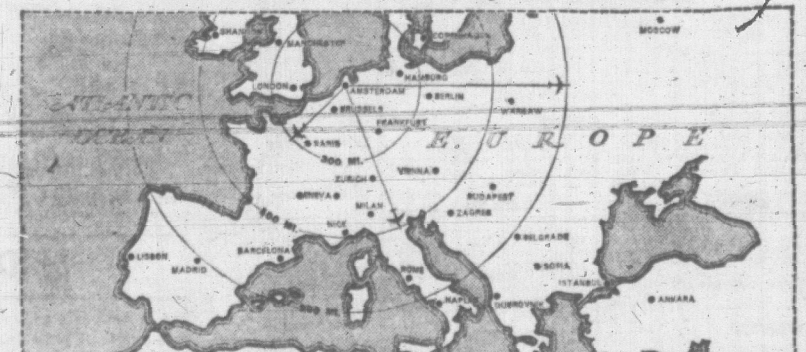

London's Tower Bridge. One of the best known landmarks in London is the Tower Bridge over the Thames. England is packed with fascinating points of interest. Ask your Travel Agent to list the finest of them for you.

Let KLM show you Europe — for as little as $5 per day plus your air fare

With the introduction of the new, low air fares over the Atlantic, KLM now makes it possible for you to enjoy a European vacation for less than you may pay for a holiday in Canada or in the U.S. KLM has an intriguing budget-priced travel plan that enables you to tour Europe for as little as $5 per day. Get your Travel Agent to explain how this plan works. Then have him help you work out your own $5 a day European tour schedule.

Amsterdam — Gateway to Europe

KLM's $5 a day vacation plans can be made to include many of the cities shown in the above map. Amsterdam, KLM's home base, is a logical starting off point for any European tour. It is also a fascinating city in its own right.

1. Make Amsterdam your European Gateway. Whatever type of European vacation you are planning on, you'll find Amsterdam an ideal starting point. From Amsterdam Airport, during the Summer, you have a choice of about 12 flights every day to London, 6 to Paris, 4 to Hamburg and 10 per week to Rome. Paris is only an hour away. Rome, two hours and five minutes. Frankfurt, one hour.
2. See Amsterdam. Before starting out on your European tour, make a point of spending a few hours—better still, a few days—in Amsterdam. It is a fascinating city. Fifty canals divide it into seventy islands linked by 500 picturesque bridges. Forty museums house famous Rembrandts, Vermeers, Van Goghs, and many others. Cosmopolitan nightlife bustles the year round. The standard of living is high. The cost of living is low. And there are 6,000 hotel rooms to choose from.
3. Plan to see the rest of Holland, too. Amsterdam is only a few hours' drive from the farthest corner of Holland. In 45 minutes you can be at the Alkmaar Cheese Market or Aalsmeer, the world's largest flower market. An hour puts you at the 18-mile-long dyke that stretches
4. "Europe on $5 A Day" and "Europe First Class—on a Budget!" These are two new KLM booklets that contain complete, detailed information on how you can see Europe for either $5 or $10 a day, everything found, excluding the price of your air fare. They give you facts about the cities you can visit, the hotels in which you stay. They also tell you exactly what you get for your $5 or $10. Whether you have already decided that this is your year to see Europe, or you are still just thinking about it, either way, you'll find these two booklets invaluable sources of travel information. Check coupon below for your free copies.
5. KLM Inclusive Tours are tailored to your own tastes. KLM Inclusive Tours are individual, low-cost package vacations linked to KLM's regularly-scheduled flights. Your Travel Agent can help individuals or groups plan Inclusive Tours to just about any country in the world and to suit any vacation requirement. KLM Inclusive Tour passengers receive the same outstanding service afforded all other travellers aboard KLM flights and, at destinations, they enjoy the same hotel service as all other visitors.

6. More than 3000 people look after KLM planes in Amsterdam alone. KLM's technical know-how is respected throughout the airline industry. More than 30 per cent of KLM's maintenance work is done for other airlines—a nice vote of confidence in KLM's engineering efficiency.

7. KLM's own multi-million jet workshop at Amsterdam International Airport has a tunnel for testing jet engines with up to 30,000 lbs. thrust. In these tunnels, closed-circuit television is used so that KLM engineers can study two engines simultaneously. KLM also uses a giant ultrasonic washing machine to cleanse every cavity in instrument parts. These parts are placed in a glass dome filled with cleaning fluid. 800,000 waves of energy shoot through the fluid every second, creating tiny bubble vacuums. The bubbles collapse and buffet the instrument part to sweep it clean of even the minutest microscopic dirt particles.

8. KLM has a dust-free workroom that is sealed by two air locks. Employees remove their shoes in one and put on special lint-free suits and hats in the other. The air in this dust-free workroom is constantly filtered. No dust particle bigger than five microns may enter. It would take 500 microns to cover the point of a pin!

KLM IN CANADA

KLM maintains 10 offices across Canada. KLM also has ticket offices in Quebec City, Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Hamilton, Winnipeg, Edmonton, and Vancouver. KLM employs over a hundred-and-fifty highly-trained personnel in Canada—including technical, supervisory, and operational staff at Dorval Airport, and a team of experienced Cargo Sales Engineers operating out of Montreal and Toronto.

KLM's Air Cargo Department at Montreal Airport is staffed with experts who have had previous cargo experience with KLM in other countries. They know the local situation first hand. KLM has Canadian cargo customers that have been using KLM for more than 10 years. In several Canadian companies, KLM air cargo has, in fact, become a basic element in their business scheme. KLM's Cargo Customers' Service is highly recommended for its professional competence.

Much of the superbly-prepared food you enjoy on your KLM trans-Atlantic jet is purchased in Canada. KLM has its own Catering Supervisor at Dorval International Airport. In addition to overseeing the preparation of appetizing meals for each outgoing flight, an important part of his job is to ensure that each individual meal is up to KLM standards. KLM has been famous for the excellence of its cuisine for years.

KLM Passenger Meeting Service at Montreal and New York. When arriving in Montreal or New York to connect with your KLM flight to Europe, be sure to take advantage of KLM's special Passenger Meeting Service. A uniformed staff member will not only meet you and conduct you to the KLM departure point, he will also arrange for all your baggage transfers. Ask for KLM's Passenger Meeting Service when confirming your reservation.

KLM provides several jet services a week from Montreal to Europe. In mid-summer, there will be no less than six flights a week to Amsterdam and back. However, depending on your destination, you may find the greater frequency of flights out of New York—several flights daily—offers you a wider choice of connections at Amsterdam. Flying to Europe via New York also enables you to break your journey and see the New York World's Fair—and at little or no additional air fare. Check both of these points with your Travel Agent or your nearest KLM office.

Rely on your Travel Agent—he is an expert. Your Travel Agent will help you with all your travel arrangements. His experience enables him to tell you where and how you can make the very most of your time and money. He can also tell you about the advantages of flying KLM. For detailed information on rates, hotels, fares, reservations, connections, tours, multi-lingual guides and interpreters, documents, and currencies, see your Travel Agent. See him soon.

$1.5 Billion Investment Slated in B.C.

DUNCAN—Vancouver Island chambers of commerce were told here Monday that employment is up in B.C., new industry is coming in, and capital investment is second only to Quebec.

At the associated chambers' annual convention, deputy minister of industrial development, trade and commerce Thomas Sturgess said about $1,500,000 in capital investment will be made in B.C. this year.

This is 15 per cent higher than last year, and higher than ever before, he said.

The only province with greater capital investment this year is Quebec.

Two firms are interested in making bottles here, and two others in making window glass, he said. There is no glass industry here at present.

Mr. Sturgess said foreign capital is anxious to invest here, in industry and other fields, such as housing.

He said B.C. has 33,000 more persons employed this year than last, while unemployment is down 1.2 per cent at 7.6.

The B.C. lumber industry faces a double threat, he said.

One is the development of substitute building materials. Also, several markets have been lost. The major foreign markets are the U.S., the U.K., Japan, Africa and Australia, in that order.

Mr. Sturgess said the U.K. now buys more from each of Russia and Finland than from Canada, and almost as much from Sweden.

Last year, he said, shipments of forest products were worth $665 million. About 78,000 persons are directly employed in forest industries.

Works Budget Untouchable In Oak Bay

Oak Bay council's public works committee will strongly resist any attempt to reduce the proposed $181,270 capital works program.

Councillors Monday night took a hard look at the projects, up $41,432 from last year, but failed to find anywhere to cut back.

The increase represents more than one mill in taxes but the increased revenue from assessments this year fell behind by about half a mill.

Increased assessments have usually brought in $35,000 or equivalent of one mill. This year increased assessments are calculated to bring in between $17,000 and $18,000. For the capital works alone another $22,000 would have to be raised by the municipality.

Largest single increase in the budget is $25,000 for development of the municipal yard at the foot of Elgin St.

Coun. William Wade described the present facilities as totally inadequate and urged that conditions for employers be improved.

Work on the new yard was started this year when rock was blasted and used for fill in other areas of the municipality. The new buildings are not expected to be completed for another two or three years.

Other major capital works projects include $42,000 for parks construction compared to $34,351 last year and $31,000 for water main extensions, $4,000 more than last year.

Total proposed maintenance expenditures are about $2,000 less than the figure included in the 1963 budget.

Total Oak Bay budget is $687,083 but this figure is expected to change before council is finished wrestling with the estimates.

World Fair Patronage Suggested

OTTAWA (CP)—A Montreal insurance man, who says he was denied information on which to bid for 1967 world fair insurance business, is asking Prime Minister Pearson to set up a royal commission to inquire into the management of the fair.

John P. Boyle of Montreal said in a letter to Mr. Pearson the inquiry is needed to answer questions about salaries, travelling and entertainment expenses and possible conflict of interest in the affairs of the crown company running the fair.

He said it is difficult to understand "that in some areas it is open to all bidders and in others a closed shop exists."

"In this and perhaps other areas of expo 1967 there may exist other 'conflict of interest' and perhaps the ugly word patronage."

PORTABLE SLOW SIGNS RULED OUT

DUNCAN—The B.C. Highways department has turned down a Cowichan School Board request for "portable slow signs" at school crossings on the Trans-Canada Highway.

The board wanted the signs installed to reduce traffic hazards for children attending Somenos, Koksilah and Bayview Schools.

The department felt that portable slow signs were not the answer.

But senior traffic engineer J. H. Harding, informed the board the department is studying various ways of increasing safety and effecting more rigid driver control at rural school crossings.

THESE CUBS FEAR REWARD!

CHICAGO HEIGHTS, Ill. (AP)—The six Cub Scouts who dashed into a burning home Monday and carried out three small children are waiting to see what they're going to get out of it. It's not that they're hoping for an award—they just learned that two of the rescued children have the measles. None of the Cubs have had the measles.

Joan Baez Joins Try To Halt Execution

OLYMPIA (AP)—A group of young pickets met with Governor Rosellini for the second day in a row Sunday, asking him to spare the life of slayer Don Anthony White.

White is to go to the gallows in the state penitentiary just after midnight Tuesday for the Christmas Eve, 1959, rape-slaying of Mrs. Alice Jumper, 69, in Seattle.

In their second meeting in the governor's office, the pickets were joined by folk singer Joan Baez, who was on her way to Portland and stopped off because "I felt I could do some good."

The governor repeated much of what he told the group Saturday. He said he "will do exhaustive research before deciding whether to stay White's execution or commute his sentence to life imprisonment."

Miss Baez, strumming a guitar and singing, led about 10 pickets in a parade in front on the capitol steps before the meeting with the governor.

About 30 people gathered shortly after the 23-year-old singer arrived about 12:30 p.m.

She stopped off on her way to Portland from a concert in Vancouver.

She spent about an hour with three teen-agers who picketed through the night on the capitol steps.

"I believe pretty strongly against this capital punishment and if I didn't have to get to a concert I would stay longer," she said.

V.I. Indians Back Claims Act Protest

DUNCAN—A resolution protesting certain parts of the federal Indian Claims Act was endorsed by the Southern V.I. Allied Indian Tribes at a meeting here Sunday.

The resolution originated from the Native Brotherhood of B.C. with a membership of more than 4,000 Indians from all parts of the province.

"They want the bill to acknowledge the aboriginal title of the Indian people of B.C., a right which has never been extinguished or surrendered," said Chief Wilson Bob of Nanaimo, president of Vancouver Island Allied Tribes.

The tribes are also opposed to a section of the act which allows Indian councils to submit individual claims.

They want the claims of Indians to be treated as a whole. Chief Bob said Indian councils will not submit individual claims.

Group of 7 Spearheads Zoning Fight

A seven-member committee has been appointed to spearhead the drive against rezoning of Lonsdowne campus for apartment use.

The committee, which will prepare a brief for presentation to Oak Bay council, was named Monday night at a meeting of University District Ratepayers' Association and other residents in the area.

More than 250 persons attended the meeting in Uplands School.

The meeting opposed "any commercial or residential development that could detract from the value of local property."

Members of the committee are S. G. Mooney, P. C. Ferguson, P. D. Bragg, Mrs. Donald Cameron, Adam Bell, Kenneth Jolley and Herbert L. Matthews.

Mr. Matthews said today: "It is our intention to write to council and the university development board to tell them to put the brakes on this thing until we have time to study it further."

He said all the residents attending the meeting are definitely opposed to any type of apartment development in that area.

Date of a public hearing on the rezoning will be announced at Oak Bay council Monday night. Residents were urged to voice their objections at that time.

It was also suggested that the 27-acre site be developed as a parkland.

TRIBAL REVOLT CHECKED

Bush War Smolders In Troubled Angola

LUANDA (AP)—The bloody tribal uprising that erupted against white settlers in Northern Angola three years ago has subsided to a smoldering bush war kept in check by 50,000 Portuguese troops.

Farm boys recruited from Portugal and tough-looking African soldiers wearing splashed camouflage uniforms patrol the red dirt roads to the north, making them safe at least for day-time travel.

Together they have flushed out warriors of the rebellious Bakongo tribe who once controlled areas within 40 miles of the capital of Luanda.

But trouble spots remain, and off the roads lie thick rain forests where jungle-wise guerrillas can travel at will undetected by the Portuguese.

When the rebellion exploded on March 15, 1961, the Bakongos, armed with crude weapons, rampaged through Angola's rich coffee plantations and white settlements cutting down men, women and children.

The Europeans soon struck back in no less bloody fashion slaughtering blacks indiscriminately.

"It was a good thing that the army finally arrived," a German settler said. "Otherwise the senseless butchery would have gone on until all the whites and blacks were dead."

Trained and supplied by the Congo, they operate from a camp a short distance from Leopoldville with the blessings of Premier Cyrille Adoula.

Leader of the rebels is 39-year-old Holden Roberto, a slim, bearded, Baptist-trained Bakongo.

The Portuguese say Roberto's position is becoming untenable among his own followers. They note that he promised three years ago that the Portuguese would "soon" be booted out of Angola.

The whites still retain all the cities and there is little evidence the Bakongo revolt has spread to other tribes.

ALBERNI 'TONSIL COUNTRY'

Throat Doctors Find Happy Hunting Ground

PORT ALBERNI—More people have their tonsils removed in the Alberni district than in other non-metropolitan areas in B.C., according to reports from health unit officials here.

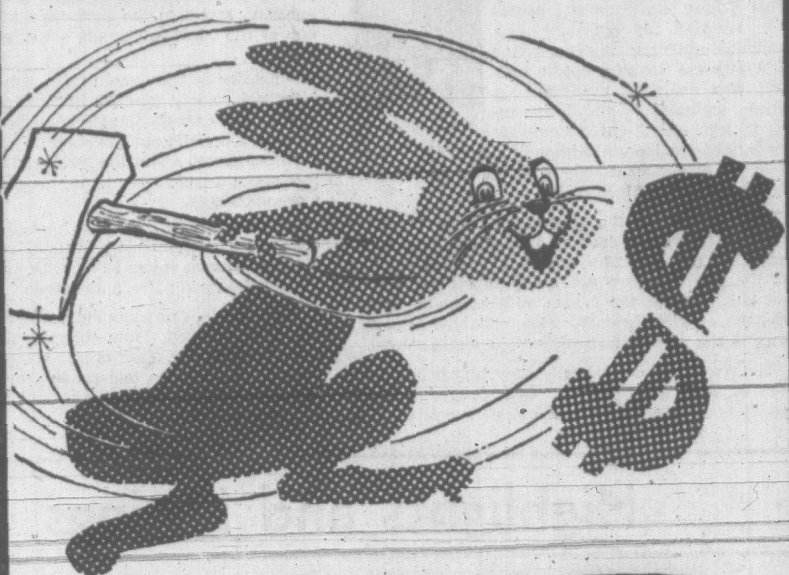

The reports also disclosed that respiratory ailments were five times as common.

Ald. G. G. Reynolds quoted the reports in discussing with officials of MacMillan, Bloedel & Powell River Co. air pollution from the valley's industrial plants.

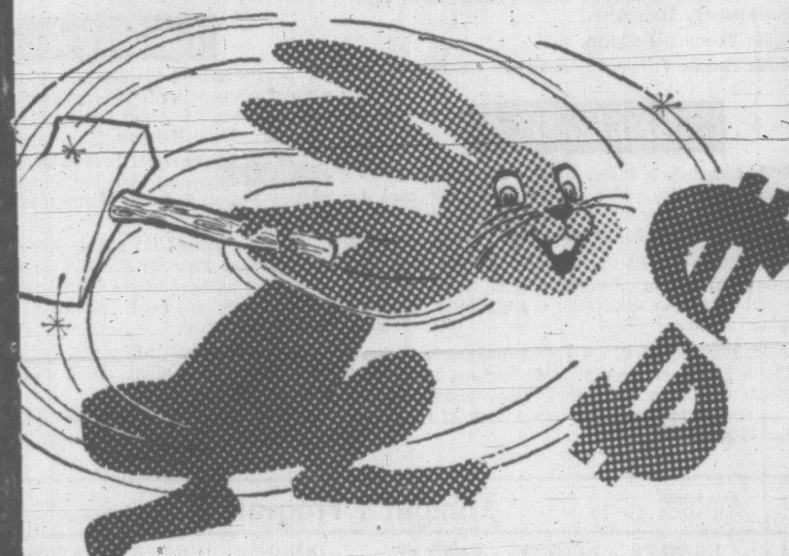

But health officials in their reports would not say definitely that smoke is responsible.

Company officials said research to control smoke and odor from plants is continuing.

Former Lord Prefers Life's Main Stream

By TOM OCHILTREE

LONDON (AP) — Britain's House of Lords possesses a quaint feudal charm and little power. It often makes ambitious political figures feel as if trapped in a jar of honey.

Yet how is it to leave that world — to be addressed as a lord one day and plain mister the next?

Quintin Hogg, outspoken son of a Tennessee-born mother, has undergone the experience. Imagine having a tooth pulled the same day and drop a notch socially. To give up a title is something like that, Hogg says. It was terrible — but he shows no signs of being sorry.

Hogg, 56, was a Viscount Hailsham until last autumn. He cast his peerage away to gain a House of Commons seat and keep alive his hope of being prime minister.

Everything changed, including his name — and he had much preferred the sound of Hailsham to Hogg, possibly because of childhood-teasing.

"Even now I find it difficult to say Mrs. Hogg when I introduce my wife," he observed. "I became used to referring to her as Lady Hailsham."

ANNOUNCED MOVE

Hogg announced Oct. 19, at the Conservative party conference at Blackpool, that he intended to give up his title as the Second Viscount Hailsham. He was the government leader in the House of Lords and Harold Macmillan was ending his run as prime minister.

Hogg gambled for the big prize of British politics. He competed with Lord Home, Richard A. Butler, Reginald Maudling and Iain Macleod. Home won, resigned his ancient title and now sits in the House of Commons as Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home.

Hogg's time still could come.

Carlow Committed For Trial In County Court

Frank Carlow will stand trial in county court within the next two weeks on a charge of escaping from Colquitz Jail.

He was committed for trial Monday at the end of a preliminary hearing before Magistrate William Ostler in Saanich court.

Carlow broke out of the prison Feb. 28 in company with convicted burglar Richard Rodriguez. Carlow surrendered next day after the Times agreed to publish his story of conditions in the jail. Rodriguez is still at large and is suspected to have fled to the United States.

Carlow will go before Judge Montague Tyrwhitt-Drake for trial in county court. He is defended by Jack Gatehouse.

He rallied the party after the confusion of the abortive British Suez operation in 1956. He is credited with organizing the Conservatives' 1959 election triumph.

And as he sits now in the House of Commons, his feet propped up on the dispatch box before him, he takes comfort in his popularity among party workers. He is also back in the main stream of British political life.

"History is made in the House of Commons, but only influence is exercised in the House of Lords," he says.

The Lords cannot kill legislation but can delay a measure for a year, except on money bills when the delay lasts only a month.

Canada Rejects Plan For World Trade Body

POLICE BILL

Ontario Minister Resigns

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario legislature voted unanimously Monday night to kill a widely criticized section of the government's police amendment bill.

Immediately afterwards Premier Robarts announced the resignation of Attorney-General Cass who introduced the legislation last Thursday.

The end of the debate saw the Conservatives supporting a New Democratic Party amendment to their own motion.

Members voted 96 to 0 in favor of deleting from the police amendment bill a section that would have empowered the Ontario Police Commission to imprison persons for refusing to testify under oath, and in secret, before the three-man commission.

Attorney-General Cass, after introducing the amendment, had described the powers it would give to the commission as "terrible, dangerous and drastic."

In his letter of resignation to Premier Robarts, he said his comments had "unintentionally touched upon the sensibilities of our people."

'AROUSING CONCERN'

"Having in complete innocence aroused the concern of the people... I do not feel that I wish to continue in this office."

When the legislature began its Monday sitting at 3 p.m., Mr. Robarts said he wanted the bill to be given thorough examination by the legislature's legal bills committee. Members of the police commission and government legal experts would appear before the commission to explain the offensive section of the bill.

Liberal Leader Farquhar Oliver attacked the premier's motion to send the bill to committee.

VISIT was paid to Mrs. Edwin O. Reischauer to her injured husband after surgery to repair injury suffered in knife attack.

Lists Ways To Aid Nations

(Times News Services)

GENEVA—External Affairs Minister Paul Martin today declared Canada's opposition to a new world trading body, asking instead for the "preservation and development" of basic trade rules and institutions that have been built up since the Second World War.

Speaking as the first representative of the industrialized countries at the world trade and development conference, Martin also listed seven ways in which the richer countries could help the poorer ones—including the abolition of tariffs and other restrictions on tropical foodstuffs and industrial raw materials.

Martin spoke after Raul Prebisch, Argentine United Nations economist and secretary-general of the conference, attacked the "fundamental weakness of the entire postwar" trading structure.

He called for formation of an international trading organization which would have powers to regulate world commerce.

HELP COUNTRIES

Martin's statement outlined ways in which Canada would be willing to join to give developing countries "a better opportunity of competing on terms which would bring into play their natural advantages as efficient producers of certain commodities and manufactures."

He said in general, Canada was opposed to the creation of a new independent world trade organization, and would prefer to adapt the existing machinery—the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade—to make it more responsive to the problems of the developing countries.

Many countries, notably Communist and African ones, want a new international organization to supersede GATT which has been criticized as a "rich countries' club."

Martin said the forthcoming "Kennedy round" of tariff cutting negotiations would "complement the conference."

Martin outlined his seven-point plan in these terms:

1. Canada "will work with other developed countries in eliminating wherever practicable tariffs and other restrictions which obstruct trade in the tropical foodstuffs and industrial raw materials traditionally exported by developing countries."

2. Canada "will work with developing countries and others in trying to improve the conditions of world trade for temperate agricultural products."

3. Products of interest to developing countries, including manufactured and semi-manufactured materials, should be included in the negotiations without industrialized countries expecting full reciprocity from developing countries for benefits they may derive from these negotiations, Martin said.

4. Canada strongly supports a general removal of quantitative restrictions now impeding imports into developed countries of manufactured goods from developing countries.

5. While approaching the question of references with caution, Canada would be prepared to consider proposals for exchange of regional tariff preferences.

Greek, Turk Cypriots Agree on Mediator

(Times News Services)

GENEVA—Both Greek and Turkish Cypriots today welcomed the nomination of a Finnish diplomat and former premier, Sakari S. Tuomioja, as mediator of the Cyprus issue, but said there is no assurance his arrival will ease the existing tension.

Greece, Turkey and Britain also approved Tuomioja.

A dispatch from Nicosia said leaders of the Greek-Cypriot and Turkish-Cypriot communities are more concerned now over the role of the UN peace force which is not yet operational.

A spokesman for President

Archbishop Makarios said the Greek leader has no objection to the naming of Tuomioja to find a political solution.

The Turkish leader, Vice-President Fazil Kutchuk, said he welcomed the nomination.

UN Secretary-General U Thant needed only their formal approval before making the appointment.

SPINELLI ARRIVES

Thant's personal representative in Cyprus, Pier Spinelli of Italy, arrived in Geneva early today from Nicosia.

Lt. Gen. P. S. Cyani of India, the commander of the UN force, probably flew from Geneva to Cyprus tonight.

In Nicosia, Greek and Turkish-Cypriots completed an exchange of hostages arranged by British authorities.

Turkish Cypriots held seven Greek-Cypriots captured Monday from a bus at Louroujina about 5 miles east of Nicosia, until two Turkish-Cypriots were freed by the Greek-Cypriots.

The seven arrived early today at Larnaca and the two Turkish Cypriots were taken home to Louroujina in a British armored car.

Three other Greek-Cypriot hostages also were released Monday night.

CASS quits under fire

mittee before giving it second reading. Mr. Oliver said the premier was "afraid to take his chances before the proper tribunal"—the legislature as a whole.

Mr. Oliver moved an amendment to the premier's motion declaring that the government should withdraw the entire bill and replace it with one which did not include Section 14—the one referring to the commission.

Debate on this amendment began shortly after 3:30 p.m. and continued on after the supper break until about 10 p.m. A number of Conservative speakers said they would support the motion to send the bill to committee but would not support Section 14 of the bill in committee.

EXPRESSES SUPPORT

When the vote on the Liberal amendment was called NDP Leader Donald MacDonald introduced a second amendment and Mr. Robarts expressed support for it.

Burglars Get $9,000 In PO Money Orders

Blank money orders with a value up to $9,000 were stolen from a Victoria sub-post office overnight Monday.

They were taken in a break-in at A & B Hardware, 650 Burrard Street West.

The postal money orders were kept in a locked drawer inside a small post office lock-up in the store. The thieves broke into the store by forcing the front door.

Saanich police said a list of the numbers of the money orders will be circulated as soon as possible, and meantime warned all merchants to be on guard against cashing them.

The burglars stole the stamp used by the issuing clerk to mark all money orders. Its number is "Vic Sub 30."

TOOK $100

As well as taking the money orders the burglars got away with $100 cash from the post office and three rifles from the store.

MacArthur 'Serious'

WASHINGTON (AP)—General of the Army Douglas MacArthur was reported in serious condition today.

The 84-year-old general underwent emergency surgery Monday night at Walter Reed Hospital.

Hospital spokesmen today passed on this report from Brig. Gen. Henry S. Murphy, hospital commandant:

"He MacArthur is cognizant of his surroundings. He is talking. But he is seriously ill."

(Times Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA—New threats against the life of the queen were described today as "vicious propaganda" by Prime Minister Pearson.

He declared the threats—the latest reportedly have come from members of the "Army For The Liberation of Quebec"—would not force cancellation or postponement of the queen's scheduled visit to Quebec City this fall.

"It would be shameful to surrender to this kind of minority and vicious propaganda," an angry Mr. Pearson told the Commons.

He was vigorously applauded by MPs on all sides of the house. The question of the threats was raised by Harold Winch (NDP—Vancouver East). He quoted Monday's editions of the Montreal newspaper, Le Devoir, as reporting that some members of the ALQ said the Queen should not visit Canada unless she wanted to become the first British sovereign to die on Quebec soil.

Mr. Winch asked the prime minister if the government was paying special attention to the threats, and whether it had plans for taking complete security measures during the Queen's visit.

The Vancouver MP noted that "just one fanatic" had been successful in assassinating President Kennedy last November.

Mr. Pearson said he had not heard of the latest threat but said he considered it "a very vicious one, but representing only a very small minority of the people of Quebec."

"I am aware that a small minority, even of one, can do a lot of damage," he said. "I can assure the House that when her majesty comes to Canada she will receive every protection possible, and I am sure her visit will be a happy and a safe one."

DERANGED TOKYO YOUTH

U.S. Envoy Stabbed

TOKYO (AP)—U.S. Ambassador Edwin O. Reischauer was recovering in a Tokyo hospital tonight from a stab wound in the right thigh inflicted by a Japanese youth who police said was mentally deranged.

Police said the assailant, Norikazu Shiotani, 19, was nearsighted and told them he wanted to protest because the U.S. and Japanese governments did not do enough for people with poor sight.

NEARSIGHTED

The police quoted Shiotani as saying: "I am nearsighted. The reason why Japan has no protective facilities for weak-sighted people is due to bad American occupation policies."

The police said Shiotani had tried unsuccessfully earlier this year to set fire to a U.S. embassy building to advance his crusade.

The police said there apparently was no political motive for the assault.

The thin, sullen-faced youth climbed the embassy wall and plunged a six-inch blade into the 53-year-old ambassador as he came out of the embassy chancery on his way to lunch.

The ambassador was given blood transfusions to compensate for heavy loss of blood.

PUSHED TO FLOOR

John Ferchak, 40, an official in the embassy's commercial section, grabbed Shiotani from the back, pushed him to the floor, forced the knife from his hand, then called for help.

The head of the surgical team that operated on Reischauer, Dr. Ryoji Matsushita, told reporters that unless there were complications, the 3½-inch-deep wound should be healed in two weeks.

Premier Ikeda held an emergency cabinet meeting to discuss the stabbing and then instructed the Japanese ambassador in Washington to convey to President Johnson the government's regret over the attack.

RUNWAY LIGHTS OUT, RCAF HOLDING MAN

MONTREAL (UPI)—The RCAF today were holding an unidentified man who was picked up at the nearby St. Hubert, Que., base Monday night after 14 runway lights were discovered broken.

The air force said that information on the case at this stage was "classified" and the matter was being studied by Defence Minister Hellyer's office in Ottawa. He declined to say whether sabotage was suspected or whether the man was connected in any way with recent acts of terrorism in Quebec.

The man told air force police he had "lost his way" and wandered on to the air base.

WORLD HAS CHANGED, SAYS JOHNSON

Brute Force Not Answer Now

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson said today a general war would be impossible in this nuclear age, and that nations must follow "reasoned agreement instead of ready aggression" in dealing with global problems.

Departing from his prepared text in addressing a labor convention, Johnson said some people often urge him to send in troops when an international crisis flares.

"There may have been a time that the commander-in-chief could order soldiers to march," he said.

But, he said, "the world has changed and so has the method of dealing with disruptions of the peace."

Mentioning some current world trouble spots, Johnson said he hoped some agreement can be worked out with Panama over the Panama Canal.

dispute, and is hopeful that civil strife on the island of Cyprus could soon be ended by agreement.

In Cuba, he said, a crisis was averted when the water to the U.S. Guantanamo naval base was cut off by Fidel Castro's regime.

This was done, he said, "not by a battalion of marines bayoneting... instead we sent in a single admiral to turn the water off."

By cutting off the water line into the U.S. naval base, Johnson said, "a source of danger had been removed." The naval base is now being supplied with water by tankers.

Speaking of Viet Nam, Johnson said divergent voices urged various courses such as broadening the war against Communist guerrillas, more appeasement or even retreat.

Johnson said "we stand ready to help the Vietnamese preserve their independence... and keep them from being engulfed by communism."

Johnson, speaking before the Building and Construction Trades Department of the AFL-CIO, said:

"We are the most powerful nation in the world and we can afford to be patient..."

But, he added, power brings obligations, and the people of the world expect more from the strongest nation on earth "than just a show of brute force."

That Japanese with th' knife seems t' hev bin tryin' it on fer thighs.

In th' trade, talks Canada seems t' be stockin' th' status quo—but it may be hard t' sell.

A plastic daffodil is science's answer t' th' sheetmetal totem pole.

YOU RUN, NEVER WALK IN DAFFIEST BUSINESS

EVERYBODY WORKS in a bulb grower's family when Easter nears and three-year-old Stephanie, youngest of Daffodil king Geoffrey Vantreight's seven youngsters, is no exception.

GREEN DAFFODILS haven't yet unfurled their heads—they will, after they are picked and in time for Easter. But cold weather makes tough picking for the 500 field workers on Vantreight farms, like Mrs. Ellen Allen above, of 959 Pembroke Street.

By PETE LOUDON

Geoff Vantreight, the daffodil man, tried to light a smoke while we interviewed him at the gallop. The match went out. He threw away the cigarette. And a moment later he was reaching for another.

He never did get that one lit either. There was a truck of air-freight blooms to load. There was a washroom with the drains plugged and people waiting.

There was a delegate from a women's association waiting to ask for some free table centres. There was a thermometer to check. There were 500 pickers to oversee. There was a stuck coffee machine. There were problems heaped on problems—and we began to realize how the word "daffy" came about.

20 Hours Daily

Mr. Vantreight is on the run 20 hours a day right now.

"If you had to get half your income in four days, you'd work like hell too," he said.

"That's all the time he had this week to meet the demands of the Easter market."

If you miss the Easter market it's almost as bad as trying to sell Christmas trees after Christmas," said the harried bulb grower whose operation supplies about 80 per cent of all the daffs shipped out of B.C.

Early and Late

Easter came early this year and the warm weather is late.

"Look what we've got—asparagus," said Mr. Vantreight holding up a sheaf of daffodils still in bud. They DID look like asparagus.

They'll be in full bloom in two days—they keep growing after they're cut. But the cold, slow spring means higher costs to the daffodil grower.

Pickers can't go straight down a row nipping off every daff. They can take one here, one there, one a yard away. Instead of picking 80 dozen an hour they are averaging 20 dozen an hour.

And they can't nip them off with their fingers when the buds haven't opened. They have to reach below the soil level and cut the stem with a knife. Bang go the labor costs.

Flown Back

Five hundred pickers earning 75 cents or $1 an hour (depending on their production), runs into a fortune. Meantime the planes couldn't land in snowbound Winnipeg Monday and the blooms went on to Toronto and must be flown back—at a time when every minute counts.

"We're in a little bit of trouble, but not big trouble," says Mr. Vantreight.

After the Easter market comes Cancer Day in Toronto, and women volunteers will be selling Vantreight daffs in the street.

"They get about 45 cents a bloom and earn $68,000 for cancer research—and in a spring like this, they help save the local daff industry from falling on its petals."

$200,000 Industry

The industry brings about $200,000 income to this area each year, spread over about 10 growers and hundreds of employees. The panic starts in the greenhouses at Christmas time. (Mr. Vantreight produced a record 20,000 blooms for the Christmas market.)

Shipping continues after Christmas with growing intensity until Easter. The peak is fewer pickers, less pandemonium each day from now until the daffs are done.

Then can Mr. Vantreight take a much needed rest? Sure, except for looking after the yield from 25 acres of cabbages, 25 acres of strawberries, 25 acres of cauliflower and 50 acres of potatoes.

But just now things are busy.

FORGIVE HER TORONTO, BUT MONTREAL WOVES QUEEN JAN

Victoria Daffodils Symbols of Hope for Easterners

By JAN LAIDLAW

Victoria's Daffodil Queen, 18-year old Jan Laidlaw, on a cross-Canada tour to tell the country about Vancouver Island's daffodils and the current Spring Flower Festival, has reached Montreal.

The Quebec city has captivated the University of Victoria education student-turned-Queen.

In her second daily report to the Times, she tells of a TV interview and what our daffodils mean to other Canadians.

MONTREAL — If anyone from Toronto is listening, please don't, but I think Montreal is the most fascinating city I have ever been in. Not that Toronto people aren't the finest but the city itself is just too big and sprawling and fast moving. When we came into Montreal tonight, (Monday) it didn't seem as busy but maybe I'll change my mind by tomorrow.

It seems that ever since I left home on Sunday, the weather has been wonderful and today was certainly a jewel of a day. Maybe that is partly because the first thing I saw when I opened the morning paper was me looking out of it. Everyone said it was a good picture and I have a clipping for my scrapbook you can bet.

Later we visited Mayor Phillip Givens of Toronto and had a look at the new city hall that is under construction. We had time for a little shopping too and Mrs. Fraser, my chaperone, is kidding me about needing a pack train to bring home my souvenirs. It really isn't quite that bad. At lunch time we were driven to the TV station by a wonderful woman who is chairman of the Toronto Cancer Drive. I was very nervous about the TV show but it wasn't bad once we got started. We had a wonderful drive around the city and then flew to Montreal tonight. The city's new airport is even nicer than Toronto's but it wasn't quite as busy. Some wonderful TCA people met us and made us welcome and then came down to the city to be met by some Montreal members of the cancer drive.

I don't think Victorians realize just how much our daffs mean to the rest of Canada. I certainly had no idea how significant they have become as the symbols of hope.

Tomorrow will be another day with radio, press interviews, a visit to the mayor and all the things that I always thought happened to other people. But they really are happening to me and I am thrilled to death.

NEW ROOFLINE is being added to the civic precinct as workmen swarm over two-storey addition to City Hall (in centre of photo) which is quickly taking shape as concrete work nears completion. View, photographed from top of the Hudson's Bay department store, shows a different aspect of the project. Area of parked cars will be transformed into the centre of the plaza, graced by a centennial fountain. Workmen also are busy reconstructing the MacPherson Playhouse, behind police station at right, and others are pulling down the last structures slated for demolition. Landscaping work will begin soon, too.

VICTORIA, B.C., TUESDAY, MARCH 24, 1964—PAGE 23

Uvic Planning $1.5 Million Arts Building

Preparation for erecting a $1.5 million arts-education building to replace Lansdowne campus facilities is under way for University of Victoria Gordon Head Campus.

A report of the university's campus planning committee was given to Uvic development board Monday night, suggesting primarily a single building of 80,000-100,000 square feet within the academic core of the new campus.

$16 SQUARE FOOT

Its cost is estimated on the average of $16 per square foot of new construction.

Replacement of the Young and Ewing buildings on the old campus is in line with consolidation of all academic and administrative facilities at Gordon Head.

Meanwhile, the old buildings are still up for sale, being examined by three prospective buyers interested in a package deal, including some 11 acres of land of which the elaborate Young building gardens form a part.

Prof. Roger Bishop, a member of the campus planning committee, said it is felt one large building should replace Lansdowne facilities initially. This would allow for expansion of the education faculty and permit the faculty of arts and science to move into its own building as time passes.

MOVE SOON

Intention of the board of governors is to move to Gordon Head as soon as possible.

This will mean provision for special facilities in psychology and geography departments, which require laboratories and work rooms; new administration offices and faculty offices.

"A theatre is of high priority in order for us to carry on dramatic work," Prof. Bishop said. "We are losing Lansdowne auditorium (Young building) and our theatre hut at Gordon Head will not provide all we need."

Meanwhile, the development board has asked for surveys of parking and landscaping of the three new buildings within the academic circle.

450 MORE CARS

Parking will be needed soon for 450 more student cars, which in turn will mean completion of the ring road circling the academic core and giving access to parking areas.

Land surrounding the new buildings is in upheaval since start of construction. This will be levelled and planted by summer, it is hoped.

MILK PRICE INCREASE EXPECTED

Wholesale milk prices rose by one cent at Victoria area dairy distributors today giving rise to the possibility of higher retail prices soon.

A distributor spokesman said the adjustment was made to cover increased costs, particularly wages, since last fall.

The increase is on milk sold to retailers such as soda fountains.

The rate is still below that of the Lower Mainland, the dairy man said.

Other dairy products were unaffected.

The increase occurred at the same time as Island dairymen were making overtures to the milk board for changes in the pricing formulae which would allow a boost in the price paid producers. They state that producers are now receiving less revenue than they did in 1954.

Some Liquor Prices Higher

There's bad news about booze. The B.C. cabinet ordered price increases Monday affecting rye, gin, rum, brandy and wine.

The increases range from 3 to 45 per cent generally. Brands of rye which sell now at $4.80 to $5.20 are to be increased about 15 cents a bottle. One premium rye which sells at $7.95 goes to $9.20. A popular French wine jumps from $2.80 to $3.25, others went up 20 cents per half bottle. Scotch, recently boosted, is unaffected.

Buyers can beat the increase if they act fast. Liquor vendors today are still selling at the old price and do not know the date the increases were to be effective.

The cabinet order said the higher rye prices reflected increases in prices charged by the producers.

Air Cadet Week Plans Under Way

Air Cadet week will be observed across Canada from April 19 to 25.

In Victoria plans are underway to start the week with a church parade on Sunday, April 19. Arrangements are being made to schedule sports events during the week and a party for Saturday night.

Thursday will be "cadet night" with open house and inspection at the Air Force Building, Quadra St.

Chairman of the sponsoring committee William Forbes said more plans will be announced later as events are scheduled for the 100 cadets and 16 cadettes.

13 in City Get Centenary Jobs

Thirteen Victorians today were named to the committee in charge of B.C. celebrations of Canada's centenary in 1967.

They were among 23 prominent British Columbians who will head up sub-committees for the board of directors of the Canadian Confederation Centennial Committee of B.C., chaired by deputy provincial secretary L. J. Wallace.

The subcommittees, one for each area of participation in the 1967 program will extend their work throughout the province aided by corresponding representatives and municipally-appointed committees in each centre of population.

MEETING SOON

"It is anticipated that these people will be summoned by the lieutenant-governor to a meeting within six weeks," said Mr. Wallace.

He also announced that the central committee will open offices soon in the old B.C. Power Commission Building on Blanshard Street.

Mr. Wallace said the organization that is now under way will parallel that which operated successfully in B.C.'s 1958 centennial observance. Major concern now is for early appointment of co-operating committees as the civic government level, he added.

The Victoria representatives to the committee are: J. E. Brown, deputy minister of municipal affairs, chairman of the commemorative projects subcommittee; Dr. J. F. K. English, deputy minister of education, chairman of educational activities; R. F. Gadsby, chairman of publications;

Rear Admiral W. M. Landy, more, armed services liaison chairman;

Professor Albert E. Loft, Uvic, historic commemorations chairman;

Dr. H. M. Morrison, civil service commissioner, chairman of intra-governmental coordination;

J. K. Nesbitt, Pioneer recognition chairman;

J. H. Panton, community organization chairman;

Ian Ross, tourist promotion and hospitality chairman;

T. L. Sturgess, deputy minister of trade and industry, chairman of Industrial Progress and Participation;

Albert Sutton, chairman of the printing sub-committee.

Also named were Dorwin Baird, Vancouver, chairman of creative and cultural activities; Frank Bernard, Vancouver, chairman of community activities and promotion; R. P. Clifton, Courtenay, chairman of native Indian participation;

Lyall A. Dagg, Vancouver, chairman of press, radio and television programming; Ralph Gram, Vancouver, Fair and Exhibitions; Jack W. Henderson, Vancouver, chairman of labor activities; H. W. Mulholland, chairman of Pacific National Exhibition sub-committee; Prof. R. F. Osborne, Vancouver, chairman of athletics and sports; Miss Emily Ostapchuk, ethnic organizations chairman;

Dr. Phyllis Ross, CBE, Vancouver, UBC chancellor-chairman Canadian Centenary Council sub-committee; Mrs. Pearl Steen, Vancouver, chairman women's activities.

PLANNERS

Named earlier as directors of the planning group were Mr. Wallace, Welfare Minister W. D. Black, E. F. Fox of Vancouver, C. C. Hacker of Abbotsford, Sam E. Hughes of Ganges, provincial librarian and archivist W. E. Ireland, T. F. Orr of Vancouver and New Westminster mayor Mrs. Elizabeth Wood.

Total membership of the governing body stands now at 31.

It would have the same effect as doubling the broadcast power without increasing the transmission output, he said, and it would no longer interfere with the San Francisco station.

Towers will be located on the southernmost tip of the island near the lighthouse station.

RED AND WHITE

They will be steel and painted red and white bands to make them distinct to navigation.

CFAX broadcasts between 6:30 a.m. and 6:15 p.m. during March, goes from 6 a.m. to 7 p.m. during April, adds 14 hours in May and another half-hour in June.

The board also gave notice in its announcement that it would change television broadcasting regulations to provide for a reduction in Canadian content during the summer period from June 21 to Sept. 13. The 55 per cent Canadian content rule would be reduced to 45 per cent for this period.

POLICE BILL

Ontario Minister
Resigns

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario legislature voted unanimously Monday night to kill a widely-criticized section of the government's police amendment bill.

Immediately afterwards Premier Robarts announced the resignation of Attorney-General Cass who introduced the legislation last Thursday.

The end of the debate saw the Conservatives supporting a New Democratic Party amendment to their own motion.

Members voted 96 to 0 in favor of deleting from the police amendment bill a section that would have empowered the Ontario Police Commission to imprison persons for refusing to testify under oath, and in secret, before the three-man commission.

Attorney-General Cass, after introducing the amendment, had described the powers it would give to the commission as "terrible, dangerous and drastic."

In his letter of resignation to Premier Robarts, he said his comments had "unintentionally touched upon the sensibilities of our people."

'AROUSING CONCERN'

"Having in complete innocence aroused the concern of the people... I do not feel that I wish to continue in this office."

When the legislature began its Monday sitting at 3 p.m., Mr. Robarts said he wanted the bill to be given thorough examination by the legislature's legal committee. Members of the police commission and government legal experts would appear before the commission to explain the effective section of the bill.

Liberal Leader Farquhar Oliver attacked the premier's motion to send the bill to committee before giving it second reading.

Mr. Oliver said the premier was "afraid to take his chances before the proper tribunal"—the legislature as a whole.

Mr. Oliver moved an amendment to the premier's motion declaring that the government should withdraw the entire bill and replace it with one which did not include Section 14—the one referring to the commission.

Debate on this amendment began shortly after 3:30 p.m. and continued on after the supper break until about 10 p.m. A number of Conservative speakers said they would support the motion to send the bill to committee but would not support Section 14 of the bill in committee.

When the vote on the Liberal amendment was called NDP Leader Donald MacDonald introduced a second amendment and Mr. Robarts expressed support for it.

Mr. MacDonald's amendment continued on Page 2.

Train Jury Out

AYLESBURY (Reuters) — A closely guarded 12-man jury today debated the fate of 11 men accused in Britain's great train robbery.

FINAL

Black Hawks Dominate All-Stars

MONTREAL (UPI) — The Chicago Black Hawks, who seem to win everything but the National Hockey League championship, dominated the 17th annual Hockey News all-star team with five of the six first team selections.

The Hawks placed goalie Glenn Hall, defenceman Pierre Pilote, centre Stan Mikita, and wingers Bobby Hull and Kenny Wharram on the team. The only non-Chicago player to make the grade was Toronto's defenceman Tim Horton.

Grey Cup 'Replay' for Charity

VANCOUVER (CP) — B.C. Lions and Hamilton Tiger-Cats will stage a "replay" of the 1963 Grey Cup game as a benefit exhibition July 20.

The Canadian Football League teams will make a percentage of the proceeds available to a fund for construction of an all-purpose stadium for junior athletes.

The clubs last met here for the Grey Cup, which Hamilton won 21-10.

Irish Troops Leave April 11

DUBLIN (AP) — Ireland will send 600 troops to Cyprus as part of the United Nations peace-keeping force on or about April 11, a government announcement said tonight.

Body of Hunter 'Washed Ashore'

PRINCE RUPERT (CP) — The body of seal hunter Fred Auchland, Jr., was found today washed ashore at Ryan Point, 10 miles north of here. His empty skiff was washed up nearby. Auchland left his home at Matkalaka village, six miles north here Monday.

Wasylenchuk Murder Trial Opens

SEATTLE (AP) — John Wasylenchuk, 51, Canadian ex-convict, went on trial in U.S. district court today charged with robbery and murder in a Seattle bank hold-up in which a Seattle policeman was killed.

Wasylenchuk, whose extradition to the U.S. after his arrest in Burnaby, B.C., caused an uproar in the Canadian Parliament, appeared confident as he walked into the courtroom.

NO CLAIM FOR SUCCESS

Greek, Turks Agree
On Finn Mediator

(Times News Services) — GENEVA — Both Greek and Turkish Cypriots today welcomed the nomination of a Finnish diplomat and former premier, Sakari S. Tuomioja as mediator of the Cyprus issue, but said there is no assurance his arrival will ease the existing tension.

Greece, Turkey and Britain also approved Tuomioja. A dispatch from Nicosia said leaders of the Greek-Cypriot and Turkish-Cypriot communities are more concerned now over the role of the UN peace force which is not yet operational.

A spokesman for President Archbishop Makarios said the Greek leader has no objection to the naming of Tuomioja to find a political solution.

The Turkish leader, Vice-President Fazil Kutchuk, said he welcomed the nomination. UN Secretary-General U Thant needed only their formal approval before making the appointment.

Tuomioja, 52, a veteran economist and Finland's ambassador to Sweden, sat in on Thant's tense negotiations here to find a basis for peace talks between the feuding Cyprus communities.

SPINELLI ARRIVES — Thant's personal representative in Cyprus, Pier Spinnelli of Italy, arrived in Geneva early today from Nicosia.

Lt.-Gen. P. S. Gyam of India, the commander of the UN force, flew from Geneva to Cyprus tonight.

In Nicosia, Greek and Turkish-Cypriots completed an exchange of hostages arranged by British authorities.

Turkish Cypriots had said earlier they would hold seven Greek-Cypriots captured Monday from a bus at Louroujina about 5 miles east of Nicosia, until two Turkish-Cypriots were freed by the Greek-Cypriots.

The seven arrived early today at Larnaca and the two Turkish Cypriots were taken home to Louroujina in a British armored car.

Three other Greek Cypriot hostages also were released Monday night.

Runsay Lights Out, RCAF Holding Man

MONTREAL (UPI) — The RCAF today were holding an unidentified man who was picked up at the nearby St. Hubert, Que., base Monday night after 14 runway lights were discovered broken.

The air force said that information on the case at this stage was "classified" and the matter was being studied by Defence Minister Hellyer's office in Ottawa. He declined to say whether sabotage was suspected or whether the man was connected in any way with recent acts of terrorism in Quebec.

The man told air force police he had "lost his way" and wandered on to the air base.

Canada Rejects Scheme
For World Trade Body

(Times News Services) — GENEVA — External Affairs Minister Paul Martin today declared Canada's opposition to a new world trading body, asking instead for the "preservation and development" of basic trade rules and institutions that have been built up since the Second World War.

Speaking as the first representative of the industrialized countries at the world trade and development conference, Martin also listed seven ways in which the richer countries could help the poorer ones—including the abolition of tariffs and other restrictions on tropical foodstuffs and industrial raw materials.

Martin spoke after Raul Prebisch, Argentine United Nations economist and secretary-general of the conference, attacked the "fundamental weakness of the entire postwar" trading structure.

He called for formation of an international trading organization which would have powers to regulate world commerce.

Martin's statement outlined ways in which Canada would be willing to join to give developing countries "a better opportunity of competing on terms which would bring into play their natural advantages as efficient producers of certain commodities and manufactures."

He said in general, Canada was opposed to the creation of a new independent world trade organization, and would prefer to adapt the existing machinery—the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade—to make it more responsive to the problems of the developing countries.

Many countries, notably Communist and African ones, want a new international organization to supersede GATT which has been criticized as a "rich countries' club."

Martin said the forthcoming "Kennedy round" of tariff-cutting negotiations would "complement the conference."

Martin outlined his seven-point plan in these terms:

1. Canada "will work with other developed countries in eliminating wherever practicable tariffs and other restrictions which obstruct trade in the tropical foodstuffs and industrial raw materials traditionally exported by developing countries."

2. Canada "will work with developing countries and others in trying to improve the conditions of world trade for temperate agricultural products."

3. Products of interest to developing countries, including manufactured and semi-processed materials, should be included in the negotiations without industrialized countries expecting full reciprocity from developing countries for benefits they may derive from these negotiations, Martin said.

4. Canada strongly supports a general removal of quantitative restrictions now impeding imports into developed countries of manufactured goods from developing countries.

5. While approaching the question of references with caution, Canada would be prepared to consider proposals for exchange of regional tariff preferences.

Worth $9,000;
Cash Missing

Blank money orders with a value up to $9,000 were stolen from a Victoria sub-post office overnight Monday.

They were taken in a break-in at A & B Hardware, 650 Burnside West.

The postal money orders were kept in a locked drawer inside a small post office lock-up in the store. The thieves broke into the store by forcing the front door.

Saanich police said a list of the numbers of the money orders will be circulated as soon as possible and meantime warned all merchants to be on guard against cashing them.

The burglars stole the stamp used by the issuing clerk to mark all money orders. Its number is "Vic Sub 30."

TOOK $100 — As well as taking the money orders the burglars got away with $100 cash from the post office and three rifles from the store.

All the money orders are blanks and could be made payable to anyone. Store owner-manager Stan Darlington discovered the break-in when he arrived at work this morning.

MacArthur 'Serious'

WASHINGTON (AP) — General of the Army Douglas MacArthur was reported in serious condition today.

The 84-year-old general underwent emergency surgery Monday night at Walter Reed Hospital.

Hospital spokesmen today passed on this report from Brig. Gen. Henry S. Murphy, hospital commandant:

"He MacArthur is cognizant of his surroundings. He is talking. But he is seriously ill."

Threats on Queen
'Vicious Propaganda'

Times Ottawa Bureau — OTTAWA — New threats against the life of the queen were described today as "vicious propaganda" by Prime Minister Pearson.

He declared the threats—the latest reportedly have come from members of the "Army For The Liberation of Quebec"—would not force cancellation or postponement of the Queen's scheduled visit to Quebec City this fall.

"It would be shameful to surrender to this kind of minority and vicious propaganda," an angry Mr. Pearson told the Commons.

He was vigorously applauded by MPs on all sides of the house. The question of the threats was raised by Harold Winch (NDP—Vancouver East).

Quoted Monday's editions of the Montreal newspaper, Le Devoir, as reporting that some members of the ALQ said the Queen should not visit Canada unless she wanted to become the first British sovereign to die on Quebec soil.

Mr. Winch asked the prime minister if the government was paying special attention to the threats, and whether it had plans for taking complete security measures during the Queen's visit.

The Vancouver MP noted that "just one fanatic" had been successful in assassinating President Kennedy last November.

Mr. Pearson said he had not heard of the latest threat but said he considered it "a very vicious one, but representing only a very small minority of the people of Quebec."

"I am aware that a small minority, even of one, can do a lot of damage," he said, "I can assure the House that when her majesty comes to Canada she will receive every protection possible, and I am sure her visit will be a happy and a safe one."

LJB TELLS LABOR

'Force Not Answer In Nuclear Age'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson said today a general war would be impossible in this nuclear age, and that nations must follow "reasoned agreement instead of ready aggression" in dealing with global problems.

Departing from his prepared text in addressing a labor convention, Johnson said some people often urge him to send in troops when an international crisis flares.

"There may have been a time that the commander-in-chief could order soldiers to march," at the first sign of a crisis, he said.

But, he said, "the world has changed and so has the method of dealing with disruptions of the peace."

Mentioning some current world trouble spots, Johnson said he hoped some agreement could be worked out with Panama over the Panama Canal dispute, and is hopeful that civil strife on the island of Cyprus could soon be ended by agreement.

In Cuba, he said, a crisis was averted when the water to the U.S. Guantanamo naval base was cut off by Fidel Castro's regime.

This was done, he said, "not by a battalion of marines—by one thing... instead we sent in a single admiral to turn the water off."

By cutting off the water line into the U.S. naval base, Johnson said, "a source of danger had been removed." The naval base is now being supplied with water by tankers.

Speaking of Viet Nam, Johnson said divergent voices urged various courses such as broadening the war against Communist guerrillas, more appeasement or even retreat.

Johnson said "we stand ready to help the Vietnamese preserve their independence... and keep them from being engulfed by communism."

Johnson, speaking before the Building and Construction Trades Department of the AFL-CIO, said:

"We are the most powerful nation in the world and we can afford to be patient."

But, he added, power brings obligations, and the people of the world expect more from the strongest nation on earth "than just a show of brute force."

Play Goes on CBC

OTTAWA (CP) — The CBC has decided to go ahead with the television showing of the play "The Open Grave" which raised a Commons storm Monday, State Secretary Lamontagne announced today.

DUNCAN — The B.C. coastal area will get a salt water sports fishing advisory committee, it was revealed Monday.

Members of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of V.I. were told at their annual convention in Duncan that Federal Fisheries Minister Robichaud expects to make an announcement on its representation "within the next month or two."

Fisheries committee chairman Robert Wright of Victoria said the minister's announcement is by far the most important result of a series of fishing recommendations made at the 1963 ACCVI convention, later adopted in altered form by the B.C. Chamber.

Mr. Wright said Mr. Robichaud disclosed that regulations will be implemented to limit purse seining off B.C. river mouths when young salmon are known to be present.

Trotting will be banned in the Gulf of Georgia in December and January, and fishing will be limited at certain times in the mouth of the Campbell River.

ALBERTA LIMITS — Special catch limits will be implemented in the Alberta area.

Mr. Wright said: "The department has finally become aware of the determination of sports fishermen to have a voice in the operation of our fish resources."

In other business the convention was told tourism help to keep taxes down on V.I., boosts employment and ensures the success of B.C. Ferries.

Tourist committee chairman Sam Lane of Victoria, said the island still needs to educate those who benefit indirectly from tourism.

He said it is not just a selfish few who benefit.

Association president C. W. Laver, of Courtenay, called on chambers to take more interest in municipal affairs, and to attract more members from the professions.

POWER BY FALL

Disclosed at the convention: Bamfield — Electric power may reach the West Coast town next fall through negotiations with a Vancouver private company.

Cumberland — A society is being established to develop Chinatown as a tourist attraction.

Alberni — The city will vote with Port Alberni this year on possible amalgamation.

Nanaimo — Prairie People's Weeks are being planned for July by Nanaimo and other up-island chambers to attract Prairie people here.

Able-Bodied Should Work For Welfare

DUNCAN — Vancouver Island chambers of commerce have called for legislation allowing municipalities to make welfare recipients work for their payments.

The resolution, made at the Associated Chambers of Commerce of V.I. annual convention here Monday, applies to able-bodied males.

There was little opposition from delegates.

They proposed that the recipients get prevailing union rates, and that measures be included to prevent municipalities from using such people in place of regular staff.

A similar scheme initiated last year by Courtenay was forbidden by the federal government.

The present scheme, said Parksville Chamber delegate Dudley Wickert, encourages a second generation to accept welfare as a way of life.

He said it kills initiative. Neville Shanks of Campbell River said the move is a negative approach and "far too simple an answer."

He said it would lead to re-institution of the work camps of the 1930s.
